AT FARMER'S,

SEE MARKET-STREET WINDOWS,

BEAUTIFUL AND ORIGINAL CREATIONS

This exhibition, whilst it is sure to prove intensely interesting to lovers of dress, represents only a few of the many beautiful and original creations to be found in our Showrooms, designed and manufactured in Paris and London for Farmer's, for exclusive wear at our great Race Carnival and other Society Functions.

None of these designs and colourings can be easily copied, so that purchasers may rely on the distinction which the charm and individuality of these garments impart. And the prices are such that the most economically-minded will consider moderate.

MODEL IN NATURAL TUSSORE,

A distinguished Paris Model, in Natural Tussore Silk of rich quality, designed collarless, with square yoke of fine Venice Lace, brightened with a narrow surround of Paisley Silk. The distinguishing and charming feature of this fascinating creation is the richly braided embroidered design carried out on yoke; corsage and upper part of skirt relieved with raised floss silk embroidered flowers, all in tone of material; short sleeves, embroidered to correspond. An ideal Race and Function Gown.

DISTINCTIVE RACE CREATION,

In Champagne French Cloth, in combination with Silk Crochet Fish Net over rich Silk. This charming combination is the design of an eminent French artist, as one may easily discern in the beautifully-modelled lines of the gown. The yoke is of Ivory Net and Lace, with plastron of metallic net, and corsage adorned with crossband of handsome Guipure Lace. The waist and top of skirt and short sleeves are carried out in Crochet Fish Net, with wide inlet band of Guipure Lace encircling skirt at knees, from which is draped the flowing flounce of linen cloth. A costume at once strikingly handsome and smart.

SEE MARKET-STREET WINDOW.

RECHERCHE VIENNA COAT AND SKIRT,

In Natural Siam Silk (firm texture), ¾ collarless coat, lined rich silk. The striking and attractive feature is the fashionable vest of figured Cretonne, in Vieux Rose, in contrast with a light ground in effective contrast. The Coat and Skirt is further adorned with ornamental buttons, and is an example of Vienna tailoring at its best.

FRENCH LINEN COATS AND SKIRTS,

SEE PITT-STREET WINDOW.

There are two designs in French White Linen Coats and Skirts, richly embroidered raised flowers, intermingling with braid trimming. Coats are ¾-length, unlined. The Costumes are perfectly cut and fixed; the seams are only tacked, so that Costumes can be fitted and finished at no further expense to purchasers. Two qualities.

PRICE, 7 and 8½ guineas.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENTS.

GAS COOKING DEMONSTRATIONS. RALEIGH'S NEW PARAGON (ENAMELLED OR PLAIN), SCHOOL OF ARTS, PITT STREET, SYDNEY, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, AT 2.30 P.M. GRAND DISPLAY OF HIGH-CLASS PASTRY COOKING. TWO NEW PARAGONS IN OPERATION. ALSO AN ENGLISH GAS STOVE. THE STARTLING SWISS ROLL TEST. COOKING WITHOUT GAS.
THE GREAT RING TEST.
SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.
In order to prove the great heat-retaining properties of "RALEIGH'S NEW PARAGON," M. Raleigh will on Wednesday, the 28th instant, place half-gallon of water in the PARAGON after the gas is turned off, and raise the temperature of the water from 60 to 140 degrees in fifteen minutes. He will place a SWISS ROLL in the "Paragon" (the gas being turned off), and cook it beautifully top and bottom in four minutes, timed by the clock in the hall.
CHALLENGE.
If any gas company or other importers of gas stoves can raise the temperature of half-gallon of water from 60 to 140 degrees (with the gas turned off) in fifteen minutes, M. Raleigh will donate FIFTY POUNDS to the Sydney Infirmary. Here is a grand chance for some of our clever men to distinguish themselves. We have some smart men in Sydney to-day who profess to know all about gas stoves, but they would spoil with the same authority on a rat trap, a feeding bottle, an eight-day clock, a porous plaster, a cross-cut saw, or a wooden leg. If Nature intended an individual to ornament the box seat of a hearse he will never set the harbour on fire as an authority on gas stoves.
MAAW KONSCHENCE.

CHAPTER II.

Portsmouth Lodge is utterly unlike any other house in the neighbourhood of Ballymoy. It would probably win first prize in all Connacht for the best-kept homestead, if such rewards were offered by social reformers for competition among landlords and professional men. Nowhere out of England itself would it be possible to find gravel more carefully raked than Major Kent's; ivy better clipped; fences with more rigid wires; gates and doors which glisten with brighter paint. The interior of the house is quite as exquisite as its surroundings. The linoleum which covers the hall is always slippery, and on certain days in the week smells strongly of beeswax and turpentine. No chair is allowed to remain long out of its appointed place in any room. "The Times" and the local paper, which supply the major with reading matter, are laid together folded into correct parallelograms on a polished table in the study. Numerous receptacles for tobacco ashes are to be found in every room. Fire grates, even in winter when the turf is blazing in them, are sacred from cigar ends. The havoc occasioned by a visit from Meldon, a lamentably untidy person, is set right with sweeping brushes and dusters immediately after his departure.

Major Kent inherits from his grandfather, the first of the family who settled in Ireland, an English fondness for neatness. It took him years to educate his housekeeper, Mrs. O'Halloran, into a proper respect for his ideas of household management. Being a woman of strong common sense, she had a great contempt for her master's fads; but she yielded to him and was compensated for the discomfort of the unnatural kind of life she was obliged to live by the pleasure she found in making generations of subordinate handmaidens acutely miserable. Fresh from their pleasantly untidy homes, they could not understand what Mrs. O'Halloran desired of them, and suffered, not always patiently, in the effort to learn the difference between a thing which is clean and a thing which has been given a "rub over."

Meldon walked into the major's study, kicking two mats crooked on his way. He disarranged, before sitting down in it, a deep armchair. He stretched out his legs and put the heels of his boots on the brass bar of the fender, a grave offence, which would hardly have been passed over without a hint of rebuke if it had been committed by anyone except Meldon.

"Now," he said, "bring out that letter, major, and let me get at this mysterious trouble of yours."

The letter, a long one, written closely over four sides of a sheet of notepaper, was handed to him.

"It's written," said the major, "from Melbourne, but you'll see that my sister expects to be in England by the time I get it."

"Thank you," said Meldon. "Your sister, I suppose, lives in Australia?"

"She does. She went out with her husband and has been living on a sheep farm for the last twenty-two years, in fact ever since she was married. This is her first trip home."

Meldon read the letter carefully, spread it out on his knee, and proceeded to give the major an abstract of its contents.

"Your sister," he said, "is coming home. She proposes to spend a month or perhaps more in visiting the capitals of the principal European States in the company of her husband. That's all clear so far, I hope."

"Yes," said the major, "that's clear enough. I'm not complaining of any difficulty in understanding the letter. Margaret was always able to make her meaning quite plain; too plain sometimes."

"She brings with her a daughter, of whom she writes as 'Marjorie,' and occasionally 'dear Marjorie.' She intends to send this Marjorie to stay with you here in Portsmouth Lodge, while she enjoys herself in Paris, Vienna, and Rome. That, in a few words, is the news which her letter conveys. Now what is your grievance?"

"My grievance! My dear J.J., what am I to do with a girl? How can I keep her here? I'm not accustomed to girls. I am constitutionally unfitted to deal with them."

"In my opinion, major, you're an uncommonly lucky man. Here you have pressed on you what many men spend half their lives trying to get, the companionship of a really charming, quite natural and unaffected young lady. Instead of dancing with joy as any ordinary man would, you go about with a face as long as if the chestnut filly had thrown out a splint."

"That's all very fine for you. You're accustomed to charming young ladies. I'm not. Besides, how do you know that she is a young lady? For all Margaret says in the letter she may be a baby in arms, or a long-legged, shy creature of fifteen. For the matter of that, what ground have you for saying that she's charming, natural and unaffected?"

"I'll take your points one by one, major. You ask how I know she's a grown-up young lady. I don't actually know her age, but you said that your sister had been twenty-two years married, from which I infer that her eldest daughter must be twenty or twenty-one."

"How do you know that Marjorie is the eldest daughter?"

"She must be. There may be an elder son, though that's not likely. If there had been, your sister would have brought him home with her instead of the girl. But in any case, even if there is a son, Marjorie must be at least 19, and a girl of that age is always considered to be grown up. I say with confidence," he went on in an explanatory tone, "that she's the eldest daughter because she's obviously called after her mother. If there had been an elder one she'd have been Marjorie, which is an abbreviation of Margaret, and this one would have been Susan or Millicent or something else. That disposes of your first point. Next, as to her being natural and unaffected. She has been brought up, according to your account, on a sheep farm. How could a growing child have a more unaffected companion than a sheep? Your niece has probably played with dear little woolly lambs ever since she was old enough to play with anything. She can't be anything else but natural. You may take my word for it that she'll turn out exactly like Lucy in Wordsworth's poem, who 'dwelt among untrodden ways, beside the streams of Dove.' Ballymoy will be a metropolis to her and a travelling circus a wild joy. As for her being charming, that follows from her being perfectly natural. Everything natural is charming. Besides, she probably takes after her mother, and your sister must have had a certain amount of charm or else Purvis wouldn't have married her."

"She wasn't in the least charming," said the Major. "She was what I should call dictatorial."

"You may not have appreciated her charm, but it was there all the same. Otherwise, as I said, Purvis wouldn't have married her. You must give Purvis credit for some sense, Major. A man like that who has shown himself capable of making money out of sheep farming, which is a difficult business, money enough to go travelling all over the continent of Europe, can't possibly have been such a fool as to marry a woman who didn't attract him."

"Well, supposing you're right, and you may be for all I can tell—supposing she is all you say, that only makes things much worse. What on earth am I to do with a charming young lady of 21 in a place like this? How am I to entertain her?"

"Dont' let that get between you and your sleep. I'll entertain her for you. I'll be getting my holidays almost at once, and I'll not go away except for a week just to see my own little girl. I'll stay here in Ballymoy and entertain your niece."

"No, you won't," said the Major firmly. "I couldn't, I simply daren't face Margaret if she heard that I'd allowed the girl to spend the summer flirting with the curate."

"She might do a great deal worse," said Meldon. "But, as a matter of fact, I don't mean to flirt with her. You forget that I'm engaged to be married. I wouldn't flirt with anyone. What I propose to do is to take her out for rides and get up picnic teas and boating parties and play lawn tennis with her. Don't you fret about her, Major. She'll enjoy her time all right."

"I haven't a room in my house fit to put a girl into. The place is furnished for men, not girls. I don't even know what a girl would want in a bedroom."

"A girl doesn't want anything particular. Give her any ordinary furniture and she'll manage along. I know girls well."

"I thought," said the Major, "that they might require long looking glasses, and patent wire frames for fitting dresses on to, and special lamps for heating curling tongs at. I know I've seen those things advertised."

"She'll bring everything of that sort along with her. She won't expect to have them provided for her, any more than you'd expect to find a razor strop and a trousers stretcher laid out for you in the bedroom of a strange house in which you happened to be staying."

"Then there's Mrs. O'Halloran. I don't know what she'll say. I am sure she'll object strongly. Perhaps she'll leave, and then where should I be?"

"If you're afraid of Mrs. O'Halloran, I'll tackle her for you. Ring the bell and I'll do it at once. Or wait, is there any point you'd like to have cleared up before Mrs. O'Halloran comes in?"

"OUR MISS GIBBS."

"Our Miss Gibbs," produced at Her Majesty's Theatre on Saturday night for the first time in Australia, may be summed up in a phrase as a typical Gaiety piece. The music, by Ivan Caryll and Lionel Monckton, is light, pleasing, and insignificant; the lyrics, by Adrian Ross and Percy Greenback, are smart; and the story, constructed by James T. Tanner, shoots forth its tender leaves of sentiment at long intervals—so long, indeed, that the listener begins to perceive that though there are lovers, there is a world (of jokes, and specialties, and nonsense) between their meetings, separations, and final union. In the interpretation the honours were carried off by Mr. Bertie Wright, a genuinely comical figure as a Yorkshire bandsman spending a few days in London; Mr. Langford Kirby, as the Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint, a fatuous dude in riding gear, who announces himself as "the famous amateur crook, the absolute It"; and Miss Blanche Browne, an actress from England of refinement and charm, passable always as singer and dancer because she possesses the art of keeping within her own modest limits, and distinguished by a capacity for tender emotion rarely found in an exponent of Gaiety parts.

The new piece was magnificently put on, with any number of costly modern costumes, and scenery by Messrs. Little, Board, and John Gordon. The lastnamed was responsible for the enchanting second tableau, reproducing the Court of Honour at the Franco-British Exhibition. The white buildings of Mohammedan-Indian character, with their turrets, domes, and minarets, against the deep blue Eastern sky, furnished a wonderful background to the moving masses of kaleidoscopic colour on the stage in front, and by an ingenious electrical arrangement, devised by Mr. Povah (stage electrician), the facade was picked out in myriad lights, which increased in an exciting crescendo from a glowing pin's point to a dazzling blaze, when the effect was warmly applauded by the crowded house. "Our Miss Gibbs" proved in every way a vivacious entertainment, and with its many supplementary aids to success, so evidently caught the fancy of the audience that the J. C. Williamson Opera Company is certain to be found playing it for many weeks to come.

The story opens at Garrod's Stores, and, lest Gaiety patrons should be reminded of "The Shopgirl," there is a novel arrangement by which the spectators see the vestibule of the stores, and the millinery showroom on the first floor, which forms a gallery, surrounded by a gilded balustrade. Dashing into the middle of things without a pause, bridesmaids in blush-pink and hyacinth-colour vow that they'll "follow the bride to the altar." Indeed, the demure yet dauntless six, as they twist their parasols to a joyous little melody, crisply rendered under Mr. Andrew M'Cunn's baton, look capable of anything! The allusion is to the engagement between young Lord Eynsford and Lady Elizabeth Thanet. The latter part falls to Miss Alma Barber, newly returned from her experiences at the Savoy Theatre, who was warmly recognised upon her return from England, and made good use of her voice, more especially in "Arms and the Man" (encored), a pretty song daintily scored with muted strings, reeds, and flutes, to which six happy pairs in the background furnished harmonious action. The Lady Elizabeth enters the stores with the fixed intention of ordering "a silent tomb," for she loves not Eynsford, and is love-inclined towards Pierrepoint, to the great disgust of her mother, the terrible Duchess of Minster, whose formidable presence and manner are cleverly accentuated by Miss Fitzmaurice Gill. Young Lord Eynsford falls to Mr. Andrew Higginson, who was effectively ardent and sincere in his love-making, and tastefully rendered "My Yorkshire Lassie," a captivating little song with pizzicato phrases and ringing bells in the accompaniment.

Mr. Bertie Wright has probably made the success of his career as Timothy Gibbs, a Yorkshire rustic, who wanders about London with a huge euphonium under his arm, pleading to be allowed a few bars from "The Death of Nelson," just to show how well he can play it! Mr. Wright's bucolic stare, his eyes positively bulging with wonder and innocence, his spontaneous humour, and his inextinguishable individuality, keep the audience in roars of laughter. In fact, he revels in one of those star parts in which innumerable disguises and weird happenings afford fruitful opportunity for fun. The "second euphonium in the Besses Band" has wandered into Garrod's stores "in a guinea suit from Abraham's" to search out his cousin, Miss May Gibbs, and very soon he is seen sharing the honours with Miss Blanche Browne of the duet, "Country Cousins." Timothy amorously trying to cross Cheapside with his cousin, Timothy taking her to a music-hall, and Timothy in a most laughable imitation of a novice learning to rink, convulsed the audience. There was another duet with Miss Browne, "Our Farm," in which the lady came more to the front in a haunting little melody in which both artists unisonally showed a delightfully crisp enunciation of their words. Timothy was also laughable as a bath-chair attendant and as a runner in singlet and racing pants, mistaken for Dorando, and generally gave himself and the audience a good time.

Mr. Langford Kirby was ludicrously conspicuous as Hughie Pierrepoint, an amateur society thief, after the manner of Raffles, who has the Ascot Gold vase securely in his bag, which he accidentally changes with Tim, who, in turn, is bamboozled into lending it to Slithers, a professional "crook." Slithers promises to take the vase to the Safe Deposit Company, but leaves the number of the key, "59,403," with Timothy, and the latter only has to goggle his eyes and repeat this number in happy meditation, or to blow his huge bugle for the return of the absent Slithers, to make the "gods" nearly tumble over into the stalls with laughter! Mr. Kirby is inimitable in the scene in which Slithers, very cleverly played by Mr. Fred. Leslie, who has become quite a conjuror, takes lessons in sleight-of-hand from the real Simon pure. Mr. Kirby made a hit with the song "Hughie," and both he and Miss Browne were playfully satirical in the duet, "Not that Sort of Person."

Messrs. Langmore and Wright have a comic scene, "You Come and Stay With Me," which begins in song and ends in an attempt to tell each other a good story across, and sometimes in the lap of an austerely prim young lady, who doesn't share their merriment at all, and sends them out "the icy stare." This also quickly broke-up a completely demoralised house. The evening was long, and stuffed with disconnected jocosity; but if fevered memory serves aright, the funny story somehow joined-on to a truly wonderful acrobatic pas de deux by Mr. Leslie and handsome Miss Ivy Schilling. Encores were insisted upon, and the audience roared their applause.

Mr. Claude Bantock is altogether to be congratulated upon his genial portrait of the kindly, unaffected old Earl of St. Ives. The scene of sentiment with Miss Gibbs was quite touchingly put in amidst all that hurly-burly of nonsense—wherefore Miss Browne may be recognised as a hopeful candidate for comedy honours in the future. Mr. D. P. O'Connor was excellent as the manager (Mr. Topladly), Miss Florence Vie's broad humour gave point to a few smart sayings as Mrs. Farquhar. Miss Nellie Wilson hit off the Gallic accent vivaciously as the imposing Mme. Jeanne, and Mr. Arthur Hunter (Mr. Beavis), Mr. Colin Campbell (a taxi-cabby), and Mr. Ion Maxwell (Mr. Amalfy) were all in place.

THE CARRENO RECITALS.

Madame Carreno on Saturday night at her fourth concert in the Town Hall gave a programme which included the Chopin B Minor Concerto (Op. 58) and Tschaikowsky's Concerto in B flat minor (the latter played with Herr Benno Scherek at the second piano). Added to these were a Beethoven rondo, Schumann's "Vogel als Prophet," Liszt's arrangement of "The Erl King," and a Rubinstein group of three numbers, as well as one or two small pieces thrown in to satisfy the audience's insatiable desire to hear more and more of the great pianiste. The Tschaikowsky concerto is not an easy one to follow in the circumstances in which it was performed, but it was listened to with interest from start to finish, and in its place in the programme it was an admirable exposition of the wonderful power of Madame Carreno in sustaining the demands made upon her. Although the hour was late when the last bars were heard, she graciously acceded to the thunders of a recall, and before commencing the Rubinstein selection sat down at the instrument, and as an extra played the much diversely interpreted little melody by that composer in F in her own beautiful style. The "Fausse Note" study was the last item on the programme, but yet another was added ere the audience dispersed. The enthusiasm was tremendous, Madame Carreno receiving an ovation, which was worked up to a boundless pitch towards the end as one delightful rendition followed another. So much were her hearers roused that the charming "Butterfly" study of Chopin had to be played twice, its fascinations in these skilled hands being irresistible.

It is announced that three farewell concerts have been arranged, the first of which is to take place on October 11.

SYDNEY HOME FOR BABIES.

Miss Grace Stafford, with the co-operation of her pupils and friends, including one or two artists interested in the Sydney Home for Babies, organised a simple but enjoyable entertainment in aid of that institution at St. James's Hall on Saturday afternoon. The little girls presented a series of tableaux illustrating "Home they Brought her Warrior Dead;" there were graceful dances by the pupils of Miss Griffiths, and six of the girls joined cleverly in "Babies' Burdens," reciting the disabilities of infantile routine from the afflicted baby's point of view; whilst action-songs on nursery rhymes were also prettily carried out. The one-act play, "Lady Cecil," and the comedy, "His Good Genius," both won acceptance, and especial applause was won by Misses M. Craig-Smith, S. Gray, and [illegible] Gray in the latter. Miss Nita Leete kindly assisted by singing with much feeling Trevalsa's "My Treasure," for which the full-voiced contralto was warmly encored, and, in the absence of Miss Gertrude Gilliam with "The Arcadians" in Melbourne, Baby Watson, an admirable child performer, contributed character songs. Miss Dorothy Beale assisted sympathetically as vocalist in the incidental music, and Miss D. Green played the overture.

AMUSEMENTS.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

Though suffering from a severe cold, Gracie Graham, rather than disappoint her old Sydney friends, went on at the Tivoli on Saturday. She has brought with her a number of new songs, which follow pretty closely on the style of the ones she made so popular whilst on her last visit here. One fault which was very noticeable, however, was a pronounced Cockney twang, evidently acquired during her sojourn in England. Tom Dawson's act was irresistibly humorous. Time and again he was compelled to pause in his songs to allow his audience to have their laugh out. He was called back time after time. The novel juggling of Morris Cronin and his clever assistants was performed with the usual finished ease which one unconsciously expects from these nonchalant experts. A demonstration of the capabilities of a model aeroplane, built by Mr. Newman, a young Australian engineer, was given on the stage. The same performers as those appearing last week supplied the remainder of the programme.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

Bar-bells and weights of all descriptions, ranging from the small 28-pounder to the huge bar-bell weighing 200lb, cumbered the stage of the National Amphitheatre on Saturday night during the turn of Mounier and Franz, a couple of beautifully-developed specimens of the light-weight athlete. The ease with which they toy with the seemingly awkward weights is surprising. They never make a mistake, to do so would on many occasions be attended with serious risk to the performer. At the conclusion of the turn a number of spectators from the audience flocked on to the stage and wrestled with the 200lb bar-bell, which had but a moment before been hoisted arm-high by Franz, in the hope of obtaining the £20 prize offered by the management. Armstrong and Verne appeared in a different act, which went as big as their former one. Other turns which stood out prominently were those of Gertie Johns, the two Kranks, the two Raleighs, the Lewis Sisters, Stella Reid, the National Duo, and Ernest Pitcher.

"THE NIGHT OF THE PARTY."

The plan for "The Night of the Party" season, to be inaugurated at the Criterion Theatre on Saturday night next, will be opened at Elvy's this morning. Messrs. Clarke and Meynell will introduce Mr. George Willoughby and his new English Farcical Comedy Company in the piece in question, which has been played with success in many parts of the world.

"BESSES O' TH' BARN" BAND.

The "Besses o' th' Barn" Band arrived here yesterday, after their long and successful tour of the west, and this evening they will open their short farewell season under Messrs. J. and N. Tait's management at the Town Hall. A fine programme of popular operatic pieces and march numbers will also include one or two of the hymn-tunes which the "Besses" render so beautifully. The remaining evening concerts will be to-morrow, Thursday, and Friday, with a matinee (only) on Wednesday. On Wednesday night the band will play at Ashfield. The plan is at Paling's.

THE CALVE FAREWELL.

Mme. Calve, who is now on her way here from Wellington, will make her farewell appearance in Sydney at the Town Hall on Saturday evening, when the programme will be planned so as to enable the diva to appear in operatic scenes in costume. Messrs. J. and N. Tait will thus afford music-lovers here an opportunity of seeing this great singer for the first time under dramatic conditions. The scenes from "Carmen," with Signor Gasparri, will be the principal attraction, and the star soprano will also sing the grand aria from "La Reine de Saba," Gounod's "Ave Maria," and other numbers. M. Jacques Pintel will be the solo pianist. The plan will open at Paling's on Wednesday morning.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL CONCERT.

On Tuesday, October 18, a concert of especial interest will be given at the Town Hall in aid of the Children's Hospital. Influential committees are at work to ensure the financial success of this musical entertainment, which cannot fail to prove artistically attractive in the hands of Miss Margaret Thomas (Mrs. Alexander Gordon), Mrs. Ewan Fraser, Messrs. Andrew Black, Henri Staell, Harold Whittle, and Ernest Truman.

"LOVERS' LANE" COMPANY.

The "Lovers' Lane" Company, which sails for Auckland on Wednesday, in prosecution of an extended tour of New Zealand, wound up its season at the Theatre Royal on Saturday, amidst so much enthusiasm that Mr. Harry Plimmer was forced to meet the situation with a speech on behalf of Mr. Allan Hamilton, Mr. Reynolds Denniston, and himself. He thanked the audience for their cordial appreciation of the idyllic comedy, and the Sydney press for expressing so unanimously their approval of the artistic venture in question by a new firm. The actor-manager, who was warmly applauded, also acknowledged courtesies extended by J. C. Williamson, Ltd., during the brief season.

BIJOU THEATRE.

The Bijou Theatre has a special programme of pictures. It comprises many high standard films, and changes every Monday night. The dramatic series are exciting, and command interest, whilst the comic are funny enough to make the most serious person laugh. The theatre was full on Saturday, and the star film, "Midnight Cupid," was admirably approved of as a dramatic subject. The favourite comic film was "He Strode His Tree." "Tunny Fishing" and "A Chinese Town" were splendid scenic pictures.

STANDARD THEATRE.

On Saturday night the Standard Theatre was very well patronised, and almost every artist received well-merited applause. Tom Bryant proved himself a skilful juggler and axe swinger. Other performers include comedians and serios, who altogether complete an excellent vaudeville entertainment. The suburban circuit this week will be:—Monday, Auburn; Tuesday, Leichhardt; Wednesday, Newtown; Thursday, Ashfield; Friday, Randwick.

VICTORIA THEATRE.

"An Indian Girl's Romance" and "The Ironworkers' Strike" are the most interesting dramatic pictures now being shown at the Victoria Theatre. "Compromised by a Key" and "A Midnight Cupid" are comedies which brought forth volumes of laughter. A very instructive scenic picture, "Impressions of Venice," [illegible] illustrates the wonderful beauty of that Italian city.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

"The Indian's Gratitude" is the star moving picture at the Empire Theatre, Oxford-street. The subject is an exciting one, and its termination was greeted with hearty applause. "The Slave's Sacrifice" is another dramatic film worthy of special mention. Many comic pictures are also included in the programme.

SIGNOR DE BEAUPUIS' MATINEE.

Signor De Beaupuis' matinee at Paling's concert hall on Saturday afternoon crowded the salon, quite a number of advanced piano-students showing sufficient temperament and technical aptitude to keep the visitors well entertained. This was especially the case with Miss Bessie Robertson, who opened the programme with the first movement of the Chopin "Concerto in E minor" (Signor De Beaupuis rendering the orchestral part on a second piano), and that young pianist also joined successfully with Miss Sadie Fester in duets by Moszkowski at the end of the programme. Miss Mary Deane, who won the medal at the Commonwealth Eisteddfod last year, rendered ably Liszt's "Second Polonaise," and Misses Rose O'Neill, Edith Bennett, Winnie Morse, Masters Willie Fletcher, Roy Agnew, and Norman Pickering, also assisted. The lastnamed, as encore, rendered with Signor De Beaupuis the duet, "Ninon," by d'Orso.

NORTH SYDNEY COLISEUM.

The skating rink at the North Sydney Coliseum, Ridge-street, enjoys an increasing popularity, the three daily sessions attracting numbers of animated patrons of the rink, who take every advantage of the fine floor and the amusement provided.

GRAND OPERA—"CARMEN."

A short season, which is to include "I Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," was commenced with a performance of "Carmen" by Mr. J. C. Williamson's Grand Opera Company at the Theatre Royal on Saturday night. Bizet's fascinating work had on this occasion the inestimable outstanding feature that with one slight exception it was free from an incongruous mixture of tongues, or a varied interpretation of the English language, while the sense of sight had not to be subdued in order that the ear should be accorded favour. The audience was treated to a cast in which the actors were well fitted in appearance, and, meanwhile, the music was not allowed to suffer. Entrancingly as may a prima donna sing and play, the mind is but poorly served should she be heavy and unsightly. A Carmen lavishing charms she does not possess on her soldier lover only renders that unfortunate's case ridiculous when he goes to extremes in his infatuation. So, with Mr. Reginald Roberts well up in the dragoon's uniform, Mr. Arthur Crane, lithe and easy in the black velvet costume of the Toreador; Mdlle. Bel Sorel, Spanish-looking and seductive, with her black hair and eyes, in the scarlet and orange dress of the gipsy; and an altogether charming Michaela in the person of Miss Rosina Buckmann, there was an ensemble obtained such as has not been the case in many recent opera productions. The story was intelligibly told and the picture was unspoilt.

Considerable interest attached to the advent of Mr. Roberts in grand opera. He is known from his work in other paths as sound and reliable, and he proved himself capable of advancing above the heights of the serio-comic, feathery matter with which he has had to deal for so long. He sang the part of Jose well, and played it convincingly enough until the tragic side of it brought its demands upon him. It is fair argument that when a man kills a woman he has loved—still loves, in fact, for Jose's impassioned appeal in the last scene conveys that much—he does it in a burst of insane jealousy; but on the stage it destroys the romantic element of delineation to exaggerate it to that extent, and Mr. Roberts would lose nothing by softening the ferocity with which he made the infatuated soldier threaten and finally stab to death the woman who had bewitched him and flung him aside. The over-acting he was led into in the last act considerably discounted the good impressions left by the admirable treatment of the love scene with Michaela in the first. Miss Buckmann, as the latter, can only be accorded the warmest commendation and congratulation. She looked the part to perfection, and her strong flexible voice and clear enunciation gave the beautiful music of the character its full value. Her advantages were put to the best possible use, and there was no lack of recognition by the audience. Mr. Crane may not, perhaps, have shown that he had the requisite strength and timbre for the favourite Toreador song; but there is little ground for fault-finding generally in his representation of Escamillo. If he did not show himself sufficiently inflamed by the wiles of the enchantress, and was inclined to treat her too calmly, he nevertheless sang his numbers in the other scenes with skill and effect, and the contemptuous bearing of the successful lover towards the discarded one was well maintained. Mdlle. Sorel's Carmen was a repetition of her coquettish and defiant interpretation of the heart-scorching cigarette girl of the former season. She was in her usual good voice and sustained the thoroughness with which her acting is always distinguished. Messrs. Rufus Ferguson, Edward Wynn, Orme Darvall, and Misses Mabel Batchelor and Florence Quin filled the minor parts, the last-named succeeding Miss Buckmann as Mercedes. The chorus and orchestra were admirable. Signor Hazon spares no pains in insuring a complete equipment in this respect, and in an opera where the choral numbers are so important, it is a delight to hear the renditions given with good vocal quality by a band of splendid voices.

"Carmen" will be repeated to-night and to-morrow, with "La Boheme" on Wednesday, in which Miss Amy Castles and Mr. Roberts will appear.

"THE LITTLE BREAD-WINNER."

On Saturday evening Messrs. Hamilton and Maxwell produced at the Palace, for the first time in Sydney, Mr. J. A. Campbell's drama "The Little Bread Winner." The piece comes here with a genuine reputation acquired elsewhere, and though it may not satisfy the lovers of lurid sensation it will appeal strongly to a large contingent of theatregoers as a stage story essentially human in the natural pathos embodied in the central characters. It is well within the category of "child plays," and the author has deftly terminated the self-imposed task of the bright little breadwinner just when her burden threatens to become too acute for the emotions of the audience. Considering how many counter attractions there were on Saturday evening the first production of the new drama was witnessed by an excellent house, and the recalls after each act, together with the cordiality of the demonstration on the final curtain, furnished ample evidence of appreciation.

Though running along the usual lines, the plot of the "Little Breadwinner" has the advantage of probability to support it. Lord William Dorrington (a Quaker philanthropist) is an unbending opponent of horseracing, gambling, and concomitant vices, and his household is ruled by a beneficent despotism, the basic principle of which is puritanical simplicity. Richard Lawrence, Dorrington's adopted son, chafes under the restraint, and secretly patronises the turf. He is engaged to Margaret Daventry, Dorrington's granddaughter, who lives with her relative. Joseph Prior, Dorrington's confidential secretary, is a thorough paced villain at heart. He schemes with Kate Cherry, a domestic, whom he has betrayed, to get rid of Lawrence. Dorrington orders his adopted son to leave his house. Margaret also leaves the shelter of her grandfather's roof, and the first act closes upon a dramatic and well-conceived picture.

When the curtain rings up again 11 years have elapsed. The hero and heroine are married, and have a daughter aged 9 or 10, and they have steadily gone down in the dreary struggle for existence in London until poverty and want have culminated in the loss of Margaret's sight. Charles Prior, brother of the artful Joseph, is eking out a precarious existence with them; and, being thoroughly alive to the rascality of his brother, sets his wits to work for the purpose of thwarting him. In the meantime the hypocrite Joseph has been thriving upon the annexation of a large proportion of Dorrington's money.

In the midst of her depressing surroundings Meg, the youthful breadwinner, remains cheerful and optimistic. She is the "Little Dorritt" of the neighbourhood, and her earnings are by singing in the street and taking in sewing. Dorrington has long ago repented of his harshness. But Joseph manages to persuade Dorrington that his adopted son has become an inveterate drunkard, and though Mrs. Lawrence and her child are taken away to Dorrington Hall the husband remains without the pale of pity and forgiveness. He is imprisoned by Prior, but Charles, assisted by Meg, gain an entrance to the house and effect a sensational rescue of the victim of treachery. When his inevitable exposure takes place the villain is removed in custody, and the drama ends with the wife, whose sight is restored, and husband happily reunited and the repentant Dorrington calling down blessings upon the head of little Meg, the breadwinner, who looks fondly down upon him from a moonlit balcony. This tableau was capitally arranged, and was, as it deserved to be, very heartily applauded.

The drama was very effectively rendered by the company, and Miss Queenie Williams as Meg met all the requirements of a somewhat trying role. In the scene of the poverty-stricken home she fully realised the pathos of the situation, and obviously carried the audience along with her. Her singing and dancing were also good, but it is a pity that she was called upon to take part in the burlesque of "A Royal Divorce," which was merely an excrescence without point or humour. Miss Vera Remee's Margaret Daventry was a refined, graceful, and natural performance, and she was particularly good in the portrayal of Margaret's loyalty to and belief in her intended husband. Miss Katie Towers was a typical Mary O'Rourke, Dorrington's housekeeper, and was responsible for most of the humorous touches in the drama. Miss Mabel Russell and Miss Muriel Dale also gave a satisfactory representation of the sisters Cherry. Miss Maggie Dickenson played well in the boy part of Bobbie Trott. Mr. Max Maxwell had a part that suited him as Richard Lawrence; and nothing but praise can be allotted to Mr. Charles Brown for his handling of the role of Lord William Dorrington. The character is one that might easily have been marred in less able hands. Mr. Richard Bellairs as the treacherous Joseph Prior made quite a hit. He compelled the audience to audibly protest against Joseph's hypocritical assumption of virtue, and therein lay his triumph. Mr. Ronald W. Riley, too, who impersonated Charles Prior, gave a clever sketch of a volatile but true-hearted "sport," whose moral tone was only strengthened by adversity.

"THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME."

"The Chance of a Lifetime," by Nat. Gould, staged at the Criterion Theatre on Saturday night by Mr. William Anderson's Dramatic Company, proved characteristically Gouldian in its atmosphere. The smell of the racing stable was over all. There was a mare that was a marvel of speed; the owner who, while pointing to a long family tree, declared he "would rather marry his trainer's daughter than the grandest lady in the land"; jockeys who were "got at"; and jockeys who, "please God, would always ride straight;" the coolest of calculating villains, who tried to steal the favourite, and succeeded in stealing the Gold Cup; the trainer, who was the embodiment of all sturdy British virtues, and his daughter, who became the charming mistress of Netherby Hall; and a whole stageful of crooks and touts and "followers of the game," both plebeian and aristocratic. And in keeping with the fact that Nat. Gould is one of the best selling authors of to-day, the theatre was full to the doors.

The piece is frankly melodramatic, and its frankness disarms criticism. The story of villainous machinations and ultimately triumphant virtue is sketched in with designedly raw colour; but just as is the case with Gould's books, for those that read them, interest and attention is commanded throughout. The owner of Netherby Hall finds himself compelled to sell his stud, including the last horse of his fading financial fortunes—the wonderful mare Trixie. The villain of the piece, Captain Clinch, attends the sale to buy her. Anything must happen rather than that he should get her, but unless the reserve of £2000 is produced she is his. In the nick of time the Hon. Bob Lovett, a brainless dude, conceives the one great idea of his life—"take the mare upstairs and hide her in your bedroom!" The brilliancy of the suggestion is immediately recognised, Trixie is smuggled into the hall, and, while the auctioneer outside is calling her number, she waits in full view of the applauding audience up the wide flight of stairs into the bedroom. The chagrin of the villain at the spiriting away of the mare is intensified by the trainer's niece producing the reserve, having borrowed the £2000 from Joe Robson, "a good-hearted bookie," who is in love with her. Nevertheless, the villain, who owns the second favourite, bets the hero £10,000 that he won't own the Gold Cup after the race. He unsuccessfully attempts to steal Trixie; then he "buys" her jockey, but the latter, for love of the trainer's daughter, throws him over; so he gives his own jockey a loaded whip, wherewith he is to knock Trixie's rider on the head. Finally he successfully plots the stealing of the Gold Cup during the excitement of the race after the manner of an actual happening on the English turf some time ago. It will be seen that Captain Clinch is a man with the true British quality of never knowing when he is beaten, and the interest of the audience, right up to the time of his inevitable undoing, may be understood.

Mr. Conway Wingfield, who appeared as the owner of Trixie, was accorded a reception that bespoke him an old favourite with the audience, and Miss Harrie Ireland (the trainer's daughter) met with a like greeting. Some of the best work of the evening was done by Mr. Frank Crowley as the charming bookie, and by Mr. Harry Sweeney as the dude. Miss Florence Richter, as Mrs. Edgar, the trainer's niece, portrayed the woman with an unhappy past cleverly, and Miss Lillian Wiseman made a pert and vivacious Lady Betty Lovett. Captain Clinch was rendered an admirably imperturbable villain in the hands of Mr. Frank Gerald; and Mr. C. R. Stanford presented the stanch old trainer acceptably. Mr. Walter Dalgleish, as Trixie's jockey; Mr. Harry Douglas as Ben Blower, one of the Captain's villainous tools; and Messrs. Lance Vane, Reginald Wills, Stirling Whyte, Fred. Kehoe, Hugh Power, and Frank Rosenore in minor characters, were well "in the picture."

The piece was well staged, although some little imperfections, perhaps unavoidably associated with first nights, were noticeable. The two big race scenes, wherein six sleek racehorses are started from a barrier on the stage, and are later seen galloping past the judge's box, were loudly applauded. Trixie herself, who appeared in every act, proved herself a most self-possessed actress, and established herself a favourite in more senses than one. "The Chance of a Lifetime" will be played five more nights.

SPENCER'S THEATRESCOPE.

Every Tuesday night a new programme of moving pictures will be screened at Spencer's Theatrescope. On Saturday night the large audience saw a trial trip of the Australian man-o'-war Yarra. No doubt, when the Yarra does arrive in Australian waters, thousands will flock to the seaside to see what she looks like. Already the patrons of the Lyceum have viewed the Australian man-o'-war, and know exactly what she looks like in the water. Views of the schools' demonstration on the Sydney Cricket Ground were still retained. "Convict No. 796" was billed as a sensational film, and after it was screened it was learned that the description was very apt. "Bootles' Baby" (dramatic) had much intrigue, and a love romance was told. "The Writing on the Wall" is another dramatic subject, illustrating how a young man is saved by a woman's wit. "When Mamma is Out" and "Tontolini at Restaurant" were, perhaps, the best comic films. The orchestra, which is under the baton of Mr. A. Hopkins, rendered music which was very appreciative and appropriate to the various items.

WEST'S PICTURES.

The management of West's Pictures have announced that their programme will change every Monday night, when the new selection of pictures that arrive that day from the Continent will be screened in the evening. On Saturday night the audience was large, practically all the seating accommodation being occupied. The programme consisted of a general collection of subjects, dramatic films being well to the front. Perhaps the best of these were "The Purgation" and "Convict No. 796." Both of these carried exciting, high-pitched situations. For a scenic study "The Regatta on the Mekong" was good. The views were clear, and the movements of the various boats had the realistic touch about them. There were a good many comic items, and as these closely followed a dramatic picture the contrast was largely appreciated. Some of them were exceedingly funny. Favourites were "Foolshead as Chauffeur," "Romeo and Juliet in Our Town," and "Calino's Dinner Party." The appropriate music rendered by De Groen's Vice-Regal Band was a big factor to the success of the pictures.

ROYAL ART SOCIETY.

The students of the Royal Art Society held a highly successful concert on Saturday night at the rooms by way of effectively winding up the exhibition. A large number of people were present. The feature of the evening was the performances of the string orchestra of about 20 pupils of Mr. Mowat Carter, who played Edward German's three dances from "Henry VIII.," "Chanson Triste," by Tschaikowsky, and Weber's "Invitation to the Waltz." Among other noteworthy items were humorous recitations by Mr. Ellis Siles and Mr. Harry Wilkie, songs by Miss Mabel Fotheringham and Mr. Cecil Muston, and a 'cello solo by Mr. Bryce Carter.

FROZEN MEAT EXPORT TRADE.

It is worth while considering how far the shrinkage of America's flocks and herds will affect the Australian meat export trade. The prevailing opinion has been for some time that the shortage is assuming such proportions that the big packing-houses of Chicago are making special efforts to secure control of some of the large Argentine meat works. How far this opinion is correct it is at present somewhat difficult to determine. The one thing which may be regarded as an actual fact is that the American Meat Trust has had its emissaries in Argentina with authority to initiate negotiations in the direction of acquiring some of the works there. So far little is known as to the extent to which these negotiations have been carried. These emissaries have been active, too, in Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, but in these countries no definite business appears to have been done. Should any large acquisition of Argentine works by the trust take place, it is very probable that the bulk of the output will go direct to America to provide for the shortage there. This shortage is very much greater than Americans are willing to admit, and is assuming such proportions that legislative action must shortly be taken to provide for it. The import duty in America is about ¾d per lb, but even with this handicap, plus freight and other charges, meat from Argentina and Australasia can be sold in America considerably below the price of the locally-grown article. If the negotiations of the trust in Argentina should culminate to any large extent in actual business, the output, as we have said, will in all probability be in the direction of America. This would, of course, benefit Australia and New Zealand by diverting large quantities of Argentine meat from the English market. This diversion, coupled with the material shrinkage of English home-produced meat, will operate to the advantage of the Australasian article, and ought to give such an impetus to the trade out here that good prices will be maintained for some considerable time.

There is a growing partiality in England for frozen meats—a partiality that is as unaccountable as was the strong objection to it that prevailed some years ago. Whether this is the result of the improved methods of defrosting which are now in vogue, and which have done so much to preserve the inherent flavour and juices of the meat, it is perhaps difficult to say. It is, however, a well-known fact that frozen meat is now knowingly bought and consumed by people who a few years ago showed the greatest antipathy to it. There is still very much to be done in extending the organisation both here and in London for the proper conduct and expansion of the trade, and much of the future success of the industry will depend upon the nature of that organisation. There are millions of Great Britain's population ready to consume Australian meat, people who rarely have an opportunity of obtaining anything in the shape of good, wholesome meat because of the high prices that are charged for the British-grown article. These people, however, had not had it made evident to them that cheap and excellent meat from the antipodes is within their reach. There are thickly populated districts in England hungering for cheap meat food, and well able to pay for it, where Australian meat is never seen. Why is this? It would seem that the distributing organisation in England is defective. These people have not been reached, and live their lives in utter ignorance of the existence in England of Australian produce. Important as newspaper advertising undoubtedly is, it does not, in a matter such as this, cover all that is required. There must be other methods of getting into touch with the countless thousands who rarely read a newspaper, but who are the very people requiring the cheap meat of Australia. This is the problem to be solved if the meat export trade of the antipodes is to develop to the extent the expanding herds and flocks demand.

The trade with Japan is another phase of the Australasian frozen meat trade which calls for more attention and organisation. Up to the present the shipments of meat to that country have been small and irregular, but the scope for increased business in this direction is enormous. The teeming millions of Japan are largely rice and fish eaters, but within the past two decades, during which the development of Western ideas has become more and more pronounced, the national habits of a big section of the community have become changed in many respects. A recent writer in "Macmillan's Magazine," in the course of an article dealing with his life in Japan, said:—"A trivial example will show how Western habits are ousting even the long-established domestic customs of the Japanese. A few years ago the lower classes in Japan never touched meat; now meat is growing in favour every day as a common article of food, and butchers' shops are springing up everywhere, even in the poorer quarters of the town." One of the difficulties in connection with the frozen meat trade with Japan, as with all other countries where the trade is comparatively new, is the prevailing ignorance as to the proper system of defrosting. Whatever organisation may be established in Japan for the distributing of Australian meat must embrace a simple method of defrosting, otherwise the trade will seriously suffer.

ITEMS.

Shearing is progressing as satisfactorily in the Wagga district as elsewhere. Most of the sheds are full handed, and so far there has been no trouble of any kind with the men.

The Roseworthy Agricultural College's pen of 10 fat lambs at the Adelaide Show, which won the blue ribbon, realised at the sale 57s a piece, an extraordinary price, seeing that the market was well supplied at the time.

One result of the educational efforts in the part of the New Zealand Department of Agriculture was the co-operation of several dairymen to send to America for a high-class pedigree Holstein bull.

The Dalefield Herd-testing Association, New Zealand, has conclusively demonstrated that the systematic use of the scales and Babcock tester has disclosed the unprofitable cows, and shown the animals that keep the herd paying.

King Island melilotus has taken a strong hold on the cultivated land at Mildura, and, being a legume, is increasing the fertility of the soil by fixing the atmospheric nitrogen in the soil. The foliage of the citrus fruit has assumed a richer colour, and the yield has increased considerably.

Three blocks of land situated in the Matong district, having areas of 533, 336, and 651 acres, became available for conditional purchase lease at the Wagga lands office last week. The land was formerly part of a forest reserve, and the capital value is fixed at £2 5s per acre. The reserve contained valuable pine forest, and the Forestry Department, in the interests of revenue, allowed a sawmiller to cut and remove practically the whole of this timber, thus greatly depreciating the value of the blocks.

The local land board at Wagga heard a case last week in which a married woman had bought a selection in the Tarcutta district without finding out whether or not the holding of the property involved any residential conditions. After buying the original selector out the woman went to reside with her husband, quite oblivious of the fact that she was incurring forfeiture. The board recommended the unconditional waiver of forfeiture.

The students from the agricultural classes at the Granville and Sydney Technical Colleges, accompanied by the instructor, Mr. Henry Lord, visited Mr. A. Hills's poultry farm at Bay-street, Botany, on Saturday afternoon, for a practical lesson in breeding, feeding, and rearing poultry.

THE CO-OPERATIVE BOX COMPANY.

Owing to the phenomenal briskness of the building trades in the metropolis, the contract for the building of a factory for the Co-operative Box Co. of New South Wales has been somewhat delayed—both for material and labour—but everything will be in readiness next month. Arrangements have been made for a temporary roofing, under which manufacture on a limited scale has now commenced. The machinery is working satisfactorily, but the full complement of the latest and more modern American boxmaking plant is due in November. The statutory meeting of the shareholders in the above was held on August 29, when there was a satisfactory attendance. The business passed off well, those present expressing gratification at the progress report submitted by directors. Financial matters were satisfactorily arranged. Some of the initial timber cargoes have been on the ground for some weeks, further parcels are arriving at short intervals, and there is ample in sight to the end of October to meet the prospective wants of shareholding factories up to the end of the year. The ballot for directors resulted in the following nine gentlemen being elected: Messrs. D. Faulkner (Singleton), E. Cunningham (Goulburn), J. M'Grath (Cambewarra), J. T. Junor (Casino), J. Richardson (Raymond Terrace), W. R. Baker (Mullumbimby), F. Reading (Bangalow), A. Eggins (Grafton), J. Campbell (Kempsey).

FRUITGROWERS' CONFERENCE.

APATHY OF GROWERS.

ALLEGED JAM-MAKERS' COMBINE.

The sixth annual conference of the Fruitgrowers Unions of New South Wales was held in Sydney on Saturday. Mr. John Neil, president, occupied the chair. The secretary's report showed that during the year some reforms of a beneficial character had been carried out, and various recommendations made to the Government for improvements relating to the carriage of fruit and matters of interstate importance. The union, however, showed no appreciable growth. The election of officers resulted in Mr. Neil being re-elected president; while Mr. Tucker (Beecroft) and Mr. Wrench (Dural) were elected vice-presidents. Mr. E. P. Fripp was re-elected general secretary.

In welcoming the visiting delegates the president said that the apathy of the growers during the last six or seven years was as remarkable as it was disastrous to the fruit-growing industry. It seemed impossible to overcome this disinclination on the part of the growers to take an interest in the industry from which they earned their daily bread. Recent events had gone to show that agencies were actively at work to cripple the fruit-growing industry of this State. A recent combination of jam manufacturers would be operating in this State to the serious detriment of the industry. The amalgamation had been so formed that the proprietary are bound to purchase the bulk of fruit required for jam-making purposes from Tasmanian and Victorian growers. Orchardists in Victoria and Tasmania had contributed £40,000 to the funds of the amalgamation. It was the duty of the association to impress upon all fruitgrowers in this State the urgent necessity of prompt and systematic organisation.

Mr. Trethowan (Kenthurst), moved,—"That this conference urge upon the Commonwealth Minister for Agriculture to retain the uniform charges for the inspection of fruit, as imposed by the other States."

After discussion, it was decided to pass the matter over to the interstate conference, to be held in Hobart next month, for decision. A resolution from the Arcadia branch,—"That this conference take steps to have the charges for the inspection of fruit at the various ports abolished," was negatived. Mr. Neil, on behalf of the executive, moved,—"That conference consider the matter of allowances made by the shipping companies for ullages of fruit." After discussion, it was resolved to send the matter on to the international conference, suggesting that shipping companies allow compensation of one-half of value of fruit destroyed during transit. From the same body the following motion was received, —"That the conference take into consideration the whole question of the mode of inspection, and inspection charges in connection with the interstate trade."

Mr. Rumsey (Dundas), said that the present method of inspection was decidedly unsatisfactory. Considerable loss resulted owing to the carelessness of the inspecting officers. Some of the delegates present favoured inspection at the exporting port. The fruit to carry a Government grade mark or certificate. The motion, in its original form, was carried. Resolutions from Dundas and Glenorie branches, which were made to read,—"That this conference views with regret the continued apathy of the Government in regard to legalising a standard fruit case, and desires that steps be taken to have the matter urged forward," was carried.

A resolution, which gave rise to a considerable amount of discussion, was one by the executive: "That conference consider the matter of the amalgamation of the big Australian jam companies, as it affects the grower."

Mr. Tucker (Beecroft) read correspondence from a jam-manufacturer outside the combine, giving names of the amalgamated companies, and also the provision merchants in Sydney who had taken up big parcels of shares.

It was generally admitted that this aspect of the commercial side of the fruit-growing industry called for immediate attention on the part of orchardists. It was decided to hold a special meeting at an early date to consider methods of combating the combine.

It was moved by Mr. Neil (Dundas), seconded by Mr. Tucker (Beecroft),—"That the State Government be urged to provide better facilities for the cool storage, dry-curing, and other experiments in connection with the preservation of fresh fruits." The delegates complained of the want of proper facilities for the cold storage of fruits. Foreign and interstate competitors were practically controlling the Sydney fruit market, owing to the facilities available in their country for the cold storage of fruit. Tasmanian apple-growers, not only control the Sydney market during the winter months, but were now privately cold-storing thousands of cases of apples for sale in Sydney during the early summer season. Californian apple-growers were also sending many thousands of cases of apples for the Sydney market during those months. This meant very serious competition for local growers. The resolution was carried unanimously.

The following motion by Glenorie branch,—"That the State Government be urged to assist in developing the export trade in fruit, and that this union promise to co-operate as far as possible in any such action," was carried.

Messrs. Neil and Nicholson were appointed delegates to the international conference to be held in Hobart next month.

ENSILAGE EXPERIMENTS.

GULGONG.—Mr. M. H. Reynolds, inspector of Government experimental plots in the western districts, directed the sowing of ten acres of experimental ensilage at Mr. A. Croft's Bellambi farm, five miles north of Gulgong. The seeds sown were:—Maize, yellow dent, early yellow dent, Fund's yellow dent, early Leeming, Cockie's prolific, Iowa silver mine; Sorghums, planter's friend and early amber cane; millets, Hungarian and white Manchurian; cowpeas, soya beans. These were drilled in with a wheat and lucerne drill and a corn-dropper. The quantity of fertiliser used was 5¾cwt to the ten acres. Should the season turn out reasonably good, a pit containing 120 to 150 tons of ensilage should result. The experiment will be watched with a great deal of local interest, as sheep-owners are realising that ensilage is a good fodder for raising lambs. At the same farm some eight acres of wheat has been sown by the Department of Agriculture. In all 12 plots have been put in, and in the majority of cases these are coming forward remarkably well, despite the very dry weather.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

GOSFORD.—Several areas of land for original homestead selection and original conditional purchase, parish Gosford, county Northumberland, will be available on October 13 next.

STALLION PARADES.

YASS.—The annual stallion parade was held on the Yass showground on Saturday, and drew a representative entry of all classes of sires doing stud duty in the Yass district. This year the parade was arranged by Mr. P. M. Bourke, a famous horse judge. No prizes were given, but entires competing were given a handsome medal to commemorate the occasion.

COOMA.—The whole of the 16 stallions exhibited for examination and certification before Mr. T. G. Palgrave, M.R.C.V.S., Government Veterinary Surgeon, passed. Six out of 12 paraded at Adaminaby also passed. The officer was well pleased with the local horses.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

DUBBO.—The committee of the Dubbo P.A. and H. Association on Thursday evening very heartily endorsed the proposal of the Royal Society that winning bags of wheat at country shows should be sent to the Royal Show for competition, and agreed to make exhibition in future conditional upon acceptance of the Royal Society's offer of £1 per bag for such wheat. The Department of Agriculture forwarded full particulars of its proposed agricultural bureaux, and this proposal was also cordially received, and the secretary directed to take steps to call a meeting of those willing to attend the classes. Regarding the same department's proposal for district councils to control disqualifications, the meeting thought the group was unworkable, and suggested that each society should deal with disqualifications, reporting them to the Agricultural Department, which should inform other associations, compelling adoption under penalty of withdrawal of the subsidy.

THE DUBBO DISTRICT.

DUBBO.—Mr. R. E. Dulhunty, inspector of stock, reports that during the past fortnight he visited the Wellington, Spicer's Creek, Cobbora, and Dunedoo districts, and found the country looking none too well anywhere. Crops are very backward, and before the last fall of rain looked as though they would not even produce hay, but 50 points of rain fell while he was at Spicer's Creek, and the effect was marvellous. Generally, however, he says that, unless a good deal of rain comes soon there will be little wheat, and not much hay. The country looks green, he says, but the grass is soft. Stock are not in good condition. Rabbits are not so bad as they have been in the localities visited, but some owners are neglecting preventive measures.

DAIRYING.

CROKI.—The following are the returns of the Manning River Co-operative Dairy Co., Ltd., for August:—The net turnover was £3893 and suppliers were paid 10½d for first-class commercial butter, and 10d for second. The return for August last year was:—Turnover, £2975, and suppliers were paid 1s and 11d. The winter this year has been much better, the weather being mild. The supply has been far larger, but at the present time the supply is at a standstill for want of rain. Mr. D. A. M'Donell, chairman of the company, was re-elected for a term of 12 months.

DORRIGO.—During August 43,402lb cream was received at Dorrigo factory, from which was manufactured 18,217lb butter, being a comparative increase of 7818lb butter. Suppliers were paid 10½d for first-class and 9½d for second-class butter. Sales for the month amounted to £891 10s 5d. The cream supply is beginning to increase rapidly.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

CAMPBELLTOWN.—The following officers have been elected in connection with the Agricultural Association:—President, Mr. John Kidd; secretary, Mr. Fred. Sheather; hon. treasurer, Mr. L. J. Johnson; executive committee, Messrs. Houghton, G. Kershler, Kitching, Moore, Saunders, Spearing, and Sullivan. Next year's show has been fixed for March 15 and 16.

MANILLA.—The F. and S. Association has decided to initiate an effort to have technical education classes established here, and form a wool class. A large enrolment is already promised.

WEST MAITLAND.—At the annual meeting of the Hunter River Agricultural Association the report referred to the continued progress of the association, membership of which stood at 376, an increase of 106 on the previous year; whilst the increase in the number of exhibits at the last show was 1363. A new grand stand had been erected at a cost of nearly £2060. The expenditure amounted to £2328, and the income to £2042, leaving a debit balance of £286 to the general account. The prize money distributed amounted to £969.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

ADELONG.—The crops in this district are looking better at this time of the year than they have done for many years. Some of the early sown crops are too much advanced, and are beginning to lie down. Most of the farmers locally intend cutting for hay this year, and expect very heavy yields per acre. Quite a number of graziers complain of the ravages of eaglehawks and crows amongst their sheep. One local grazier is offering 2s per head for eaglehawks, and 1s for crows. Great difficulty is experienced by the sportsmen in getting close enough to the eaglehawk to shoot with success, unless mounted on a quiet horse. Quite a number have been despatched by this method.

GLEN INNES.—The unseasonable weather experienced of late has caused the blowfly pest to become very troublesome, and in consequence landholders are having much difficulty in protecting their lambs from this pest. Owing to the long spell of dry weather all classes of vegetation have received a severe setback, especially the potato crops, which require a good soaking. Native dogs and foxes are on the increase throughout the district, and owners of sheep reported heavy losses in consequence.

QUEANBEYAN.—The early crops are growing apace, and the late ones are coming on nicely. The lambing promises to be good.

WOOLGOOLGA.—Rain is urgently needed.

SINGLETON.—The trustees of the estate of the late Mr. Edward Parnell, of Newcastle, have sold Carrington Park estate, near Jerry's Plains, to Messrs. Alexander Bros. The estate, which has been held by the Parnell family for nearly 60 years, is looked upon as one of the best in the Hunter Valley. It has an area of 10,000 acres, all freehold, with a frontage of seven miles to the Hunter River.

STOCK MOVEMENTS.

DUMBLE.—5000 wethers, from Bindebango (Q.) to Walgett, Crossing Bros. owners; 1500 ewes, from Euiah to Kingsthillar (Q.), P. Conway in charge, and 1300 mixed cattle from North Eanongin (Q.) to Moree, J. Strachan in charge.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

Archdeacon Boyce, president of the New South Wales Alliance, makes the following reply to the Liquor Trades Defence Union:—

I note what the Liquor Trades Defence Union says through Mr. Stooke, its secretary. I do not think, however, that body has any reasonable ground of complaint. I do not believe that canvassers on behalf of the alliance wilfully make any misrepresentation as to the effects of a vote. It is quite possible that a few among the many may be not quite clear in their explanations, and so not be understood. I have heard of cases in which lady canvassers from the Defence Union itself have shown a lamentable ignorance of what they were working for. The New South Wales Alliance only wants to carry on the campaign in a straightforward and honourable way, but with all the vigour it can. If the Defence Union will furnish me with a definite case I will cause inquiry to be made; but I cannot help thinking that this complaint is only a move to cover up and hide, and, if possible, show a set-off against charges my side could make.

In fact, I now make a complaint of a far more serious nature. It is about the constant gross exaggerations of some friends of the Liquor Trade Defence Union on three points. One is that there is more drinking in no-license electorates in New Zealand and elsewhere than when bars were open. It is proved beyond doubt that the drink bill of no-license places in the Dominion named is only about a fifth of that in electorates where the bars remain open. In Grey Lynn last year under no-license the consumption was only about a half a gallon per head, as compared with about 10 gallons for the Dominion as a whole. The second gross exaggeration is that sly-grog selling is rampant under no-license. Did not Clutha, as an example, only have one case in a year? How different from our own Surry Hills, where licenses are only too plentiful. The third gross exaggeration is that as to home drinking. This has been refuted time after time, and notably by all the medical men in the no-license electorate of Oamaru. None should know better than they.

I am sure that license advocates will eventually do their cause great harm by these shameless exaggerations, and worse. Truth must in the end prevail. I strongly complain about them.

I observe that the Defence Union again tries to evade the point by referring to the drink bill for the whole of the United States, instead of that of places under no-license. I need not reply, except by saying that it says nothing about the enormous foreign emigration to that country in recent years, or that it is only in the last decade the great movement for no-license has been so wonderfully successful. The point in this controversy is, what is the drinking where there are no bars, and not what it is where they are kept opened. To bulk them is only to confuse and to miss the real point.

Fortunately the public mind is becoming much clearer as to the value of the liquor bar as a public institution, and thousands more every week are seeing that it is indefensible. They recognise that it is a school in which men and women learn to drink, and may eventually be ruined, and are determined to vote such schools out. So far the Defence Union has signally failed to justify the existence of the open bar.

ATTITUDE OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Mr. Edwin Stooke, secretary of the Liquor Trades' Defence Union, yesterday replied to the statements of Archdeacon Boyce concerning the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church towards prohibition.

"The latest remarks of the president of the Alliance were in reply to a quotation, used by me, from an utterance by Father Conaty, president of the Catholic Total Abstinence Society of America, against the principle of prohibition. Even though the Archdeacon 'has never heard of Father Conaty,' does not the official position of the latter entitle his opinions to respect? Is it not, on every question, the official position, and not the person as an individual, that lends weight to an opinion? Were Archdeacon Boyce simply a clergyman, and not also president of the Alliance, would the newspapers grant him columns of space and the public read and listen to his declarations as they now do?

"However, to leave Father Conaty out of the question, most people have heard of Cardinal Gibbons, and it is possible that Archdeacon Boyce may also have done so. In an interview published in the New York 'Freeman's Journal,' the official organ of the Catholic Church in America, the Cardinal expressed the opinion that prohibition is an enemy as much as temperance. Here is an extract:—'Liquor would be sold just as much under prohibition laws as under well-regulated license. The consequence is that liquor would be sold contrary to law, instead of in accordance with the law. When a law is flagrantly violated it brings legislation into contempt. It creates a spirit of hypocrisy and deception; it induces men to do underhandedly and by stealth what they would otherwise do openly and above board. Yet all good men, all good citizens, are in favour of temperance. But you cannot, by legislation or by civil action, compel any man to the performance of good and righteous deeds. High license, I think, is the only solution of the liquor problem.'

"Possibly if Archdeacon Boyce does not take any notice of 'the word of a priest,' perhaps he will the word of a Cardinal.

"The Rev. J. A. Homan, M.A., in his recent book, 'Prohibition, the Enemy of Temperance,' devotes a chapter to the attitude of the whole Roman Catholic Church, in which he says: 'The Scriptural conception of temperance has always been upheld by the Roman Catholic Church (the present membership estimated at 300,000,000). Her doctors and theologians teach on Biblical grounds the necessity of temperance in eating and drinking; they counsel abstemiousness and self-denial, but do not approve of compulsory abstinence.'

"Since the publication of his book, in which prohibition is so severely condemned, the Rev. Mr. Homan has received letters of appreciation and hearty agreement from such leaders as Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, the Archbishop of Milwaukee, the Archbishop of Covington, the Very Rev. Ferdinand Brossart, Vicar-General, Diocese of Kentucky, Rev. Martin Neville, Pastor, Holy Angels' Church, Ohio, Rev. George A. Thayer, Unitarian Church (President Taft's Cincinnati pastor), Rev. Dr. G. Deutch, Hebrew Union College, and the Rev. Geo. M. Clickner, Secretary Bishop Boyd Vincent, Diocese of Southern Ohio (Protestant Episcopal Church).

"Does this not prove that the great majority of the broad-minded leaders of other churches, as well as those of the Catholic faith, are opposed to prohibition?"

GLEN INNES, Saturday.

A keen fight is going on in the Glen Innes portion of the Gough electorate amongst the supporters of no-license and the licensed victuallers, and the former body, who succeeded in securing a reduction in the number of hotels in the division some three years ago, are hopeful of carrying no-license at Glen Innes at any rate. The licensed victuallers are equally sanguine of victory, and in consequence a record poll is anticipated on October 14.

LISMORE, Sunday.

Mr. G. Nicholas, no-license advocate, addressed a large crowd from a balcony in Woodlark-street on Saturday, and was subjected to a good deal of interruption. He issued a challenge to the other side, and Mr. T. Kennedy accepted it. There was some disagreement regarding conditions and time, and the debate was not definitely decided.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—"Owing to the alleged harassing conditions of no-license relative to the sending in of liquor to no-license districts, one well-known Auckland brewery has notified its Ohinemuri customers that it has decided to send no more consignments of liquor into Ohinemuri."

The above is a copy of a telegram from Waihi, which appeared in the "Auckland Star" on September 13. Inquiry elicited the information that the Great Northern Brewery has decided not to send any more liquor to Ohinemuri. The reason given is that, although the cases are sent away from the brewery properly addressed, and in every way complying with the law, yet by the time the goods reach Ohinemuri the addresses are often torn off, and then there is trouble. Within the last two months the brewery has been the defendant in one case, and subpoenaed as witness in two others against its own clients, and the directors have come to the conclusion that the profits in the bottling trade are not commensurate with the trouble and risk involved.

I am, etc.,
E. J. H. KING.

Sydney, Sept. 21.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of to-day appears a long epistle from Mr. Stooke, secretary of the Liquor Trade Defence Association, making several distorted statements which are easily combated. I simply content myself with asking him to kindly publish any, six, or even three, of the valid and extraordinary statements which he says are made by Mr. Judkins or Mr. Schaefer, and to let the public see wherein the application applies. I feel certain he won't attempt it.

I am, etc.,
WOWSER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—We have had evidence already of the evil effects of alcohol daily in your columns. But it remains for Mr. F. H. Joseph to show the evil effects on its own advocates by his intemperate and undignified language in your issue of the 20th inst. The old saying is confirmed, "If you have no case abuse your opponent." But this must be flung at Mr. James and myself is more likely to recoil on himself, and can do his cause no good. He is right in saying that the statistics are only in "overwhelming evidence in New Zealand since no-license," and they are splendid reading, viz.:—To take one town only. Extract from the "Otago Daily Times," July 1, 1907: "5th Sunday evening Oamaru completed its first twelve months of no-license. The Court returns for the period ending respectively on June 30, 1906 and 1907, have been collected carefully, and I append them. The total number of convictions for all offences for the 12 months ended June 30, 1906, was 372, while for the following twelve months it was 174. It should be stated, however, that these totals include convictions for such offences as breaches of borough bylaws, which in the first period were 18 and in the second 12. The following are the most important figures, the periods ending on June 30 in each year:—

	1906.	1907.
Drunkenness	153	31
Breaches of Licensing Acts	28	8
Obscene Language	4	1
Prohibition orders	31	1
Theft	13	1
Wilful damage to property	4	2
Assault	4	1
Offensive behaviour	1	1
Vagrancy	4	—
Resisting the police	2	—
False pretences and uttering	6	1
Breaches of the peace	7	—
Failure to support	4	—
Attempted crime	1	—
Indecency	1	—
Trespass	1	—
Sundries	84	71

Will Mr. Joseph supply figures, and not vague generalities? I can give him figures for all the no-license areas, and they all tell an equally good tale of the benefits of its adoption. But listen to what the Mayor of Oamaru says ("Otago Daily Times," April 7, 1907):—"That the finances, in spite of the loss of revenue from the licences, loss of rates on these premises, and decreased consumption of gas (variously estimated at up to £1000), were sound, and that the revenue had met the expenditure. Actually, some £500 more than last year has been spent on the streets, and in other directions the work of the town has been kept pace with. The revenue from rates has increased, and the income from water supplies, rents, and gas has slightly increased."

Does this show that no-license ruins their towns? I am, etc.,
FRANCIS WILSON.

STATE ELECTIONS.

WORK OF THE GOVERNMENT.

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

It remained for the Wade Government to recognise the importance to the country of an up-to-date Department of Agriculture, and to leave the Minister in charge free to devote all his time to it. In his capacity as Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Perry has endeavoured to give the advantages of an experimental farm to every district in the State by a system of farmers' experimental plots on which new varieties of seed, various manures, and improved methods of cultivation are tried under the farmer's own supervision in such a thoroughly practical way. The system of agricultural education has been perfected by the establishment at the University of a Chair of Agriculture and of a Chair of Veterinary Science. The staff of the stock branch has been strengthened by the addition of three veterinary surgeons. The system of giving scientific instruction to factory managers in suitable centres has been developed. A complete plant has been installed at the Hawkesbury College for irrigating 100 acres of the Hawkesbury flats, and thereby giving instruction in irrigation to the 200 students in attendance there. At Yanco an irrigation farm has been started with the specific purpose of testing all fruit trees, vines, and other commercial crops adapted for intense cultivation in the district to be served by the Barren Jack irrigation scheme. The fruitgrower is being helped by a systematic and thorough inspection of the orchards of the State, and the establishment of a demonstration orchard in Central Cumberland will enable experiments to be conducted with regard to the many questions that affect the fruitgrower in the older settled districts of the State. An expert in sheep and wool has been appointed in the interests of the small farmer. The interests of the vinegrowers have been promoted by the establishment of a nursery where phylloxera-resistant stocks are grown. A system of national agricultural shows has been inaugurated. Dairy instruction and supervision have been made much more efficient throughout the State. In short, it is the province of the department to use all the resources at its command in showing how the best results are to be obtained by those engaged in the great primary industry of New South Wales.

THE RAILWAY DEPARTMENT.

Traffic on the railways in the year 1909-10 increased, as compared with the year 1904-5, by 50 per cent. in the passenger branch and 25 per cent. in the tonnage handled. To meet this expansion the Wade Government, during its three years of office, made increases of 31 per cent. in locomotives, 20 per cent. in general goods waggons, 74½ per cent. in cattle trucks, and 35 per cent. in sheep trucks. During the 1901-4 term of the See Government a total of £1,697,414 was expended on locomotives, carriages, waggons, stations, duplications, and extensions, or an average annual expenditure of £565,804. During the three years of the Wade Government the total spent on these works reached £3,451,403, averaging £1,163,801 per annum. Duplication and extension work accounted for £319,970 in 1908-9, and for £373,256 in 1909-10. The Wade Government has also obtained authority to raise an ear-marked loan of £2,000,000 for pushing on with the duplication of the Northern line to Werris Creek, of the Western line to Blayney and of the Southern line to Harden.

OBSTRUCTION.

LARRIKINISM AT THE GLEBE.

ATTEMPT TO HOWL DOWN THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION.

One of the noisiest meetings of the campaign took place on Saturday night at the Glebe. It was without doubt an obstruction well-organised, with the sole object of preventing the Liberal candidate and his supporters from receiving a hearing. The audience numbered about 2000, and in the centre of the closely-packed crowd was a contingent of what the speakers called "hoodlums," who did nothing but stand in a body, with policemen sandwiched between them, and yell boo-hoo to the disgust of the main portion of the audience, who, when opportunity offered, applauded the speakers, but their efforts were mostly drowned by the yells of the hoodlums.

The first speaker was Mr. F. Coen, a young barrister, fresh from the University, and a well-known footballer. He was naturally full of energy, with a touch of humour, and he dived right into his subject in a manner that caught on for a time with the obstructionists, who seemed spellbound, wondering who the political colt was; and on the whole he got a fair hearing. He said the Government had passed over 100 Acts of Parliament in two years and 11 months, all of which he said were for the moral and social wellbeing of the people without class distinction. The Labour party claimed that those Acts were passed with pressure brought to bear on the Government by the Labour party as a whole, but he would ask, did the Labour party press the Industrial Disputes Act through the House? No fear. They fought that measure all along the line. They took the unprecedented course of opposing it, even on the third reading, and afterwards got the Trades Hall crowd to block it whenever they could, and yet that Act has been the means of putting half a million extra in wages in the pockets of the workers. (Uproar.)

Mr. J. A. Hogue, who met with a hostile reception from the few, and cheers from the main body of the audience, said he never objected to persons holding different opinions to himself, but he did object to organised obstruction. However, he had faith in the people of the Glebe to judge between honest Government and mob rule. (Uproar.) They had returned him eight times running as their member, and he had yet to learn that he had forfeited their confidence. It would be a nice thing for New South Wales if a party got into power whose main support was mob rule, such as they were witnessing that evening. (Uproar.) What would become of the country under such Government as that? The people at this election, however, had to face questions of national importance, questions of State rights. There was only one safeguard to all their liberties, and that was the Parliament, and that Parliament was just what the people made it. He came before them as a member of a Government that had a cleaner record and a better account of stewardship to give than any previous Government. (Uproar.) But the Labour party, instead of dealing with the question in a broad light, set to work to throw mud at the Government. They missed their mark, and made themselves very dirty in the attempt. (Uproar.) Their supporters might howl, but it was the truth all the same. The Labour party had no policy to put before the people. (Uproar.) It was only a so-called Labour party, but it never did represent Labour. It was simply Trades Hall tyranny. (Uproar.) They had a specimen of it that night in the attempt to lock freedom of speech. It was tyranny of the worst kind, and he appealed to the people as a jury to say what they thought of it at the ballot-box.

A voice: "A packed jury."

The Government aimed at doing what they knew to be in the interest of the people. There was no class legislation about Mr. Wade and his party.

A voice: What about Hosking and M'Kay and all the other toffs. (Laughter.)

This was the first Government to settle people on the land. The first Government to manufacture locomotives in the State.

A voice: "Who forced you—the Labour party.". (Cheers from the obstructionists.)

Mr. Hogue, continuing, said the Government cared nothing for the Labour party. That party had boasted of holding previous Governments in the hollow of its hand, forcing them to do anything, but they could not force the present Government. And even if the Labour party could do what it liked with previous Governments, why did it not get locomotives made in the State? When the present Government started to make engines the Clyde Company was turning out 10 engines a year. Now the company was turning out 35 engines a year. Look what an amount of additional work that provided. (Uproar.)

A voice: Why don't you let the State build the engines?

Mr. Hogue: The State could not do what private enterprise could do. He believed in encouraging private enterprise. Equal opportunities for all men. This was the first Government to give the people free education. (Hooting and uproar.) When they had finished, he would go on. The public could see what this hostility to education meant. There was an undercurrent at work. A certain party could not oppose it openly, but they adopted a sinister spirit. He would defend the Public school system with all his might. (Cheers and uproar.) He appealed to the parents whether the cost of education was more to-day than it was before the fees were abolished.

A voice: It is much more costly.

Mr. Hogue: That is absolutely false.

A voice: It's absolutely true. (Cheers and counter cheers.)

Mr. Hogue: Did not all this obstruction show the sinister motive, with certain people, to kill the Education Act? Why, they went so far as to say that the word "pauper" was printed in a child's book, and they still stuck to it although they knew it was untrue.

A voice: So it was, and I can prove it.

Mr. Hogue: It's a deliberate lie, and no one could prove such a thing. (Uproar.) They had the finest education system in the world. (Oh, oh, and uproar.) The Government was spending thousands of pounds in providing better light, ventilation, and general accommodation in their schools. Let them compare education to-day with the days when he and others went to school, when children had to walk miles to reach the school, and where the parents had to pay 6d per week for each child. Now they brought the schools to the children, and admitted them free. (Cheers.) He would defend the Public school system against all attacks, whether he was in Parliament or not.

A voice: Why don't you bring Garland out, or Wood?

Another voice: You are not game to fetch Wade over here.

Mr. Hogue: If they desired it, he would fetch the whole of the Ministry, but he had no need of them for his own use. He could fight his own battle. He knew the people of the Glebe had confidence in him. (Cheers and uproar.)

A voice: "Yes; until October 14, and then out you go."

Mr. Hogue: It would not be the tyranny of the Trades Hall that would put him out, and he warned the electors of the Glebe to beware of this invasion of their liberties by this tyrannical mob. (Uproar.) It was no use; he would have his say. He was appealing to the enlightened electors, and not to a lot of hoodlums. (Uproar.)

A voice: You're all right, Mr. Hogue. Never mind them.

Mr. Hogue then answered a number of questions.

Mr. W. J. Ferguson was the next speaker. He met with a perfect storm of hooting and yelling, which lasted fully five minutes, and increased every time he attempted to speak. But he patiently looked at them from the balcony railings, and quietly remarked, after five minutes, "Now, I think you have had a fair go; when you are ready, I'll proceed."

Further yelling and hooting, and counting of nine, ten, out, from the obstructionists.

The chairman then shouted. "You are a cowardly lot of hoodlums. You yell at a man when you are in a mob, but single-handed not one of you would dare face a man and hoot at him." (Uproar.)

Mr. Ferguson: "You will hear me if I stop here all night." Gradually Mr. Ferguson forced a hearing, but his speech was timed with a continuous volley of interruptions and hooting, and cries of "We don't want renegades." He spoke for about 15 minutes, but his remarks were largely drowned by the noise of the unruly mob. Several other speakers also attempted to address the gathering, but the interruptions continued right to the end.

LABOUR AT WOOLLAHRA.

On Saturday night the supporters of Mr. J. M'Carthy, the selected Labour candidate for Woollahra, organised a rally at the corner of Queen and Moncur streets.

The candidate said that Woollahra had always been regarded as a hopeless electorate for Labour, but as the campaign progressed he was rapidly arriving at the conclusion that it was not so, especially if everyone who was not in accord with the present method of government awoke to the responsibilities of polling day. (Hear, hear.) Electors had ceased to believe in the misrepresentations and calumnies heaped upon the Labour party in the past, in a brief attack on the Wade Administration Mr. M'Carthy said that the Workmen's Compensation Act was not the perfect measure it was represented to be, and that under its provisions a considerable percentage was excluded from its benefits. Its framers had not sufficiently profited by the mistakes of the New Zealand Act, and had it not been for the strenuous criticism of the Labour party the measure would not be as complete even as it is. It was a miserable attempt at democratic legislation. It was only an attempt to placate the workers in view of the approaching elections.

The Federal member for East Sydney (Mr. J. E. West) received an ovation. He reminded his audience that nations, like men, had times in their tide of affairs which, if taken in the flood, would lead to fortune. If the people of the State would only take hold of the machinery of government the prosperity of the State was assured. (Applause.) The present candidate was chosen by the party that had the real interests of the people at heart. This party had been responsible for the placing of legislation on the Statute-book which no other party had been strong enough to displace. (Applause.) It was one that stood for progress, liberty, and the pleasure of the people. The Labour party had set up ideals that would be looked up to by every civilised people. Although the Federal Government had only been in power about three months it had shown a constructive ability and a mastery of legislation not hitherto shown by any other. (Applause.) It had established some of the finest precedents. The removal of the Loan Bill for the defence of the country was one. (Hear, hear.) It had made a start to carry out the land tax proposals: There was much weeping and wailing in Melbourne in some quarters. The Labour Government was not asking for taxation; it was asking for deferred payment—(applause)—and it had been strong enough to tell the press that it, and not the press, was going to rule. (Loud applause.) They heard much about depreciation of values and the turning away of capital as a result. Mr. West read out some recent sales of city properties as an illustration that such was not the case. The Fisher Government, unlike Wade's, had no regard for vested interests. (Applause.) It was not press-instructed. (Applause.) The Wade Administration had, during two years and four months, given the people nothing. It was blind to everything but prosecuting miners. (Hear, hear.) After April 13 it came down with a lot of measures, which was nothing else than bribery. It was an endeavour to cloud the real issue. The attempt to propitiate the school teachers and clerks was an illustration, while the 6d per day to the poor "bobby" was another. (Applause.) Anything for a bribe. (Cheers.)

Mr. Hoyle, who is contesting the Surry Hills electorate in the Labour interests, attacked the Government on its inability in the past to thoroughly grasp the educational problem in its most essential points. The Government had failed to realise the significance of making the University and the higher schools accessible to the children of the poor. Education was the basis on which a nation stood. It was the poorer classes that formed the nation, while the leisured few were the class. The proposals by the Labour party would provide for an educational course based on the most approved world systems, free to all, and not to the few, as at present.

Mr. Wilson, M.L.C., also addressed the meeting.

MARRICKVILLE.

SPEECH BY SIR JAMES GRAHAM.

Sir James Graham addressed a meeting at Marrickville in the interests of Rupert S. M'Coy, the selected Liberal, on Friday evening. The Excelsior Hall, which has been much enlarged, was filled to the doors, over 500 people being present. The Mayor of Marrickville (Alderman W. H. Osgood, J.P.), presided.

Sir James Graham said the functions of a Government were the education of the people, social legislation, the proper use of the people's heritage, the land, and legislation appertaining to industrial conditions. Taking a broad survey of the legislation of the Liberal Administration it was patent that they had faithfully carried out all these functions, and had so husbanded the finances that they had in the course of a few years raised the position of the State on the London money market from the bottom of the list to its proper place near the top. (Applause.) They had abolished the payment of school fees, and provided for the better training of the teaching staff, and established a professorship of education. The prosperity of any country depended largely on the pastoral industry, and the Liberal Government had established a Chair of Veterinary Science. They had also made provision for the higher education of the farmer. (Applause.) In most countries the authorities made a great point of educating newcomers in the resources, advantages, and places of interest in their respective countries, and the Liberal Administration had provided an information bureau for the purpose of properly and efficiently advertising the State, and this encouraged the people to these shores to assist in building up a great nation. (Applause.) The country wanted filling up to make it great, and the Government proposed to follow the example of Canada and build its railways into the good country before settlement, so as to enable the settlers to reap the benefit of their labours from the commencement of settlement. "We have inquired into the question of the heavy death roll amongst the young infants, and then we altered the law, and the result is that during the period that proper supervision has been had over the births among the poorer of our people the death rate has diminished 50 per cent. Great benefits also accrued from the pure foods legislation." (Applause.) Taking a fair survey of the work of the Government, one could not help but say that the country had been well governed, and the interests of the community at large had been well conserved.

Mr. Rupert S. M'Coy said the proper stand for all parliamentarians, more especially of the leaders of parties (who should be the leaders of public thought), should be to tell the people what the legislation passed during the last Parliament had been, and the true effect of such legislation. They found, instead of this course being adopted, that the leaders of the so-called Labour party were going about the country throwing dust in the eyes of the people, and waxing eloquent on the subject of leg-irons, rockchoppers, and wife deserters, and extolling the virtues of men who had been found guilty of offences against the law. A question might well be asked, "If we ever have a Labour Administration in New South Wales, will people then be able to defy the law, and scoff at constitutional government?" (Applause.) The Industrial Disputes Amendment Act (called by their opponents the Coercion Act) aimed at stopping coercion of the worst kind, viz., the Peter Bowling brand of coercion, or of combines of employers, who might instigate a lockout, having the effect of depriving the community of a necessary commodity of life—and it was only such a class of strikes and lockouts that came within the four corners of that statute. The Opposition could find no fault with the work of the past Government, and no reasons could be shown by them why any change should be made in the party to govern this country. (Applause.)

Mr. M'Coy met with a cordial reception, and on the motion of Mr. W. A. Pettit (the president of the Liberal and Reform Association of Marrickville), seconded by Alderman W. Wright, a vote of confidence was carried.

PARRAMATTA.

On Saturday evening Mr. B. R. Wise, K.C., addressed a large meeting from Tattersall's balcony in support of the candidature of the selected Labour candidate, Mr. D. P. O'Reilly. Alderman R. H. De Low presided. Mr. Wise said he was glad to renew his acquaintance with the true democrats of the State. Many years ago he and they had been associated in the cause of democratic progress, and they were now again together. It was significant that the young men, such as Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. F. E. M'Lean, who were in the vanguard with Mr. Reid, were now found on the side of Labour. It was because as democrats then they fought with Mr. Reid, and as democrats to-day they were fighting with Labour. They had a Ministry in power now that had one law for the rich and another for the poor. It was a scandal to support Mr. Wade, a man who had trifled with their liberty, and whose very existence was a menace to democracy—a man who had stirred up sectarian strife and bad feeling between State and Commonwealth. He resented the imputation of falsehood on behalf of the Sydney press, which referred to every saying by Labour supporters as a calumny and a falsehood. It was an insult to every man and woman supporter of democracy. Messrs. M'Lean and O'Reilly were bitterly attacked when they joined the Labour party, but there were no attacks on Messrs. Waddell and Perry when they went over from Conservatism to so-called Liberalism—a fusion. A similar fusion had occurred in Federal politics—the Liberal lamb lying down with the Conservative lion; but the lamb was inside. Conservatives were now masquerading as Liberals. The Liberalism they had to fight to-day was not the Liberalism of Parkes or Reid, but a masquerading, in the foolish belief that, with the aid of the Sydney press, they could boodwink the people; but they could not do that. These Liberals had been bitterly opposed to the Early Closing Act, old-age pensions, Saturday half-holiday, and the Clerks' Industrial Wages Board; but after April 13 Mr. Wade and his colleagues were tumbling over themselves to give the clerks what they had previously refused them. Were they renegades? No. He called them cowards. They "amoodged" in every way to those whom they had previously insulted.

LIBERAL MEETING.

Mr. T. R. Moxham, the selected Liberal candidate, addressed a large meeting from the balcony of the White Horse Hotel on Saturday evening, and, in spite of the fact that Mr. B. R. Wise was speaking from the opposite corner, he had a most enthusiastic meeting. Mr. Moxham dealt at length with the Federal land tax. He said that had there been the slightest idea that the Labour party, when they got into power, would tax the suburban land, and through it the worker, there would have been a far different vote recorded on April 13. However, he expected a reversal of that vote on October 14. The Labour party was absolutely opposed to freehold ownership, and would take away from the thrifty worker the cottage he had saved up for so long to buy for himself. He asked fair-minded working men to judge the Wade Government by its acts. The legislation of the Government had never been in favour of the capitalists, but in the true interests of the country as a whole, no class distinctions being made.

Mr. Moxham received a splendid hearing, and was accorded a vote of confidence.

MANLY.

AN ABUSIVE SENATOR.

A Labour demonstration was held at Manly on Saturday night, in support of Mr. S. O'Brien, the selected Labour candidate. Mr. A. C. Warton, secretary of the Tramway Union, presided.

Senator Gardiner indulged in a strong denunciation of the Wade Government, and, urged on by the crowd, he made a heated attack on the Premier personally. The Premier, at Dubbo, he said, used one of the most contemptible expressions that any man could be guilty of when he described the Labour party's politics as "dirty politics." The Premier denounced all and sundry who dared criticise his administration. Such opponents he classed as political slanderers and unreliable leaders. It was cowardly in the extreme, and what had the Liberal, or "anti-Labour," party done? Mr. Wade and his Government had struck down the liberty of the people that had ever been held sacred. Such a Government would be a disgrace to Russia itself. Mr. Wade seemed to single out agitators. The greatest heroes were agitators. When Sir Henry Parkes was in power, he proved himself one of the greatest agitators in his protest against transportation. When three boatloads of convicts were on their way from England, Sir Henry Parkes declared that if the British Government did not recall the boats, they would be dumped in the harbour. He placed liberty before law when it was a just cause. Senator Gardiner concluded with a reference to the land tax, and predicted that the defence of Australia would be ensured by the revenue accruing from the tax.

ST. GEORGE.

The candidature of Alderman Wm. Taylor was advanced at Kogarah and Rockdale on Saturday, where open-air meetings were held. The candidate and Alderman H. T. Morgan (Mayor of Newtown) spoke at Rockdale, and Alderman Ingham and Mr. A. M'Neill at Kogarah. Mr. Taylor flatly contradicted several rumours about himself, and explained that he had never had a shilling interest in any brick combine. He did not happen to get into Parliament until the land scandals were a thing of the past; and he had been a teetotaller all his life.

Mr. W. R. C. Bagnall, the selected Labour candidate, held meetings in Rockdale and Kogarah, in which he was assisted by Messrs. J. R. Dacey, A. W. Eatch, and other Labour supporters. The Labour party's platform was gone into by the candidate at Rockdale, and at Kogarah Mr. Dacey generally denounced the present Administration, and asked that the reins of government be handed over to Mr. M'Gowen. Referring to the Upper House, he remarked that Mr. Wade had said to Mr. Garland, "I'll make you a member of the Upper House and a Minister of the Crown." Thus they had the spectacle of a man rejected by the electors, yet with more power than Mr. M'Gowen. If the people wanted representative government, then their only hope was to vote for the Labour party. If they voted for the Labour party they would abolish the Council, and, with this done, no country would be able to boast of so free a Constitution.

BEGA.

Mr. Wood (Chief Secretary) delivered a vigorous fighting speech before a crowded meeting at Bombala on Friday. He dealt with the various issues raised during the course of the campaign, and pointed out that at no time in the history of the State had a more determined effort been made to displace a Government than was now being made. His opponent was appealing for votes on the ground that the interests of the Bega electorate had been neglected by its representative in Parliament. But the fact was that more money had been spent in the electorate while he had been its representative than during any other member's time. When elected 16 years ago he had stated that he intended devoting his life to politics, and he had done so. He claimed to have served the electors faithfully and well ever since. For the last six years his life been one incessant toil in the interests of the State and the constituency. Mr. Wood went fully into the matter which has been brought against him at every election, viz., that when first elected he went in as a Labour member. He explained that the pledge he signed was the platform of the Riverina Labour Council, and not the solidarity pledge of the Labour party, and he produced affidavits from the former president and secretary of the Bombala Labour League stating that he was not elected under Labour auspices.

WOLLONGONG.

HELENSBURGH, Sunday.

Mr. J. B. Nicholson, the selected Labour candidate, opened his campaign in the Paragon Hall. Mr. Dunleavy occupied the chair. The candidate said the party's platform was the only one to do good to the country. It was not fair to take away licenses without compensation. The land policy of the Wade Government did not settle people on the land. He said if the Labour party reigned immigrants would be encouraged, and would be looked after by the Government till placed on a farm. It was scandalous to put men in gaol whilst letting the owners go free. A vote of thanks was carried.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

Last night Mr. E. Beeby, selected Liberal candidate, and Mr. Ferguson, addressed a good meeting in the Town Hall. Mr. Beeby said he was sure the people would look more favourably on the Liberal party, when they were thoroughly conversant with the amount of good work they had done during the past three years. He claimed that the Government had shown its bonafides to the workers of the State by the legislation it had passed for their benefit. He defied anyone to say that the Wade Government had failed to meet fairly any claims made upon it. They had conflicting elements in Labour movements, and it was on the back of Peter Bowling, their worst enemy, that they were trying to replace the Wade Government. When the Industrial Disputes Act was being passed through Parliament, no word was spoken by the Labour party relative to trial by jury. The Government had conferred one of the greatest benefits possible on the workers by passing the Industrial Disputes Act, as wages had risen to the extent of £500,000. Mr. Ferguson said the Labour party had opposed the Industrial Disputes Act on the ground that it was aimed at breaking up unions; but they found that under this Act unionism had increased. The Labour party, who claimed to aim at breaking up monopolies, had behind them in this struggle one of the greatest monopolies, the brewers; and the Labour party had not the courage to say which side they were on. At the conclusion of the address, a vote of thanks was accorded both speakers.

REDFERN AND MR. M'GOWEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Referring to the Redfern electorate, I wish to give a most emphatic denial to the statement in your to-day's issue that I opposed Mr. M'Gowen at the last general election. Your informant is entirely mistaken. Mr. M'Gowen was the chosen and publicly advertised candidate of the New South Wales Alliance, and I warmly favoured his selection. Had his committee desired, they could have had the circular letter of recommendation officially signed by me as president, and placed in every house in the electorate. My residence is not in Redfern, but across a street from it, and in the city, so I could not vote for him, but would readily have done so had I been able.

The temperance people generally loyally followed the Alliance selection, and did not go against him, as stated. I admit that some did oppose him, but they could almost be counted on the fingers. I have no doubt whatever that the bulk of the temperance vote went solidly for him, especially as it was well known that there were good reasons for opposing the other candidate. Certain Protestant ministers voted for him, and any personal influence I had helped him.

Mr. M'Gowen, I wish to say, was loyally assisted by the Alliance from the day that he first stood for Parliament, in 1891, up to and in the last general election. His processional speech, however, in May last shows an important change in his attitude, and for which the friends of temperance in Redfern are not in any way responsible.

On this occasion the Alliance is not selecting candidates. Politically I only act with that body, and, I may add, I carefully keep party politics out of the pulpit. I belong to neither the Liberal nor Labour parties in the State, believing that the greatness of the liquor question should be the chief factor in ruling my vote. Thousands of freetraders and protectionists have adopted in the past the same line for their respective policies.

In the last general election from this standpoint I was able to render what help I could to Mr. M'Gowen in his candidature, believing him to be loyal to the principles of the Liquor Act.

I am, etc., F. B. BOYCE.

KEEP ZAM-BUK IN THE HOUSE.

ITS MANIFOLD USES ILLUSTRATED.

Mrs. Barker, of 39 Emma-street, Leichhardt, Sydney, says:—"I have had occasion to use your Zam-Buk Ointment for my children, self, and husband, and am glad to acquaint you with the satisfactory results. I, myself, burnt my arm while cleaning the stove, and Zam-Buk was immediately applied, with the result that the pain and soreness were quickly dispelled. My husband is a timber merchant, and often gets his hands and arms cut, scratched, and knocked about; Zam-Buk Healing Balm is then used, and results in always curing the sores and bruises; and my children—as children will—often fall down and graze the skin off their knees, and the usual salve, Zam-Buk, is applied, and in all cases the healing and cure is certain. I have no hesitation in recommending Zam-Buk as a safe, sure, and at the same time, simple remedy to be kept in the house." Zam-Buk is invaluable for Piles, Eczema, Ulcers, Scalp Diseases, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Bad Legs, Inflammation, Rashes, Eruptions, Pimples, Sores, Scabs, Scales, Pains, Swellings, Chapped Hands, Sore Faces, Cold Sores, Chilblains, Chills, Cold in the Head, Cuts, Burns, Festerings, Gatherings, Poisoned Wounds, etc. Of all chemists, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., 39 Pitt-street, Sydney; price, 1/6, or 3/6 family size, (containing nearly four times the quantity).—Advt.

CRICKET.

OPENING OF THE SEASON.

E. L. WADDY GETS A CENTURY.

Next Saturday will see the official opening of the cricket season. With a view to getting into form the grade men have been practising assiduously lately, and on Saturday a number of the clubs played scratch matches, and one-day interclub games. The most interesting feature about these initial encounters was the sudden springing into form of E. L. Waddy, who, by brilliant cricket, hit up the first century of the season at Marrickville. Another item of interest was the fact that in the same match Bardsley, Trumper, and Cotter were all dismissed for nil.

In a trial match at Rushcutter Bay Burwood made 140 to Sydney's 96 for seven wickets. D. C. Reid moved along merrily for 23 when the ex-Queenslander Simpson brought about his retirement.

At Hunter's Hill Glebe accounted for the locals, G. Gallagher and C. M'Carthy doing the scoring, while Watson showed the excellent average of nine wickets for 13 runs.

Bubb, of North Sydney, showed good cricket against Gladesville.

On Saturday the grade competitions begin, and the following is the draw:—

First Grade.—Balmain v Waverley, at Birchgrove; North Sydney v University, at University Oval; Redfern v Sydney, at Rushcutter Bay; Glebe v Middle Harbour, at Manly; Petersham v Burwood, at Sydney Cricket Ground; Gordon v Central Cumberland, at Parramatta; Paddington, a bye.

OUR NEW STORY.

THE MAJOR'S NIECE,

BY

GEORGE A. BIRMINGHAM,

WAS COMMENCED

IN THE

"SYDNEY MORNING HERALD"

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1910.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1910.

A CONTRAST AND A WARNING.

Those who are still in doubt as to whether to support Liberalism or Labour at the coming elections may be recommended to look not to promises, but to facts. They have on the one side the record of the Liberal party after the test of several years of office in the State, and on the other side the briefer, yet perhaps more picturesque, because more revolutionary, career of the Labour party in the Federal sphere. They may contrast the story of steady progress in the State with that of the spoliatory and reckless empiricism in the Commonwealth. It is not possible, however, to regard the comparison as absolutely conclusive. First of all, we are comparing a State record with one covering a wider, and possibly a more difficult, area. No one will deny that, despite the constitutional limitations upon Federal activity the task of legislating for the whole continent presents greater difficulties than that of providing for a part of it only. So much must be freely conceded in justice to the party in power in the dominant Parliament. Further analysis discloses other inequalities which also tend to weaken the comparison, though in quite another direction. Whatever we may think of Mr. Fisher and his colleagues, no one with any pretence to impartiality can for one moment place them on the same plane with Mr. M'Gowen and his fellow aspirants for Ministerial dignity and spoils. With these qualifications State electors should carefully scrutinise the acts of the abler branch of the Labour party in the Federal sphere to enable them to form some estimate, blurred though it be, of what to expect from the weaker branch should it by any chance be called upon to hold the reins in the State sphere. It may be urged that the greater the ability the greater the power for mischief, and the less the ability the less the power for harm. If this be so, and there may really be something in the argument, then certainly Mr. M'Gowen and Mr. Holman are not such potential powers for mischief as are Messrs. Fisher and Hughes. Had Messrs. M'Gowen and Holman been in the Federal Parliament in place of Messrs. Fisher and Hughes the political atmosphere would certainly have assumed a very different hue. But, whether the weaker vessels would have acted with more recklessness, with greater valour of ignorance, as it were, or with more timidity, it is useless to speculate, for it is scarcely possible even in the wildest flight of imagination to conceive Mr. M'Gowen and his colleagues leading the Federal Parliament, swept into office by an overwhelming majority of the people of Australia.

It may be assumed, therefore, that Mr. Fisher and his colleagues have during their brief term of office done more for their party, and done it with less injury to the people at large, than would Messrs. M'Gowen, Holman, Dacey, etc. Yet that is not saying much. The party in power in the Federal sphere has already worked strenuously to increase the burden of taxation upon the people, and to give it a class incidence. So far it seems as though it will succeed in making the burden heavier, but it will partially fail in the class incidence of the tax, because many workers will have the impost passed on to them by way of increased rents and higher prices for necessaries. So while aiming its arrow at the capitalistic apple, it has pierced the labour hand that held it. The party says that it has a mandate from the people to tax the land for the purpose of bursting up the big estates. With so many cross-issues it is difficult to say what particular mandate it has, but it certainly never had a mandate to burst up city properties, nor to tax even country estate, in the way it now proposes. Even its ancient supporter and arch-admirer, Sir William Lyne, realises this, and has repudiated the action of his erstwhile friends and confidants. Indeed, in the matter of land taxation the party in power does not really know what it wants, nor how to get it. A bill is introduced evidently drawn up by its legal advisers, couched in that medieval phraseology with which students of the law of real property are so familiar, but which convey little to the average Labour members. Tenants in possession, reversions, appointees to uses, tenants seised in fee, and that sort of thing, were as ancient Greek to the Labour Ministers who, however, were called upon to explain the meaning of their measure. Under the fire of criticism—much of it criticism backed by knowledge—Ministers had to yield point after point. Several batches of amendments issued from the caucus room, till to-day the proposals bear but little resemblance to those first introduced. So much for the land tax. The Australian Notes Bill underwent a similar process of dissection and remodelling, till out of a highly-dangerous measure a fairly innocuous one was patched up. The anti-borrowing policy of the Ministry, which was so persistently mouthed prior to the elections, has proved no better able to stand the test of practical needs. The state of the finances soon pressed the Government to consider the position. Overtly they could not borrow; but against covert borrowing they did not see the same objections. All they had to do was to call it by some other name. The first device was to temporarily use the trust funds, and this without the prior sanction of Parliament. The second was to use the money forced from the banks in exchange for Government notes. Then, when this failed, and Parliament decided that this money should be held in trust, what did they do but try and get Parliamentary sanction for the temporary use of this money. So we have a Government which one day succeeds in getting a measure passed whereby a trust fund is created, a fund supposed to be beyond Ministerial control, to be, in short, inviolable, and then, the next day, before there has even been any attempt to accumulate the fund, they are trying to borrow it, in anticipation, without calling it borrowing. The bank clerk who takes his employer's funds to speculate on "a sure thing" is also apt to call the process by which he becomes possessed of the coin by quite another name from that used by the Judge who sentences him. Among other things that the State elector should remember is that the Federal Labour party, by its acts, is opposed to immigration, though not by its words, that it has substituted caucus for Parliamentary rule, thus reducing the debates in Parliament to a solemn farce. Is it desirable that there should be a feeble imitation of this kind of thing in the State Legislature?

THE TURKISH LOAN.

The loan which Turkey desires to raise to put her confused finances in order possesses more than financial significance. It has resulted in a contest between the two groups of European Powers as to which shall obtain supremacy in the counsels of the Turkish Government. There was a time when loans had little to do with international affairs except when pressure was required to be exerted on one of the minor States to entail the due conditions of the bond being fulfilled, but to-day we find even Great Britain, whose financiers have lent money to all States without discrimination, except as to the security offered, is bringing influence to bear on her bankers to cause them to modify their offers to Turkey, and not run counter to the known desires of France—her friend. When financiers are compelled to consider the objects to which money lent is to be put it bodes well for the continuance of peace. A further development will be a refusal of advances for purposes which might be construed in to hostile movements against the Power of the lenders. Though, in the present feelings of financiers, that consummation may still be far off as regards Great Britain, there is no doubt it is one to which we are approaching. It has already arrived on the Continent. In Germany the Government seems to have absolute control of its financiers as far as foreign outlay is concerned, and in France the Government is able very materially to exercise influence on the placing of the savings for foreign investment. In the present case Turkey has been negotiating openly—we do not know how long the preliminary steps occupied—for over six weeks for a loan of £T6,000,000. Application was made first to France, whose Government made certain stipulations.

There had been statements that Turkey was entering the Triple Alliance, but although these were probably exaggerated there was no doubt that German influence at Constantinople was potent, and that Germany was working to obtain trade concessions in the Near East, and orders for her industrials. So France stipulated that a fair proportion of the loan should be expended in French manufactures of material which Turkey required. The Ottoman Government did not see fit to give the guarantees, and while negotiations were dragging on there came from German sources the definite statement that Turkey had purchased four battleships, almost out of date, for more than half of what they originally cost. This was an extremely good bargain for Germany. But it resulted in France making still stricter stipulation. The Turkish Finance Minister allowed it to be known that he was parleying with German bankers for the loan, but he could not shake the French resolution. France had refused to aid Hungary with a loan to improve her army, and she was certainly not disposed to furnish funds to Germany, for that is where a portion of the Turkish loan would go, to build another Dreadnought. Turkey was plainly told that she was now more than suspected of entering the Triple Alliance, and that the only hope of her realising her desire for money was to break off that dangerous connection. The German Conservative newspaper "Kreuz Zeitung" actually announced that "the attainment of the goal of a far-reaching agreement between the Alliance and Turkey as to the treatment of the problems of the Near East has been brought much nearer realisation." The constitutional or Parliamentary party in Turkey probably desires to maintain good relations with Britain and France. It is the military party which, having learned the power of the Triple Alliance in the matter of the Bosnian election, desires to work with that Alliance rather than with the Triple Entente of Britain, France, and Russia. By these means the military party, which holds the power in Turkey at present, no doubt hopes to be allowed a free hand to make war if and when it deems such a course desirable. All the money required, however, could not be obtained in Germany, and so recourse was had to a British banker, Sir Ernest Cassel, who has German connections. The attempt to play off Britain against France has failed, Sir Ernest Cassel goes to Paris to patch up the quarrel between the French lenders and the Turkish borrowers, and for some time longer the Turkish military party must cool its ardour.

THE LAND TAX.

The statement that it is intended to dragoon the land tax through Parliament before Mr. Fisher leaves for South Africa does not hold out much promise that this vicious measure will be subjected to sane revision. The haste is probably due to Mr. Fisher himself, and it is easy to understand how restless he would feel if he left the Commonwealth with the possibility of returning to find the tax shorn of its predatory clauses. But however much we may sympathise with Mr. Fisher, the necessities of the Commonwealth must come first, and it is plain that this is the last measure in the world that ought to be rushed through at high pressure or scamped by late sittings. The Government may have made up its mind, and it may have determined to make full use of its superior force. It is also likely that the effect of Opposition criticism or public opinion is by no means to its taste. But however these things may be, it is essential that every clause should receive attention, simply because there is hardly any clause in the crudely-drafted bill that does not require amending, while many of them require amending out of existence. The Opposition, therefore, will be unable to help the Government in its anxiety to get the thing through with the minimum of discussion, and we hope that the process of educating public opinion as to its true significance will show no sign of being discontinued. There is no doubt that half the support given outside Parliament to a graduated land tax would be withdrawn once the real character of this bill became known, just as there is no doubt that already a strong revulsion of feeling has set in.

There is, of course, no objection to the Government giving the measure precedence over other business, but in a bill of this kind apparently minor amendments may mean a great deal, and the wording of each clause has to be closely scrutinised in order that some hidden injustice may be made to emerge. All this is quite apart from the fundamental principles at issue. It represents the proper work of a committee, and it is imperative that it should take up a good deal of time. The Opposition may be relied on not to offer any merely captious obstacles to progress, but it would fail lamentably in its duty did it not take every opportunity Parliamentary procedure affords to get the bill into more reasonable shape. If Mr. Fisher is anxious to see the basic principles of graduated land taxation on the statute book he can easily expedite matters, provided he is willing to himself remove the outstanding absurdities and anomalies with which the measure has been loaded. If he will take the initiative in exempting city holdings, for instance, or in removing the unjust provisions for taxing on aggregate values, he will find the Opposition in a mood to give him reasonable assistance. Liberalism has no fundamental objection to the graduation principle, though experience shows it has never so far fulfilled its promise. What we do most strenuously object to are matters extrinsic to the nominal purpose of the bill, and if Mr. Fisher is in earnest over principles he can have no objection to throwing overboard these vagaries of practice.

LABOUR AND THE CAPITAL.

Mr. Wade is doing good service in keeping public attention focussed upon the actions, or rather inactions, of the Federal Labour Ministry in regard to the Federal capital. True, the site has been nominally selected, and after much trouble a small sum of money has been voted for a commencement on necessary works there. The Labour party has made a good deal of what it did in this respect. During its first short term of office it did something, and we found a pleasure in giving credit where credit was due. But, while Mr. Fisher's former Government unquestionably helped towards a settlement in keeping with the Constitution, his present Government, or rather his present party, has shown little disposition to honour his political bills. At the last Federal elections, the Labour candidates throughout New South Wales made much of what their party had done to fix the capital. But what is the position now? This, that the Labour Ministry finds itself being bossed by Victorian, or, rather, Melbourne, interests, and stands paralysed. It is frightened to move. We are quite prepared to believe that Mr. W. M. Hughes and other New South Wales representatives (always excluding Senator Rae, who seems to experience an especial pleasure in voting against his State) are anxious to have the capital question settled once for all. We think we are right in saying that every New South Wales Labour member, excepting Senator Rae, wants Yass-Canberra to be the site of the future capital city of Australia.

But although this is so we find the Federal Government spell-bound. As a Government, not to Australia is it looking, not of the honourable redemption of constitutional pledges is it thinking, but to keeping in pace with the Victorian intriguers against any such redemption. If Mr. Fisher resents this indication of his attitude it is in his hands to alter it. Let him issue the proclamation, which will legally establish Yass-Canberra as the Federal site, and we have no more to say. But he does not do this. His excuse is that certain Federal legislation applying to the site must pass before the proclamation issues. Mr. Fisher knows that this is a contemptible subterfuge. Nothing of the kind is needed. Nothing of the sort seems to be even possible during the current session of the Federal Parliament. If, then, Mr. Fisher refrains from issuing the necessary proclamation forthwith, he stands condemned as a political coward, who is taking his instructions from Melbourne. This State, Mr. Fisher might just as well understand, is not going to submit to being coolly pirated by Victoria, that is to say Melbourne. And if the Federal proclamation of the capital does not issue immediately we shall be entitled to conclude that Mr. Fisher has meekly surrendered to Victorian influences. In the meantime, is it not safer for New South Wales electors to support Liberal candidates? The Liberal Government has made a persistent stand for the selected site—Yass-Canberra. The Labour Opposition, however, is not committed. It must acquiesce in whatever the caucus wishes, even though the Federal Government should be told to break faith completely with New South Wales. The Federal Labour Government can only prove itself above such suspicions by acts, and not by words, which may be designed to deceive.

Holiday Number of the "Herald."—The "Herald" to-morrow will contain a special "tourist section," in which considerable space, both in letterpress and picture, is devoted to many pleasant places where holidays may be spent. The charm of the sea, the mountains, and the bush have been dealt with in an entertaining way, and incidentally there is much to interest nature-lovers.

Saturday Half Holiday.—In a few weeks the old shopping hours will be revolutionised. So far, no steps have been taken to impress this fact on the public mind (writes Mr. Chas. Coghlan, the organising secretary of the Saturday Half-holiday League). He points out that in Brisbane, by mutual decision, all the shops close at 6 and 9 p.m., and in Melbourne the principal shops close at 6, whilst 9 p.m., as the latest hour, is recognised all over New Zealand. In Sydney already two prominent business firms have, of their own free will, adopted 9 p.m. as their time of closing. Most of the other firms, however, seem to be waiting to see what the "other fellow intends to do," before making their decison. He further adds that they need have no fear of losing custom if they decide to close at the hour of 9 in preference to 10 p.m.

Parliamentary Reform.—Mr. Ferguson, one of the Liberal candidates, has brought out into strong relief the attitude of the Labour party toward Parliamentary reform. In a speech the other evening he said:—"The Labour party say they are going to abolish the Upper House. That has been on their platform for 20 years, and although it controlled Government after Government for many years, yet the Upper House still stands. Mr. M'Gowen on the election hustings not many years ago said: 'We will reform the Upper House or else we will stand a discredited party.' The Labour party was returned on that pledge. How did Mr. M'Gowen reform it; by placing Mr. Fred. Flowers and four others in the Upper House. (Laughter and uproar.) The Labour party were in power at the time behind Mr. Reid, but Mr. M'Gowen had no more intention of reforming the Upper House than he has now. (Uproar.) To prove that, I will tell you another home truth. When the bill was before Parliament for reduction of members in the Lower House, the Liberal party fought hard to reduce the number to 50; but it was Labour member Dacey who moved the amendment to make the number 90, and you can thank the Labour party and not the Liberal party that your Lower House is 90 to-day and not 50, as the people desire it should be."

Mayoral Tribute to a Conference.—Compliments were handed out by the Mayor of Bexley (Alderman Biddulph) at last council meeting, when he reported that he had attended the local government conference. He said his opinion was that it would be waste time for Bexley to again join the association. "Talk about washerwomen," he added, "why, they're a lot worse."

A Non-prohibition Cow.—People in George-street, near the Haymarket, last Thursday night were much amused with the doings of a cow which was being driven along the road to the accompaniment of stockwhip cracks. The animal was bewildered by the street lights and the whip, and after a few excursions on to the footpath, which sent pedestrians flying for shelter behind posts, suddenly disappeared into the bar of the Miners' Arms Hotel, where its appearance caused a sensation. The animal tarried but a minute or two, and ran out again to continue its exercise along the street and footpaths. Those who appreciated the incident most were people who witnessed it from a safe place in passing tramcars.

On arrival of the China Navigation Company's steamer Taiyuan on Saturday the Customs searchers, in charge of Officer Cobb, made a seizure of 16 tins of opium, which was concealed in the shaft tunnel.

On Friday night the tobacconist's store occupied by Mr. Browne, of 53 Castlereagh-street, was entered by thieves, and cigars, cigarettes, and accessories, valued at between £10 and £15, were stolen. The stock of the establishment was also damaged by the thieves in their search for plunder. It is supposed an entry was gained by forcing a skylight over the saloon.

An examination of applicants for positions as apprentice clerks in the Railway Department will be held in the Railway Institute at 2 p.m. to-morrow.

In connection with the vehicle ferry service between Milson's Point and Macquarie Point, some necessary repairs are to be carried out at the Milson's Point landing stage, and it is notified that between noon and 5 p.m. to-morrow this ferry service will be suspended. To minimise the inconvenience of the travelling public, an accelerated service will be run on the Dawes Point-Blue's Point ferry during those hours.

THE WAYS OF RESTAURANTS.

WAITRESSES' ALLEGATIONS.

PERTH, Sunday.

The fashionable Moana Cafe received a bad advertisement during the hearing of a Police Court case, in which a Greek cook, named Nicholas Contsoukas, was charged with having unlawfully wounded Eva Smith, a waitress. Prosecutrix gave evidence that she toasted a muffin for herself, and was getting a dish of butter from the ice-chest when accused pushed her aside, and said, "You must not use that butter." She hit him across the forehead with her open hand, and he threw a table knife at her face. The knife cut her right wrist, which she put up to protect her face. Accused then threatened to smash a salad bowl on her face. Witness knew the rule was to ask the pantryman for butter, but she wanted to get some from the ice-chest, as the other was not fit for use. The butter was scraped by accused with his fingers from customers' plates and put into a dish. The waitresses were supposed to use only this butter, which was also rolled up, placed on saucers, and served to customers. She had seen this done. If accused had paid her out-of-pocket and doctor's expenses she would not have reported the case to the police. Accused was remanded.

PERSONAL.

The Premier (Mr. Wade) left Sydney last night for Condobolin. He will be absent in the country for the major part of the week.

Professor David, of Sydney University, is returning in the R.M.S. Ormus from Western Australia. He is much impressed with the prospects of the permanence of the gold deposits in the Kalgoorlie region, and says that unquestionably in thousands of square miles of unexploited scrub there must exist enormous belts of undiscovered gold-bearing country.

Professor Lowrie has resigned the position of Director of Agriculture in Western Australia in order to take up a similar position in South Australia, where he was previously employed. He will leave Western Australia in February next.

The members of the Scottish Agricultural Commission arrived in Adelaide on Saturday, and were entertained at luncheon by the Ministry. Before rejoining the R.M.S. Ormuz for Melbourne they were taken for a motor trip through the hills. On reaching Melbourne they will proceed by train to Warwick, Queensland, to meet the chairman (Sir Carlaw Martin).

An official visit to Ballarat was made on Friday by the Primate, Dr. Wright. In the morning the Primate was welcomed at the City Hall by the Mayor, a number of representative citizens being present. A garden party was held at Bishopscourt, the residence of Bishop Green, in the afternoon. At night a public meeting was held in the Manifold Chapter-house.

Owing to indisposition, the Lady Mayoress has found it necessary to cancel the "at home" at the Town Hall to-day, and all other engagements until further notice.

Sir Newton Moore, who recently resigned the Western Australian Premiership on account of ill-health, is now touring the country in a motor car. His medical advisers consider that complete rest should bring about recovery in a couple of months. In that event he will become Agent-General for Western Australia.

Mme. Carreno will leave Sydney to-day for a fortnight's holiday at Katoomba and elsewhere. After making some further appearances in Sydney she will sail for the Cape on October 18.

Mr. W. Grantham (president) and Mr. Wallace Henderson (secretary) will represent the Mail Branch Association at the conference of representatives of the postal employees to commence in Melbourne on October 6.

The death is announced, by cable from Scotland, of Mr. Andrew Rowan, a very well-known Melbourne citizen, who was largely interested in landed property and financial institutions. Some twelve months ago Mr. Rowan had a paralytic seizure, and, acting under medical advice, he went for a trip to Europe, with Mrs. Rowan. Two weeks ago his condition became alarming. Mr. Rowan, who was a native of County Down, Ireland, engaged in mercantile pursuits soon after his arrival in Melbourne. He established a business in Collins-street, where he dealt chiefly in station supplies, and he had another place in Sydney. Subsequently he acquired pastoral interests in Queensland. Mr. Rowan was one of the original directors in the Melbourne Tramway Company, and held a seat on the board up to the time of his death. At one time he was a director of Goldsbrough, Mort, and Company, Ltd.

JAPANESE CONSUL-GENERAL.

APPOINTMENT OF MR. M. SAITOW.

Mr. C. Hayashi, Chancellor-in-Charge of the Japanese Consulate-General, has been notified that Mr. M. Saitow has been appointed as the successor of Mr. Uyeno, and that he is expected to arrive at Sydney by the Japanese mail steamer Yawata Maru on October 19.

Mr. Saitow has been in the service of the Japanese Foreign Office for over 25 years, having entered it in July, 1885. In February of the following year he was sent to the Consulate at Hongkong, where he remained until April, 1890, when he was transferred to Singapore. He was promoted to the rank of Vice-Consul while at Singapore (in December, 1893), and in August, 1894, he received a decoration from the King of Siam. He was appointed Vice-Consul at Tacoma, Washington, U.S.A., in October, 1895, and remained there for nearly three years, during which time he was decorated by the Emperor of Japan with the sixth class of the Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure, for meritorious service at the time of the war between China and Japan. In December, 1897, he was promoted to the rank of Consul, and in August, 1898, he was appointed Consul at Honolulu, where he remained for over 10 years.

In December, 1901, Mr. Saitow received a further decoration from the Japanese Emperor (the fifth class of the Sacred Treasure), and in October, 1902, he was promoted to the rank of Consul-General. In April, 1906, he received a still higher decoration (4th class of the Sacred Treasure) for meritorious service during the Russo-Japanese war.

Mr. Saitow returned to Japan in December, 1908, and was appointed chief of the third section of the Bureau of Commerce, in the Department of Foreign Affairs at Tokio, which position he held until July 29 last, when he was appointed Consul-General at Sydney. Mr. Saitow was born in June, 1857, and is therefore in his 54th year.

PRESENTATION TO A BANKER.

The high esteem in which Mr. A. P. Stewart, first general manager of the Australian Bank of Commerce, is held by the officers of the bank was illustrated a few days ago, when presentations were made to him and Mrs. Stewart. Amongst those present on the occasion were Mr. P. H. Morton (chairman of directors), Sir William P. Manning, Dr. G. J. Sly, and Mr. C. H. Myles (directors), Dr. Mackellar, Monsignor O'Donovan, of Mudgee, and Dr. Kennedy, late of Hay, three of Mr. Stewart's oldest friends; while several branch managers and about 200 other officers of the bank also attended. Mr. Copley Horne, chief inspector, presided. Mr. Horne said that the work Mr. Stewart had done during the last 16 years in the interests of the old Joint Stock Bank and its officers had been enormous, and had earned for him the goodwill and esteem of all. On behalf of the officers he presented Mr. and Mrs. Stewart with a solid silver tea and coffee service in an oak case, an oak cabinet of cutlery, silver fruit stand, silver specimen vases, signet ring, spirit stand—and a horse. Owing to the limitations of the lift, he said, the horse was not present—(laughter)—but he could assure them it was a fine animal, and one that Mr. Stewart, as an enthusiastic horseman, would appreciate.

The secretary of the movement, Mr. R. A. Thomas, read numerous letters and telegrams from officers unable to be present through distance, and from other causes.

Mr. P. H. Morton referred to the pleasure of the directors in observing the good feeling existing between all branches of the service, from the humblest to the highest officers. He characterised the institution as being a co-operative concern, because the harder the officers worked, the better the profits, which would mean increased dividends and increased salaries. He also mentioned that consideration was being given to the formation of a fund which would benefit officers when they reached a certain age.

Monsignor O'Donovan said it was some 33 years since he had first met Mr. Stewart, who was then manager of the old Australian Joint Stock Bank at Gulgong, and who was the most popular man on the goldfields. It was then a treat to enter the bank and handle the three or four buckets of gold outside the counter, every guarantee being given that not a nugget would be removed. He (Mr. Stewart) had been present at the death and funeral of the old bank, and at the renaissance of the Bank of Commerce, which promised to be as flourishing as in old days the Joint Stock Bank was.

Mr. Stewart acknowledged the graceful compliment paid to him in the valuable gifts from the officers, and referred to the work of the directors and the strenuous efforts and loyal support of the officers who had worked together to bring the new institution into existence. Had it not been for the loyal co-operation of the officers in overcoming many obstacles, it would never have been accomplished, and he felt some qualms of conscience in being singled out for recognition. He expressed his deep sense of gratitude, both on behalf of himself and Mrs. Stewart.

WOOLSHED BURNED.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

The woolshed on Yancowinna Station, about 25 miles from Broken Hill, was destroyed by fire this evening. The fire was discovered about 5.30 p.m., and the shed, which was situated about a mile from the homestead, was completely gutted. About 100 bales of wool were also destroyed. Shearing on the station had just been completed. Mr. R. Hamilton, the manager, puts the loss down roughly at between £2000 and £3000. The cause of the fire at present is [illegible].

STATE PREMIER'S FEARS.

FEDERAL CAPITAL AND LABOUR.

HOLDING OUT FOR THE ELECTIONS.

VICTORIAN INFLUENCE AT WORK.

Despite the assurance of Mr. W. M. Hughes and his colleagues, the Premier holds that the Federal capital site question is still in jeopardy owing to the Victorian influence on the Commonwealth Government.

"Another week has gone by," he said yesterday, "and yet, notwithstanding their protestations, the termination of this vexed matter is no nearer solution than before. At the same time, one hears very substantial rumours that the anti-New South Wales faction in Victoria have not relaxed their efforts, and that they are still using powerful arguments to prevent faith being kept by Mr. Fisher with New South Wales. On the other hand, Mr. Fisher seems to think it is far less serious to abandon New South Wales and break faith with the country than to lose Victorian support by taking the manly and straightforward course of carrying out the promise he has dangled before the public during the last three or four months. I have good reason to believe that it will be kept still dangling until after the elections. Then, if by any chance Mr. M'Gowen were returned to power, the Federal party could coerce Mr. M'Gowen into silence in the same way as they muzzled his voice and tongue when he was prepared to stand up for the rights of the State in connection with the financial agreement.

DANGER IN THE LABOUR VOTE.

"While New South Wales has always been very hard to move, whatever the form of attack has been, I don't hesitate to say that there is a special danger at this stage in voting for Labour, for every candidate returned in the Labour interest tends to make the desired majority, and past experience has shown that the State party are impotent in the grip of the dominating Federal caucus. It's all very well for Mr. Hughes to protest that they have endangered the support received from some Victorian members, but if New South Wales members did their duty, rather than allow the section who were disloyal to the Constitution to triumph over them, they should insist on their views being paramount, and put the responsibility of the breach with the Government upon the Prime Minister if he refuses to carry out his obvious duties. All these vapourings and assertions with regard to the vote on the Estimates are so much waste of time, because that was only an attempt on the part of the dissenting section to wipe out Yass-Canberra completely. The urgent step is to now insist upon the Prime Minister and his Government establishing Yass-Canberra as the site. The Federal candidates made a great boast of the way they had advanced the capital question in the recent Parliament, and claimed that they would still be loyal to the compact. Their whole course of action since their accession to power has been in this respect a gross betrayal of New South Wales and a flagrant disregard of their duty as responsible Ministers."

NETHERLANDS FLEET.

"AT HOME" ON THE DE RUYTER.

If the Dutch make good guests, the "At Home" given by the commodore, commanders, and officers of the Dutch squadron, on board H.N.M.S. de Ruyter on Saturday afternoon, showed that they also make admirable hosts. The function was a brilliant one, and many hundreds attended it, including the Admiral and Lady Poore, the State Premier and Mrs. Wade, the Chief Justice, Consuls-General for France, Germany, and Japan, the Consuls for the Netherlands, Russia, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, and Argentina, Mr. G. F. Earp (Vice-Consul for the Netherlands at Newcastle), Mr. T. H. Nesbitt (town clerk), Dr. Arthur, Colonel Burns, Mr. J. H. Stuart (general manager Royal Dutch Packet Company), Captain Rolleston, Mr. J. M. Paxton (president Chamber of Commerce), Mr. A. Wunderlich (president Chamber of Manufactures), Mr. J. Russell French (president Institute of Bankers), and Messrs. J. Barre Johnstone, James Stedman, J. R. Baxter Bruce, E. Reser, jun., Moens, and many others prominent in social and commercial life.

The visitors were conveyed direct from Man-o'-War Steps to the battleship, and were received at the gangway by Captain Raffard and Flag-lieutenant Albarda, being then introduced by the Vice-Consul for the Netherlands (Mr. S. H. Paling) to Commodore van Voss and the commanders. Bouquets of roses, tied with the national colours, were presented to Lady Poore, Mrs. Wade, and Mrs. Paling. The ship was beautifully decorated with flags, bunting, and palms and flowers, and a handsome photograph of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland looked down upon the guests as the commodore received them. The colour scheme of decoration on the ship, with the many exquisite dresses and the officers' uniforms, combined to make a gay and splendid scene. Commodore van Voss proved himself a charming host, and did everything possible to make the guests enjoy the visit. The band played selections all the afternoon, and the officers escorted the visitors over the ship, describing everything of interest; and if their English was at times a little faulty, their courtesy and their droll Dutch humour amply compensated.

All round the big white guns, near which stood the commodore and the commanders as they received their guests, were big and little shells, bright and shining. These things, the rows of rifles, the shining swords, the bright uniforms of the officers—was it to be wondered at that one recalled the Kaiser's "shining armour" speech?

The guests took afternoon tea and cake and candy forward, on deck, and in the rooms below—and they took Dutch "toddy," and voted it exquisite. Everything, indeed, was exquisite, including the band music, which concluded with the Dutch and British National Anthems.

Around the arms of the ladies the officers tied ribbon keepsakes, reminders of the Royal Dutch Marine, bearing the words "Koninklyke Nederlandsche Marine."

It was all over too soon. The visitors on the de Ruyter will not easily forget the time the Netherlands visitors gave them.

While the "At Home" was being held on the flagship, the petty officers and men were enjoying themselves at the Tivoli Theatre, as the guests of Mr. Harry Rickards.

Yesterday morning a children's party was given on board H.N.M.S. Hertog Hendrik by the commander, Captain H. T. Hoven.

This evening Commodore van Voss will entertain a party at dinner at the Australia Hotel. The squadron sails for Melbourne to-morrow morning.

THE "COERCION" ACT.

CHAMPIONED BY A UNIVERSITY MAN.

A new aspect of the discussion of the so-called "Coercion" Act was opened up by Mr. F. Coen, a young barrister, who spoke at the Glebe on Saturday night. He championed the Act, and boldly declared that it had served a great public use.

While Mr. Coen was speaking someone shouted, "What about the Coercion Act?"

"I am glad you mentioned that," said Mr. Coen. "I'll have a shot at it. Look here," he added, "all legislation is, to a certain extent, experimental, and is simply the result of the combined wisdom of the Parliament for the time being. Now, the Coercion Act was passed with the help of the Labour party. (Uproar.) The Labour members endorsed it. In Parliament they spoke against Peter Bowling, and they helped to pass the Act to put him into gaol. (Uproar.) No doubt at the time they were glad to see the back of him. (Uproar.) Well, the object of the Coercion Act was to stop the strike at Newcastle, and you can't deny that it killed the strike all right. (Uproar.) Now, then, boys, own up to the fact that the strike received its death-blow as soon as the Coercion Act was on the statute book; and before the ink on the papers was dry the strike congress took to its heels and ran from the Trades Hall. (Uproar.) These men had been drawing large salaries from the hard-earned wages of the workers, but the Coercion Act put a stop to their little game, and the public then got fair play. The Premier and the Labour party deserve the thanks of the public for passing that Act." (Uproar.)

THE CHURCH AND RAFFLES.

PERTH, Sunday.

The question of church raffles was discussed at the Anglican Synod on a motion by the Rev. Mr. Moore, "That the following be a question on the returns to be filled in annually by churchwardens: Are raffles permitted in the parish in aid of Church funds, and have any taken place? That a list of those parishes unable to answer in the negative be laid on the table of each synod." The diocesan secretary seconded the motion, as it would, he thought, show that there were not so many raffles going on as was supposed. The motion was lost by 35 votes to 32.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

The Premier left last night for a tour of the middle west. To-night he speaks at Condobolin in support of Mr. Ewers, the farmers' candidate for the Lachlan. To-morrow he is to be at Forbes, and the following evening at Parkes, to assist Mr. Weaver, who is making such a breezy fight for Ashburnham. On Thursday night Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick will have the benefit of his influence in Orange. Returning to Sydney on Friday morning he speaks at the Glebe the same evening in support of his colleague, Mr. Hogue.

The Minister for Justice, Mr. Garland, is to invade Mr. M'Gowen's Redfern stronghold this evening. To-morrow evening he helps Mr. Manning in Phillip. Mr. John Hughes, M.L.C., accompanies Mr. Wade to Forbes, and will subsequently speak at Burrowa on Thursday in furtherance of Mr. Grogan, who is opposing Mr. Nielsen. A further programme of meetings is being arranged for Mr. Hughes.

With a view to consolidating the Liberal vote in the eastern suburbs, Mr. Harry L. Freeman writes to suggest that a great rally should be organised to take place in the Centennial Park on a Saturday afternoon, Mr. Wade and other leading men of the party to speak, in conjunction with the candidates for the eastern suburbs electorates.

The Liberals have been called "wowsers" because they deemed it necessary to regulate the liquor traffic and to quarantine gambling. Sir James Graham furnishes a more convenient definition. "I was asked in Surry Hills," he said, "what definition I gave to the word 'wowser?' I said, 'A wowser is a self-righteous humbug, and there are as many in the Trades Hall as in the Liberal ranks.'"

The Farmers and Settlers' platform has for its first three planks.—(1) Land settlement to be paramount over revenue, (2) freehold tenure as opposed to nationalisation of land; (3) choice of tenure to applicants under Crown Lands Acts. These three planks indicate a sound, commonsense policy, instead of nationalisation or leasehold, with constant reappraisement, with which the Labour party threatened the landholders of the State. The Farmers and Settlers' platform is endorsed by the Liberal party.

Although Alderman Meacle, the independent Liberal candidate for Paddington, has been having very good meetings, his chances of unseating Mr. Oakes are not improving. Mr. Oakes is fortunate in having a large personal following, while his platform work is telling with the electorate generally. Alderman Meacle is the candidate for whom Mr. E. M. Clark, the independent Liberal for St. Leonards, was advertised to speak; but Mr. Clark did not put in an appearance.

Neither in the north or south coast is Labour likely to meet with any success. Mr. Wood will hold Eden-Bombala, Captain Millard is invincible in Clyde, while for Allowrie Mr. Craig has not got even a good fighting chance against Mr. Mark Morton. An erstwhile Liberal, Mr. Craig has yet to get the sober-minded dairy farmers of this electorate to take him seriously as a standard-bearer of Labour; and Mr. R. D. Meagher's support certainly has not helped him. In the meantime Mr. Morton is having splendid meetings.

Mr. J. S. Garden, the locally-selected Labour candidate for Raleigh, sums up the contest in this electorate thus optimistically: "At the first poll Mr. Briner will lead, with himself second, and Mr. Clem. Johnson third; but his and Mr. Johnson's votes together will more than equal Mr. Briner's. At the second ballot the electors will be so impressed with the Labour victories reflected in the first poll that he, as the selected Labour candidate, will be triumphantly returned on the second ballot." On present indications Mr. Garden is likely to prove a bad prophet. A much safer prediction is that Mr. Briner will win handsomely on the first ballot.

If consistent attention to country interests, and unobtrusive but most useful work in Parliament, are to receive adequate recognition, Mr. Davidson's return for the Hastings and Macleay should be assured. The contest in this electorate is triangular, Mr. Harry Morton standing as an independent Liberal, while there is also a selected Labour candidate. It is a pity that a capable and energetic man like Mr. Morton had not chosen a constituency where he could have had a straight-out fight with an oppositionist instead of splitting the vote of a good Liberal.

Picturesque Note from Orange: "On Friday evening the Rev. T. S. Crawford addressed a small and not altogether favourable meeting at the corner of Robertson Park in support of the candidature of Mr. Greg. M'Girr, the Labourite. The address was rather coldly received, the speaker lacking vigour, but abounding in abstruseness, heavily dashed with altruism, and too elevated for practical purposes. He was regarded as rather weak, vague, and inadequate."

The Labour party affects to be hopeful of winning Mudgee. At all events it is one of the electorates that are receiving special attention. Mrs. Bowman, of the Liberal Women's Organising Committee, who has just completed a tour of the principal centres, declares that the Liberal supporters realise that every vote will be required, and are working strenuously to the end that every Liberal vote should be polled. The Premier will visit Mudgee at a later period of the campaign.

"Ashburnham" writes:—"In a recent issue Mr. Arthur Griffith is reported to have said: 'Organised interruptions of public meetings are not encouraged by either side.' Such being Mr. Griffith's opinion, will he, a leading member of the Labour party, take such steps as will stop a Mrs. Leonard, a paid organiser of the Labour party, from going about the country organising systematic interruptions of Mr. Wade's meetings? Speaking here (Forbes) on 16th inst, she advised her hearers 'to go for Mr. Wade on the occasion of his visit to Forbes on 27th inst, and give him his deserts.' If Mr. Wade gets his 'deserts' at Forbes he will get what he got even at Newcastle, namely, an attentive and appreciative hearing."

"There is room in the Labour party only for those committed, for the present and for the future, by a cast-iron pledge to legislate exclusively along lines marked by league conferences, quite unrepresentative of the great democracy of the country. To fall short, or to overshoot that line, however sentiment or intelligence may urge, is to be branded with the stigma of anti-labour, and visited with all the pains and penalties within the power of infliction by the P.L.L. There is room in the Liberal party for the initiation, advocacy, and realisation of every principle and project which Parliament in its collective capacity may consider, support, and translate into legislation. Is it any wonder then that one of my temperament feels in this campaign as free and as independent as any candidate who ever appealed to the electors of this historic division?"—Mr. Neville Mayman, in King Division.

When Labour candidates are asked to define their policy they not infrequently refer questioners to their platform. Their policy, they say, is there in black and white, and is well known to everyone. If this is the case, how comes it that some of the members of the Opposition preach a doctrine in the country that does not always harmonise with the party's platform? Mr. M'Garry, for instance, appears to have the breeziest contempt for what is contained in the platform, judging by his answer to a question asked at Wagga. "According to your party's platform, you are pledged against a borrowing policy. How, then, do you propose to get the money to construct the urgently needed railways which you say will be carried out in the event of your party succeeding to office?" he was asked. Mr. M'Garry was more than equal to the occasion. "I believe there is something of the sort in the platform," the candidate replied; "but if the Opposition is returned to power they will construct the needed railways and borrow the money to do it." Now, which of these two voices—the platform or the candidate—is to be taken as authoritative?

Of course it is understood that the Labour candidate would not dare to go against a progressive railway policy in a district where all classes of the community are demanding improved public service in this direction; but what are we to think of the standard of political morality which permits of a party seeking to be entrusted with the responsible office of Government lightly assuming this two-faced attitude? Members of the Labour party, we have been repeatedly assured, are bound by the platform. It would seem, however, that this is not the case when it happens that candidates are endeavouring to win votes in a community where certain planks in the platform would not be tolerated by the great majority of the people. If members may repudiate the platform at will when it suits them to do so, and each candidate has a policy of his own, what are the electors to make of the chaos thus created? If the whole of the Labour candidates stood to the platform which purports to embody their policy the electors would know precisely where they were and what to expect in the event of Mr. M'Gowen becoming Premier of the State. As it is, the policy of the Opposition, with one candidate advocating the "pledged" platform, and the other candidate repudiating various planks in the same platform, it is bewildering as some of the logic of the leaders, and, as a matter of common honesty and good faith, the electors have a right to know which of the confusing and conflicting fragments of policy with which the constituencies are being bombarded is authoritative.

BOILERMAKERS' LOCKOUT.

EMPLOYERS UNYIELDING.

MEN IN ANGRY MOOD.

LONDON, Sept. 23.

The Shipbuilders' Federation has intimated to the employees that the proposal made at the Edinburgh conference is final, and that the onus for a continuance of the lockout will be thrown on the men.

Sept. 24.

The conference at Edinburgh between the Federation of Shipbuilding Employers and the Boilermakers' Society has been adjourned. No date has been fixed for its resumption.

The "Daily Chronicle" reports that the outlook in the shipbuilding trade is gloomy. The "Daily Chronicle" adds that the leaders of the men are surprised at the uncompromising attitude of the masters respecting the lockout, and that withdrawal of the lockout is an indispensable preliminary to allaying irritation in trade-union ranks before a ballot is taken regarding the guarantees to be given to the masters that all constitutional means will be taken to settle disputes before a strike is declared.

[The proposal of the masters is that the Boilermakers' Society should fine strikers £3 for a first breach of agreement and £5 for a second. If the men should not pay up the society should pay the fines, and the employers would refund them if at the end of six months the men had still not paid up, the masters not desiring to cripple the society. The masters promised not to employ men expelled from the society.]

COTTON-SPINNING AGREEMENT.

The conditions are accepted, provided a joint meeting is held.

THREATS AGAINST GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 23.

The "Manchester Guardian" says that the trades-unions will confer respecting the introduction of legislation to repeal the Osborne judgment, and send a deputation to make an appeal for such legislation to the Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith.

In the event of Mr. Asquith's refusal to support such legislation, the trades-unions will declare war on the Government.

Mr. Osborne, who has been expelled from the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, following on his action against that body, in a letter to the newspapers, says that socialists have captured the machinery of trades-unions, hence the votes at the Sheffield Congress.

Mr. Osborne adds that the resolution respecting the judgment was "a screaming farce," and not representative of the mass of trades unionists.

NEW AUSTRALIAN LINE.

A SWEDISH SERVICE.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

A correspondent of the "Shipping Gazette" states that, owing to a disagreement between the Deutsch-Australische Company and the Swedish South Africa line, regarding the joint working, the latter has entered into an agreement with Fearnley and Eger, of Christiania, and Wilhelmsen, of Tonsberg, Norway, for a joint working of the Australian line.

Eight steamers, 9000 tons each, will be put on the service, and they will make one or two sailings monthly.

The German-Australian line comprises a large fleet of steamers running to Australia. It was only recently announced that four additional vessels of 10,000 tons each were about to be built to cope with the increasing trade. The Swedish-South African line gives a service between Fredrickstad and Gothenburg, and Australia, via South Africa, the steamers in this line being the Australic, the Helenic, and the Tasmanic. These companies have had a working agreement for the movements of steamers from Fredrickstad and Gothenburg to Australia, under which they have had monthly sailings alternately.

The Swedish Company's new agreement would appear to be with Willhelmsen of Christiania, and Fearnley and Eger, of Tonsburg.

CRY OF POOR COTTAGERS.

IN MISERY THROUGH MOTOR CARS

PETITION TO THE QUEEN.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

A petition has been presented to the Queen, signed by 10,200 women living in cottages, beseeching that they should obtain a reprieve from the evil of motor cars. The petition states that the cars have made the lives of the signatories a misery, that their children are always in danger, that many of their things are ruined with dust, and that the rest are spoiled.

The petition suggests that motor cars should be compelled to proceed slowly through villages, "but," it added, "we are only poor people, and the majority of those using cars do not take account of us. We appeal to your Majesty to use your great influence in our favour."

The Queen expressed sympathy with the objects sought by the petition.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY.

BIG CHANGES IN WESTERN CANADA.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23.

Messrs. Thomas Skinner and Burbidge, directors of the Hudson Bay Company, who are visiting Canada, will inaugurate big changes in Winnipeg, Calgary, and Vancouver.

The Hudson Bay Company at one time claimed, under its charter, the whole of the north-west of Canada, and until 50 years ago actually governed the whole of that territory, and governed it, writes the "Morning Post," with such disregard for the rights of the settlers that a rebellion ensued, as a result of which the Canadian Government in 1869 purchased all the territory of the company with the exception of certain blocks. It is no doubt in connection with the future of these blocks that the visit of the directors mentioned in the cables is made.

JAM EMPLOYEES' STRIKE.

MEN AND WOMEN CEASE WORK.

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

Further evidence of the militant side of the United Labourers' Union was provided on Saturday, when the whole of the employees of McEwin and Co.'s jam factory at College Park came out on strike for higher wages. The employees' put in an ultimatum on Saturday morning, and a conference was held. The conditions asked for were male employees 8s per day of 8 hours, and overtime at the rate of time and a quarter. For girls the following was asked:—Under 16 years of age, 16s week; over 16 and up to 18, 18s 6d; over 18 and up to 20, 23s; for those pouring out hot jam, 23s week, irrespective of age. Mr. McEwin afterwards stated that he considered the requests for girls were exorbitant. He would wait for a day or two until there was a meeting of directors. Nothing could be done until the firm had had time to consider the position. About 30 men and 40 women and girls are out on strike. The secretary of the United Labourers' Union says the employees' will all be out on Monday, and the men will not go back until the girls get fair conditions.

WRECKAGE ON KING ISLAND.

Regarding the finding of a lifebuoy and the blades of two paddles bearing the name "Princess Marie" on the west side of King Island during August, Captain Davis, of the Waucehope, considers it strange that nothing further has been heard to set at rest the mystery regarding the vessel of that name. The paint on the buoy appears quite fresh. The name of the vessel is very distinct. Captain Davis is of opinion that a disaster occurred in the vicinity of Kangaroo Island.

"ILLEGITIMATE SPORT."

ITS GRIP ON AUSTRALIA.

HORSE-RACING CONDEMNED.

NEWCASTLE DEAN'S STRICTURES.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The Rev. Golding Bird, Dean of Newcastle, addressed a large gathering of men in the Newcastle Cathedral this afternoon on the subject of "Sport, Legitimate and Otherwise." "Sport," said the Dean, "is a prolific mother of a monstrous family, including children, both legitimate and illegitimate. Legitimate sport will be that which is a means to an end, that end being the recreating of men's faculties for life's serious work. When sport is made an end in itself it is not good, it is not wholesome, it is illegitimate. Australia may be called the home of sport, both legitimate and illegitimate."

By way of an introduction to these emphatically expressed opinions, the speaker said:—"Australians love to speak of Australia as 'God's own land.' How far was it true to say that if everything went on in future as at present, and reached its natural fulfilment, would Australia in 100 years deserve to be called 'God's own land?' In Australia religion had to compete with pleasure, and pleasure gained the day. In the country religion was often unrepresented, and children were often brought up in the backblocks without having religion taught to them at all. Then again, most people came to Australia to make money, and money-making was largely the objective of most Australians. This in itself was no wrong, but was liable to breed the cult of materialism. The standard of luxury and pleasure was much higher in Australia than in older countries.

"Australia," said the Dean, "has reared up altars to pleasure and reared up altars to luxury, and those altars have many a victim offered up on them."

Admitting the existence of legitimate sport in Australia, the Dean went on to say that there were athletes in Australia who could hold their own with any other country in the world, and when he criticised the sports of Australia he did not forget that Australia had true sportsmen and true athletes. "But," he said, "Australia has got into the grip of an illegitimate form of sport, which is unworthy of the name of sport, and which, if carried to its natural conclusion, will eat out the heart of Australia and leave her a paralysed body, unable to fulfil her destiny." The most obvious form of illegitimate sport, continued the speaker, was horseracing. Although horseracing in itself had nothing bad about it, as it was practised to-day it was absolutely corrupt. Horseracing was a legitimate sport, which had almost wholly become illegitimate by being a synonym for gambling. It was not a means for recreating men's faculties, but a means to an end, the end being money making. It was not exaggerating to say that if gambling were eliminated from horseracing the majority of those who went to races would not go at all. They all knew that the best horse was not always allowed to win. How many boys had become thieves in order to pay their gambling debts, so-called debts of honour? How many homes in Australia to-day were poverty stricken because the breadwinner was a gambler? Where did sport come in all this?

Referring to Australian hero worship, the Dean said that to many a young Australian the highest form of man was the successful jockey or the professional prizefighter.

In conclusion, the Dean said that the gambling evil in Australia was a bigger evil than the intemperate use of intoxicants. "The foe of gambling is attacking Australia. It is a big foe, a dangerous foe, and if you love Australia you will be up and doing and fighting Australia's battle. Fight for the country you love; fight for fair Australia. A foe more subtle never crossed the sea. A foe more desperate than the yellow peril or the German peril is approaching our shores, our cities, our towns, villages, and hamlets. If you had to fight for your home you would be up and doing. A foe more desperate is at your door. Arise, men, and fight for fair Australia in God's own time for God's own land."

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES.

CLAIMS FOR INCREASED PAY.

PREMIER'S EXPLANATION.

It is claimed by officers in the traffic branch of the railway service that they have not participated in the increases of salaries at a time when the Public Service generally has been receiving them on account of the increased cost of living. "Fault seems to have been found with myself on the ground of not keeping faith with promises made at Chatswood some months ago," said the Premier on the subject. "It should be clearly understood, however, that when I spoke I referred to the fact that the unions in some departments of the Government service were governed by boards under the Industrial Disputes Act, whereby their demands could be adjusted to meet the increased cost of living. But there were many sections of the Public Service who were not under the jurisdiction of these boards, and the intention of the Government was to set apart for those branches of the service an amount of money for the purpose of meeting the increased cost of living. At no time was it intended or stated that this money would be available for those departments who were actually governed by awards of various boards. The particular sections with regard to whom the complaint is now made seem to consist of stationmasters, night officers, and persons engaged in clerical work. As a matter of fact, I understand that a board has been applied for in respect of those officers, and that the hearing will probably take place before Judge Heydon in the course of a week or ten days. I presume, therefore, all these questions with regard to remuneration of these officers will then be inquired into. I may add incidentally that the determination of the Judge with regard to those engaged in clerical work in the Railway Department will be available as a guide to those engaged in clerical pursuits by private employers. It is probable some standard will be laid down which can be adopted with regard to the grading of clerks engaged in private employment."

CARNARVON BAY WRECK.

CASTAWAYS IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

When the steamer Oonah, from Burnie, drew up to the South Wharf in the River this afternoon the two boats' crews who left the sinking ship Carnarvon Bay, off King Island, on the evening of Sept. 15, and then parted company, resumed acquaintanceship. They had separated in an hour of great danger, and they met again safe and sound and in good spirits.

"Where's Tich's trousers?" was the first question asked. The crew had read in Burnie of the signal which was used by the boat's crew picked up in the straits by the steamer Tarcoola and brought to Melbourne a week ago. The signal was a pair of trousers belonging to A. Jonns, an apprentice, better known to his mates as "Tich." "The trousers are going to Sydney," was the answer returned from the wharf. A firm has offered "Tich" a new suit of clothes for them."

The passengers and the shipwrecked men speedily passed the gangway. An apprentice was immediately carried off by his mother, Mrs. Monk, who had come from Adelaide to meet her son and rejoice over his safe return. Monk's shipmates had no relatives to welcome them, but there were letters awaiting some of them at the Sailors' Home. There was much handshaking and no little clapping of shoulders as the men filed through the crowd to reach the ferry on their way to the Sailors' Home.

Their main unpleasant impression appeared to be the walk of eight miles from the beach on which they landed on the Thursday night to the first settler's hut. "We had to walk through long grass, much taller than I am," said young Labey, an apprentice; "and there was a swamp inches deep at our feet."

The seamen had not much more to tell than has already been reported of their experiences. "We had a good time," they all confessed. "I wouldn't mind being shipwrecked every week if we got treated like we have been since we left the ship," remarked one of the crew.

LADY LOCH'S SEARCH.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

An official inquiry is to be made into the question whether the search by the Government steamer Lady Loch for the second boat's crew of the wrecked ship Carnarvon Bay, was as thorough as it should have been. During her search the Lady Loch visited King Island; but returned with no news of the missing men.

UNIQUE RELIGIOUS GATHERING.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Exhibition Building was the scene of something unique in the way of a religious gathering yesterday, when some two thousand young Christian Endeavourers took part in a demonstration entitled "A Christian Endeavour Powlett," an object-lesson in which, with the aid of the various appurtenances of a coal mine, they drew a number of striking analogies between the place of that indispensable substance in civilised life and the Bible in the life of a Christian.

"YOU ASKED FOR IT."

WHO ARE THE POLITICAL RATS?

THE UNDYING HOSTILITY RESOLUTION

On Saturday evening Mr. W. J. Ferguson gave a hostile crowd what he termed "some home truths" in reference to Labour candidates now before the electors. An interjector had called, "What did you rat for?"

Mr. Ferguson: It appears to me you are afraid of the truth. You don't like to hear a man who knows your leaders as I know them. (Uproar.) The reason was simply because I would not submit to be chained up. I went to Broken Hill to address the electors of Sturt, and was told that I could not do so until the unions had selected the candidate. It was the executive who said that, and I told them the regulations did not say so. I addressed the meeting in spite of them. They selected somebody else, and I beat their man by 3 to 1. Then the Broken Hill trades unions asked me to come back to their fold again. (Uproar.) Now you asked for it, and you got it. I ratted as you call it once in 20 years; but look at Fitzgerald, Kelly, and others, who were practically put out of the Labour party, and the conference passed a resolution of undying hostility to those men. (Uproar.) Those were the words in the resolution, "undying hostility." Fitzgerald then ran against Hughes, who beat him. Kelly ran against Holman, who also beat him; and yet we now find these men, who were practically put out of the Labour party by a resolution of undying hostility passed by the conference in respect to them, being received back with open arms, and running as the selected candidates of the party at this election. (Uproar.) You asked for it, and you got it. If you want any more, look at Frank M'Lean, once a Liberal, now the selected candidate of the Labour party. Look at D. O'Reilly, another man selected as a Labour candidate. Why, these men have been in all parties, yet they are received back with open arms by your Labour party, despite the undying hostility resolution. (Uproar.) These men ratted from different parties half a dozen times in five years. I left the Labour party honourably 15 years ago. I have never troubled them since, despite the fact that they have written to me asking me to come back; but I object to having a padlock put on my mouth, and I will never follow the drum and the fife if they are not going my way. (Uproar.)

NEW PAPER MONEY.

GUARDING THE TREASURY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A passage-way close to the strong-room in the Federal Treasury is being fitted with temporary machinery to print the first Federal currency notes, which are to be issued on December 1. This first issue of notes will be ordinary unsigned banknotes; but they will have printed across them the words, "Treasury note payable in gold coin at the Commonwealth Treasury at the seat of Government," and be signed by the secretary to the Treasury, Mr. G. T. Allen, and the accountant, Mr. J. R. Collins. There will be no 10s notes at the start, the denominations used by the banks being adopted, namely: £1, £5, £10, £20, and so on. The Treasury strong-room, in which the notes will be kept, will be strengthened, and guarded night and day by four armed members of the Royal Australian Artillery. In the daytime three of the R.A.A. will be inside the building, and one on duty outside. In the nighttime the four will be inside, one man being continually pacing up and down the passage. Police supervision at nighttime outside the building will also be arranged for. When the banknotes are used up proper machinery will have been installed for the printing of the Commonwealth notes from blank paper.

A BLACK INVASION.

PROTECTING MERCANTILE MARINE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

A deputation from the Federated Seamen's Union of Australasia and several members of Parliament waited on the Premier and Mr. J. A. Millar, and asked the Government to deal with the question of foreign cheaply-manned vessels being allowed to compete with the New Zealand mercantile marine. One of the deputation stated that the country was face to face with a black invasion, and urged that visiting vessels should be amenable to the New Zealand law. New Zealand should protect its shores as America did. The Premier said the Government was in complete sympathy with the views of the deputation. What was wanted was legislation to provide for the extension of the coast-line, so as to include Australia, New Zealand, and the Pacific Islands. If that could not be obtained, he was quite prepared to recommend his colleagues that legislation be introduced this session which would protect New Zealand's interest.

OLD WOMAN'S DEATH.

DROWNED IN UNDERGROUND TANK.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Mrs. Adelaide Wigmore, an elderly woman, living with her husband at Estellville, near West Wallsend, met her death in a rather mysterious manner early yesterday morning. Her people noticed that she was missing, and that her bed had apparently been slept on. A search was made for her, and her body was eventually found on the bottom of the underground well. She was wearing only an undergarment, a petticoat, and a pair of stockings. Deceased's husband, George Wigmore, stated that his wife, who was about 60 years of age, appeared to be well at midnight on Friday. It is supposed that she walked in her sleep and fell into the underground well.

METHODISTS AT FOOTBALL.

DISGRACEFUL EXHIBITION.

UMPIRE ATTACKED.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Sandringham and the Clifton Hill Methodists played off for the premiership of Melbourne Districts Association yesterday on the North Melbourne ground, prior to the association semi-final. The early-comers for the big match saw a close and exciting game. They also saw much that was not football. There were no "Beg pardons," and the Methodists, who showed themselves to be muscular and aggressive, were quite capable of taking care of themselves. As long as the roughness and fighting which were prevalent was confined to the players, onlookers were content to view the "sport" with complacency. When, however a free kick was given against a Methodist there was a brawl. The field umpire (Mr. Wickham) attempted to separate the combatants. He had hardly seized them when another Methodist intervened, and struck the umpire in the face. It was deliberate, and a serious disturbance seemed imminent. But some of his clubmates pulled the Methodist away, and the game proceeded. Clifton Hill won by six points.

AUSTRALIAN COINAGE.

£200,000 WORTH ORDERED.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Federal Treasury has ordered £200,000 worth of Australian coinage. The officials were of the opinion that the first order of £200,000 worth would have sufficed until the British authorities had prepared the dies for the new coins bearing the head of King George. The demand for the new Australian currency has proved so strong, however, that it has been found impossible to wait for the new issue. An order has accordingly been sent to Great Britain by the Federal authorities for a further £200,000 worth. As in the first instance, the issue will consist of florins, shillings, sixpences, and threepences. People who have been hoarding up coins of the first issue as mementoes will probably feel disappointed at the market being flooded with a fresh supply. The first shipment of the second order will consist of £20,000 worth of florins, and will leave England before the end of the month. The British silver is being returned to the Imperial authorities at the rate of £25,000 a month.

GIRL'S WONDERFUL VOICE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Dr. Hardy, of Ballarat, has had brought under his notice a young girl, possessed of a remarkable voice. He examined her larynx, and found that it was different from that of the ordinary human being, and then asked her to sing. The girl, who is only 12 years of age, sang in a manner which Dr. Hardy likened to the trilling of a bird. He was astonished at the sweetness and charm of her voice, and is arranging for her to proceed to Melbourne to have her voice tested and her throat examined by Dr. Barrett.

BURGLARS' HAUL.

WELLINGTON, Sunday.

Burglars stole £300 worth of jewellery from Lloyd's shop at Greymouth.

DARLING MYSTERY.

A MAN MURDERED.

BODY WRAPPED IN A TENT.

THE MISSING SPORTSMEN.

The body of a man wrapped in a new calico tent was on Saturday morning found floating in the Darling River, at the weir, which is about three miles from the town of Bourke.

A milkman who happened to be passing the spot noticed a suspicious and bulky package floating in the river at that spot, and, thinking that all was not well, communicated with the Bourke police. The police drew the package to the bank, and then removed it from the water.

It could then be seen that the package bore the unmistakable form of a human body. It was opened, and the dead body of a young man found inside. His features were almost unrecognisable, so swollen and bloated were they from the length of time the body had been under water.

That the murderer had set about performing his crime with the utmost callousness was immediately apparent. The hands and feet of the dead man were securely tied with rope, and attached to his neck was a large new calico bag, containing a number of Winchester rifle cartridges. They were unused, and were no doubt attached to the body by the murderer, who, being ignorant of the enormous weight required to keep a decomposing human body under water, thought that by weighting the corpse and throwing it into the river, all evidence of his crime would be obliterated.

His ignorance in this respect will, of course, prove of the greatest assistance to the police, who, although he has almost a fortnight's clear start of them, are certain that his arrest is now only a matter of days, perhaps only hours.

WHAT THE DOCTOR DISCOVERED.

Suicide was out of the question, the wounds on the body immediately negativing the theory. Dr. Day was accordingly called up to make an examination of the body. He found a cut on the chin below the right angle of the mouth, a cut on the left angle of the mouth, and cuts evidently inflicted with some blunt instrument on the left parietal bone, breaking the skull. The latter injury, in his opinion, was the cause of death. There was also a deep cut on the left side of the neck, and two fingers were chopped off. The body was dressed in a pair of dark-coloured trousers and a white sweater. In the pockets of the trousers were found a pocket knife, a bushman's compass, and a whistle. The deceased was, according to the doctor, a fair man, whose age might be anything between 20 to 30, but probably nearer the former age than the latter. Judging by the fact that the body was in an advanced state of decomposition, the doctor was of opinion that it had been in the water for about 10 days.

As soon as the murder was reported to Sydney, inquiries were at once commenced locally, in addition to those which were being prosecuted in and around Bourke.

TWO RUSSIAN VISITORS.

The metropolitan police were not long at work before they got a clue. They have obtained information which allows them to state with a fair degree of certainty that the body is that of one of two young Russians who arrived in Sydney by the P. and O. Company's Royal Mail steamer China on the 5th of this month. They joined the vessel at Marseilles, and travelled second-class. They stopped at the Empire Hotel until the 14th, and then left for Bourke, it being then their intention to stop there for a while, and later go on to Queensland on a sporting tour.

Neither of the pair could speak English, and during their stay in Sydney had to rely on the kindly offices of a local resident who speaks Russian. He for private reasons wishes his name to be withheld from publication, but has given the police a lot of valuable information. He says that the pair apparently had a lot of money in their possession, and their sole object in visiting Australia seemed to be a desire for travel, and the wish to do some kangaroo shooting. They did for some little time think of taking a trip in a sailing boat up the coast, and even went so far as to pay a deposit of £10 on a boat, which they purposed buying from a Rushcutter Bay boatman for the purpose. The interpreter, however, pointed out the dangers of such an excursion to them, whereupon the idea was abandoned, and the deposit forfeited. That was on the 13th of the month.

The next day they left by train for Bourke. Before leaving they were driven in a cab to Anthony Hordern and Sons' Emporium, where they bought a Winchester rifle, a large number of cartridges, a muzzle-loading gun, and a quantity of ammunition for the latter weapon. The deceased also bought a pair of top-boots, leaving his old pair at the shop. The deceased in each case paid for the goods. Their interpreter acquaintance took them to the train, and saw them set out on their journey to Bourke. They travelled first-class, and had sleeping berths. Here again the cost was defrayed by the deceased.

They arrived, it has been learnt, safe at Bourke, and with the assistance of a local resident, erected a tent on the other side of the river, some little distance away from the town of Bourke proper. Both were last seen alive on the 17th. Then comes a gap.

The next known of their movements so far is that on the 18th one of the men called at an hotel in Bourke and stopped there all night. The following morning he left by train for Sydney. He left the Winchester rifle purchased at Horderns' behind at the hotel. It is now in the possession of the police.

The police have recovered a tomahawk which, so Dr. Day states, would, in the hands of a man murderously inclined, cause wounds of a similar nature to those inflicted on the deceased, a muzzle-loading gun, and a quantity of other property known to have been in the possession of the pair. All the latter was recovered from the river.

A MAN THE POLICE WANT.

The metropolitan police believe that the second man, the one who left Bourke on the morning of the 19th, arrived in Sydney on the 20th, and that he is still here. They desire to interview him. He is described as being about 20 years of age, 5ft 4in in height, of medium build, round featured, and of a sallow complexion. He was clean shaven, and when last seen was dressed in a brown sac suit and wearing a green cap. He, however, it has been learnt, has also in his possession a brown soft felt hat. He cannot speak English, and was in the habit of carrying a Russo-English dictionary. The police would be glad if he would furnish his address to them, or if anyone who has noticed a person answering this description would immediately communicate with the Inspector-General of Police.

Information regarding the case has been wired to the police of the other Australian States, and also to every place within the State where the murderer could possibly have found his way since leaving Bourke.

The two men travelled on the China under the names of Eumond and Senkovitch, the deceased being known as Eumond. The police have further ascertained that they both travelled to Bourke under the names of Osmond. This change in nomenclature may be accounted for by the difficulty the persons they met with had in pronouncing the Russian names. It is more than probable that the missing Russian is known as either Eumond, Osmond, Desmond, or Senkovitch. It is believed he has ample means at his disposal.

THE INQUEST OPENED.

BOURKE, Sunday.

A fortnight ago two Russians arrived at Bourke on their way to Queensland, where they were intending to start kangaroo hunting. They were quite new to the country, speaking English with difficulty. After a couple of days' stay they crossed the river to Fort Bourke station, where they camped. Bert Greer, a station hand, helped them to erect a tent, and the men seemed on the best of terms. They had a good outfit and cut pegs with a shingling hammer. Later they disappeared, and one of them returned to Sydney on Monday last by the ordinary train. The police on searching found traces where the body was thrown in the river and a purse containing nine sovereigns.

An inquiry was opened last night before Mr. Butler, P.M., so that the remains could be interred. The head had been preserved for the purposes of identification.

Constable Jones, who saw both men, will proceed to Sydney to assist in discovering deceased's companion. The police are dragging the river and diving in an endeavour to discover the tomahawk with which the murder was committed.

LUCKY ESCAPE.

WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS.

WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS.—Advt.

"UNION TYRANNY."

MR. WADE AND BROKEN HILL.

THE EIGHT-HOURS DINNER.

On Saturday it was telegraphed from Broken Hill that no delegate would attend the Eight-hours demonstration in Sydney owing to the Premier having been invited to the dinner. The reasons given were that Mr. Wade had "bludgeoned" the workers during the Broken Hill strike, and that the strike leaders in the recent coal crisis had been "leg-ironed and imprisoned."

"I'm not surprised to hear of their determination," said Mr. Wade to a "Herald" representative yesterday. "But the day has not yet come, however, when that type of men can ever control New South Wales or even their own fellow-workers. It's from the same section at Broken Hill that a movement was initiated a short time ago for the purpose of boycotting the attempt to encourage the national movement for the defence of Australia. Public opinion at Broken Hill, however, caused them to make a most humiliating expiation, and they are now falling back on the favourite topic—that is, to have another go at Wade. I don't raise the least objection, because the experience of the last few weeks has shown me that the more vehement and virulent and unfair are the attacks made upon me the greater the reaction on the part of the more reasonable people, and the better for the Liberal party. The public have not yet forgotten the extraordinary move through the Broken Hill unions a few weeks ago, when, for the sake of bolstering up the finances of a co-operative bakery, they endeavoured to force the price of bread up on the general public; and, because the employers would not permit this wrong upon their customers at the mere behest of union leaders, they called out all the bakers engaged in the trade. Here, again, public opinion and common-sense prevailed, and this tyrannical action was overcome.

"It would appear that these gentlemen don't spare anybody in the endeavour to attain their ends. Friends and foe alike are attacked with indifference. Stand on the path of this form of industrial tyranny, and you must be crushed."

FEDERAL POWERS.

TO NATIONALISE MONOPOLIES.

BILLS PREPARED.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Referenda bills to enable the authority of the electors for the alteration of the Federal Constitution to be asked will be introduced into the House of Representatives this week. The Cabinet is to meet to-morrow, when these bills will probably be given final consideration.

When the Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) was asked yesterday what stage the matter had reached he replied that the bills had taken shape, but had not yet been submitted to the Cabinet. It was proposed to lay them on the table of the House within a week. To questions as to the nature of the bills Mr. Hughes replied: "What we are going to ask for is for all those powers which, as the result of adverse decisions of the Court, it appears that the Commonwealth has not got. It was thought that the Constitution gave us many of those powers. We shall also seek some powers which experience has shown us that we ought to have, and they will include extended powers in the industrial sphere. The substance of the questions which will be put to the people will be placed roughly under two heads, and their effect, if carried in the affirmative, will be to clothe the Commonwealth Parliament with (1) unreserved power of industrial legislation within or beyond the limits of States; (2) authority to nationalise monopolies.

LAND TAX BILL TO BE HURRIED THROUGH.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

On Wednesday week the Prime Minister will leave for South Africa, and before he goes he wants to see the land tax passed. This is a rather big order, considering the importance of the measure and its numerous clauses. Still the Government have the numbers, and it is understood they are going to make special efforts to rush the bill through. If they succeed they will have reason to be proud of themselves. The bill is in committee in the House of Representatives, and so far only two clauses have been passed. The third is only half disposed of, and there are still a large number that will take skilful handling to get through. Even when the measure is through the House of Representatives it will have to be dealt with by the Senate, so, taking everything into consideration, Mr. Fisher ought to consider himself very lucky if when he leaves Australia it has even reached the senators. To get it to that stage will mean no easy task, and late sittings are looked for next week, when every day will be devoted to the bill until it is disposed of. The Land Tax Bill, which fixes rates, will not be brought forward.

The Senate, when it meets on Tuesday, will devote its attention to the Bank Notes Tax Bill, and when this is disposed of will resume consideration of the Navigation Bill.

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Department of External Affairs has received a list of the subjects to be dealt with at the unemployment conference in Paris. The High Commissioner (Sir George Reid) will represent Australia. The following matters will be considered:—(1) Methodical enumeration of the institutions that combat unemployment and exposition of the general tendency of the struggle carried on in each country; (2) value of the statistics relative to unemployment as taken from the various attainable sources, especially a critical study of the figures furnished by the national censuses; (3) what inferences are to be drawn from them, and how are the most reliable results to be got from them; (4) the best means to be employed for improving the organisation of labour exchanges, especially an organised or improved exchange of labour as between State and State, towns and towns, districts and districts, and countries and countries; (5) the working of insurance funds of different types, especially how such actual unemployment of the insured workmen is to be verified, permanent relations to be established between the specialists of the several countries.

LITHGOW IRONWORKS.

DISSATISFIED COMMISSIONER.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Considerable delay has taken place in the completion of the work of duplicating the Northcote-Preston railway. The matter was brought under the notice of the Railway Commissioners by a deputation, representing the Northcote and Preston councils. In explaining the reason for the delay, Mr. Tait said yesterday that, in order to encourage local industry, the Commissioners had placed the order for the necessary fishplates for the line with the Lithgow ironworks. To do this, the Commissioners had to consent to a price 10 per cent. higher than that for which the fishplates could have been imported. The local industry thus had the advantage of this 10 per cent., as well as a high import duty and a Federal bonus for the production of the iron. But the goods produced were not up to requirements. Eventually the contract with the Lithgow works had to be cancelled, and the necessary fishplates imported.

NEW ZEALAND SHEARING DISPUTE

ARBITRATION COURT'S AWARD.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

The Arbitration Court's award in the Wellington and Canterbury shearing disputes has fixed the minimum rates at 20s hand, 19s 6d machine, and 18s 6d lambs. It is understood that these rates will be adopted by the Court in respect to the disputes in other districts, making uniform rates throughout the Dominion. A clause has been inserted that neither the union nor any member thereof shall do anything either directly or indirectly for the purpose of preventing any person working under the conditions fixed by this award, or for the purpose of inducing any person to abstain from working under the said conditions, and for the purpose of constituting a breach of this provision it shall not be necessary for the offender to have any particular person or persons in view at the time of the alleged offence. A memorandum attached to the award states that no worker is bound to work at these rates, and he is at liberty to stipulate for a higher rate. If, however, workers acting in combination refuse to work with a view to obtaining a higher rate, that will constitute an offence of taking part in a strike.

Mr. Laracy, the shearers' secretary, has cabled to the "Sydney Worker" stating that the men here are solid for £1 all round. Mr. Laracy says there will be no trouble, if good sheepowners will pay what the men demand.

Mr. Pryor, representing the employers, anticipates no trouble, because he believes the men will accept employment under the terms of the award.

NEWCASTLE.

IMPROVEMENTS IN WICKHAM.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

A number of improvements to the parks in Wickham have been made recently, and yesterday they were thrown open to the public. A fountain made and presented by Mr. N. Carpenter, in Islington Park, was declared open by the Mayor (Alderman Croft). At Wickham Park a tram waiting reserve has been laid out, and this was also opened officially by the Mayor, who expressed the hope that the department would erect a suitable shelter on the site. A rain gauge made by the manual training pupils at Wickham School, and a sundial presented by Mr. D. Kiely, were also unveiled.

COAL AND OTHER EXPORTS.

The following vessels cleared at the Customs-house yesterday:—Paloona, for Hobart, via Sydney, with 820 tons coal, 350 tons bunkers, and 13 cases biscuits; Cape Finisterre, for Adelaide, with 1100 tons bunkers; Victoria, s, for Auckland, via Sydney, with 1200 tons coal and 20 tons coke; Pilbarra, s, for Melbourne, with 2700 tons coal and 175 tons bunkers; Uganda, s, for Sourabaya, with 1100 tons coal and water ballast; Franklyn, s, for Valparaiso, with 5693 tons coal and 2300 tons bunkers.

THE MEAT TRADE TROUBLE.

SETTLED IN VICTORIA.

A PROVISIONAL AGREEMENT.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The trouble of the Victorian Meat Export trade has been settled by a conference of the parties, presided over by Mr. Justice Higgins. The following report was supplied to the press by the Industrial Registrar:—

An agreement has happily been made, which ends the dispute, so far as Victoria is concerned, between the slaughtermen and their employers. There is a similar difficulty at Glebe Island and elsewhere near Sydney, and at the request of certain employers the president of the Commonwealth Arbitration Court summoned a representative of the employers and a representative of the employees from Victoria, and similar representatives from New South Wales. This is the first time that the powers of summoning given by section 16A of the recent Conciliation and Arbitration Act have been exercised. The conference met on Thursday and this morning at the President's chambers, and an agreement has been arrived at, by which the Victorian employers slaughtering for export consent to pay 27s 6d a 100 sheep and lambs. This is the same rate as was recently paid by the Government works. The New South Wales employers prefer, however, to await the award of their wages board, and declined to make any agreement. The agreement is merely provisional, as the employers intend to have the whole conditions of labour settled by arbitration, and the President is therefore confined to such time as no award is made, or until June 30, 1913, whichever event is the earlier.

CADET INSPECTION.

COROWA, Saturday.

VICTORIA'S FUTURE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The State Treasurer, in an address at Horsham, said he believed that Victoria had a very great future if she did not hang irresolute in doubt. Their expectations could only be achieved by giving the people the extensions of government which they desired. In order to do this it would be necessary in the near future to increase the revenue of Victoria, and he hoped to be able to announce during the next few weeks what that means for raising revenue would be.

DEAD BODY FOUND.

The Manly police were yesterday informed by Walter Graham Wilson, who lives in Fairlight-crescent, Manly, that he had found the body of a dead infant on the rocks at North Harbour. The body was wrapped in two pieces of white linen, and then placed inside a cardboard box, which had been tied with string, looped so as to carry easily.

RIFLE CLUBS.

DECREASE IN INEFFICIENTS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A return has been prepared by the Defence Department showing the number of efficients and non-efficients in the rifle clubs of the Commonwealth, also the strength of the clubs. In 1908-9 there were 16,118 riflemen in N.S.W., 36 per cent. of whom were inefficient. The following year the strength of the clubs stood at 11,839, but the percentage of inefficients had fallen to 12, which is the best since 1905-6, when it was 37 per cent. In 1906-7 there were 37 per cent. of inefficients; 1907-8, 37 per cent.; and 1908-9, 36 per cent. Last year the average for the Commonwealth was 66 per cent. of efficients, and 34 per cent. of inefficients. In Victoria last year there were 44 per cent. of inefficients; Queensland, 28 per cent.; South Australia, 39 per cent.; Western Australia, 43 per cent.; and Tasmania, 44 per cent.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) is gratified at the improvement.

KIDNEY IRREGULARITIES AND FEARFUL BACKACHE CURED BY CLEMENTS TONIC—A VOICE FROM THE "GULF" COUNTRY, QD., TO HOBSON'S BAY MELB.

"Always Carried Clements Tonic With Me Up There. Better Than Quinine for Checking Fever" (Brisbane Series, No. 8.)

It is thus Mr. D. St. Clair, of Merton-road, South Brisbane, a well-known mining prospector, writes, 20/8/10:—

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.—

Seventeen years ago I was exploring in North Queensland (Cape York), and for fifteen months out of eighteen I was in a wet belt of country. My kidneys gave way, and fearful backache resulted, ending in nervous breakdown. My last bottle of Clements Tonic was used up; it was the only thing that would right me. When at last I got hold of it, it made me completely strong in five days' time. That I never suffered from malarial fever is because I always carried this medicine with me. It is better than quinine in hot, steamy country. Clements Tonic does more than protect one from Gulf Fever; it keeps the system in general tone, enabling me to undertake lengthy trips in unhealthy country, which otherwise I would not have attempted.

(Signed) D. ST. CLAIR.

VICTORIA.

MDLLE. DOLORES' RECEPTION.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

If there had been any doubt as to the warm place which Mdlle. Dolores has won in the hearts of the Melbourne people, it could not have survived the enthusiastic welcome given by the large audience which assembled to hear her in the Town Hall last evening. It was a long time before it was possible for her to begin her first song, for her pleasant genial smile as she again and again bowed her acknowledgments only provoked still warmer plaudits. The recital was a great success, every number being encored.

A SERIES OF FIRES.

FACTORY AND TWO COTTAGES ALIGHT.

The Metropolitan Fire Brigade received a call shortly after midnight of Saturday to Cary-street, Leichhardt. They found Mr. H. J. Morrison's boot factory and the cottages on either side of the factory well alight. The factory, which is a wooden building, with an iron roof, and measures about 30 x 100, burned fiercely, sending up showers of sparks, which were scattered broadcast by the wind, producing a fine spectacle. Two hydrants had to be used before the outbreak was finally extinguished.

The factory suffered the most, and with its contents, was severely damaged by fire and water. Portion of the roof fell in. The brick cottage, No. 9, had its side walls, gable, and a wood and iron building at rear, used as an office, badly damaged. The dividing fence between it and the factory and the verandah of the cottage were also destroyed by the fire. Close to the factory is another brick cottage, No. 15. It, too, suffered, the fence, the side walls, the gable, a small outhouse, the laundry, and the bathroom all being damaged by both fire and water.

All three buildings, with their contents, were insured in the same offices. The factory was insured in the Queensland Insurance Company for £150, and its contents in the North British for £117. The adjoining cottage, No. 9, was insured with the Queensland Company for £400, and its contents with the North British for £200. No. 15 was insured in the Queensland for £300, and its contents in the North British for £100.

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The curiously illogical way in which the Federal land tax is supported by many well-meaning and not altogether badly informed persons was excellently illustrated by a letter signed "Patricia Wharton," which appeared in your paper about a week ago. The fact that many people want land in New South Wales, and that some landholders in New South Wales hold large areas, which would probably be more profitable nowadays to the State if divided up among smaller holders, seems to have roused your correspondent to such a heat of indignation that she is unable to state facts fairly or consider such minor questions as justice and good faith. Now, this is not a tax for New South Wales only, but for the whole of Australia. Whatever is the case in New South Wales, there is in Australia an unlimited amount of excellent land crying aloud for settlement. True, there are the drawbacks of distance from market, etc. Precisely the same drawbacks that were successfully overcome by those who originally built up the large country holdings in New South Wales. I will take the two instances I happen to know best—they are typical of hundreds of others. One of Nelson's old captains came out here, accepting a grant of land in lieu, or partly in lieu, of pension. After a time his son grew up, and, hearing rumours of good pastoral country on the Clarence reported by an escaped convict, he went exploring, found a way down from New England, and was the first to stock land on the Clarence. Soon after he was joined by the son of another old naval man, who, after a short term of colonial experience, went exploring in turn as far north as the Mary River, but finally came back and bought a small recently-stocked station on the head of the Clarence, where he lived several years, his own ploughman and teamster, growing his own wheat, making his own flour, etc. Later he came further down the Clarence, and finally started the oldest meat works still existing in Australia, the first works in Australia (and only beaten by a few weeks in the race to be the first in the world) to manufacture Liebeg's extract on a large scale. Several hundred Australians owe their presence in Australia to his bringing or encouraging their parents to come out. Yet these two old pioneers, one of whom is still alive, are two of those aimed at by the Federal land tax; that is, they or their families. Unearned increment! I wonder how many of those who will vote for taxing estates built up by the old pioneers, men who growl at eight hours a day, have done half as much for the present values of New South Wales country lands as these two men, whom they would call land-grabbers! Men who endured years of danger and hardship—certainly for their own ultimate benefit, but also for the benefit of their State.

Instead of encouraging others to pioneer in Queensland, Western Australia, or the Northern Territory, this Federal land tax will teach them that as little faith can be placed in democratic Governments as in princes; that they may incur all the danger and risk, but that if they succeed and acquire lands, they will be legally robbed by confiscatory taxes. The tax really appears to be designed to confine settlement, and discourage pioneering. "Patricia Wharton" says 83 per cent. of the population of New South Wales are called upon by the acreocracy to provide them with 5 per cent. on the unimproved value of their land. I suppose she means something, but it would be interesting to hear her defence of the statement. Again, your correspondent states "in no instance" is the unimproved value due to the landlord; but "entirely" to every person in the State. I venture to say both statements are entirely inaccurate. The landlord (as I have shown) has frequently added to the value, both of his own and surrounding lands, by making general settlement possible in the past. In other cases he has discerned that special treatment, say, drainage, will render a certain type of land hitherto regarded as useless, valuable; the unimproved value of that class of land, immediately rises; or, again (as Mr. Dangar showed in a letter immediately above "Patricia Wharton's"), he often preserves an unimproved value, that other landlords (the States being infinitely the worst of offenders) allow to perish under the inroads of pear and other pests. Expenditure in maintaining values does not appear to be recognised in fixing unimproved values. But your correspondent's greatest mistake is in limiting the value given by population, to the population of the State. It is the markets of the world that give our lands their values, more especially the British markets. Will your correspondent argue that, therefore, the population of Australia has a right to overtax one class of property-owners, the landowners? Does she advocate giving part of the stolen proceeds to Great Britain? Why should all the "swag" be kept for Australia? The land in New South Wales was bought and sold in good faith; often it was bought unwillingly in self preservation to prevent stations being ruined by previous amateur attempts in philanthropic legislation; but always it was understood that once bought, it was subject to no further charges other than its normal share of taxes. The most ardent supporters of the Federal land tax do not attempt to argue that it is normal taxation; it is, therefore, a breach of faith. That it is clumsily drawn, that it is full of anomalies, is becoming daily clearer. It is an unsafe, unscientific weapon, which may injure many of those aimed at, creating ghastly, cruel wounds, but will also probably burst in the hands of those using it, and slay as many friends as foes.

A DEAL IN HAY.

WELLINGTON, Saturday.

An interesting case arising out of a deal in hay was before Mr. Ocicar, P.M., in the Small Debts Court, the plaintiff being Mrs. Smith, sen., of Fairview, who proceeded against Alfred M'Dermott, produce merchant, of Sussex-street, Sydney, for £43 6s, amount due for the purchase of a quantity of hay. Mr. Quirk appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Kelly for the defendant. The facts were that in June last the defendant entered into a contract with the plaintiff for the purchase of five stacks of hay, the agreement applying to only merchantable hay. In regard to the other a conversation took place, in which it was alleged by the defendant that he was to cut the damaged hay into chaff, and sell it on account of the plaintiff, though the plaintiff contended that the arrangement was that the hay was to be stacked and cut afterwards. In giving his decision the P.M. said that if he were a farmer he would not sell his hay under the conditions, and if he sold it in the stack the buyer would have to take it, good or bad. He gave a verdict for the defendant. Before the decision Mr. Quirk applied for a nonsuit, but this was refused, and Mr. Quirk asked that a note of his application should be made.

BOWRAVILLE, Saturday.

At the last meeting of the district conference of the progress committees on this river a resolution was carried to ask the Government for a special grant to make roads to settlers in back places, as the shire council's funds were insufficient to stand the strain. The department refused the request on the grounds that the shire received the largest subsidy in the State and a liberal allowance of £2000 was also made for a new road this year; moreover, on December 31 last the council possessed the extremely large credit balance of £4736, which did not appear as if the finances were strained. In addition, the current year's rate of 1½d in the £ would be 50 per cent. in excess of last year's rate.

The following officers were elected:—President, Alderman E. M. Geike; treasurer, Mr. H. Braine; secretary, Mr. H. H. Bassan. A large number joined. The league entertained Mr. W. F. CYCLING AND MOTORING.

MOTOR BOAT CHALLENGE RACE.

FAIRBANKS v. CHALLENGER.

CHALLENGER WINS THE SPEED PENNANT.

There has been a lot of talk about the speed championship in motor boat circles recently, consequent on a challenge issued by Messrs. Griffiths and Relph, owners of the Challenger, to Mr. Arthur Davies, owner of the Fairbanks, who held the championship of the harbour and the speed pennant of the Motor Boat Club of New South Wales. The contest on Saturday was for the speed pennant only, and not for the championship, as this event is generally run about April. The Fairbanks has held the honour of being the fastest boat on the harbour for some years past, and with a 30-40 h.p. rating is credited with developing 60 h.p. The Challenger, on the other hand, has a 120-h.p. engine, supposed to develop 150 h.p. Neither boats developed their accredited speed on Saturday, but probably the Challenger had a reserve, as it was not tried out by the Fairbanks. On the horse power of engines it looked an unequal match, but many experts thought that the seamanship of Mr. Arthur Davies and the hull of the Fairbanks would counterbalance the extra horse power that the Challenger had. As it turned out the Fairbanks did not have a chance. The challenging boat in both heats took the lead, and the result was never in doubt. The match was for three heats, over the championship course, from off Garden Island, round the buoys at Manly, and back, estimated about 11 miles. Both boats were rather late in starting, and the Challenger was towed into the harbour by the Invincible, but she did not need help at the start, as she took command in each heat. By the courtesy of Mr. G. Isaacs, owner of that speedy little motor, "?," the "Herald" reporter left Captain Dean's shed, at Rushcutter Bay, to follow the race, and while the Fairbanks was not in it from start to finish it was easily seen that the extra horse-power of the engines was the main factor in the Challenger's win, although the Fairbanks did not run up to previous performances. It has been stated that the new boat can do up to 30 miles per hour, but it did not show up to that speed on Saturday; but there was no necessity for it. The officials for the race were:—Judge and starter, Messrs. Scot and Henry; timekeeper, Mr. W. T. Kerr. The Challenger had Mr. C. H. Relph at the wheel, with Mr. T. Taylor in charge of the engine. The Fairbanks had Mr. Arthur Davies as skipper, with Mr. Oliver as engineer. The detail results are:—

First Heat.—The start was from the Elizabeth Bay side of Garden Island, the Fairbanks having the shore side. At Clark Island the Challenger had nearly 200 yards to the good. At the Heads she increased the lead, and at the turn at Manly had the race won. Between George's Head and Bradley's the Fairbanks was not in sight of the Challenger. The official times for this heat were:—Challenger, 27m 1 4-5s; Fairbanks, 30m 25 4-5s.

Second Heat.—Again the Challenger took the lead early, but the Fairbanks was running more up to her best form, and was only five seconds behind the Challenger at Clark Island. The latter boat forged ahead, and increasing the lead swung around the Manly buoys well ahead, and ran home with a good margin to her credit. Times: Challenger, 26m 16 4-5s; Fairbanks, 27m 55 4-5s.

Nearly all the best-known motor boats were on the harbour during the afternoon, and the Sydney Ferries Company's boat Korec, at Garden Island, was crowded.

LEAGUE NOTES.

The 10 miles championship of the Homebush club was run over the Homebush course on Saturday last. There were 13 starters, and five finished in a bunch. Result:—J. Watson, 1; J. Gallagher, 2; H. Stace, 3; P. Gallagher, 4. The winner's time was 27m 27s. A protest was lodged against the winner for bumping at the finish by J. Gallagher, but as it was only a half-length win, and all the riders were bunched up, it is possible that the alleged offence was unintentional.

The Ashfield club held a five miles road race over the Liverpool road course last Saturday. C. Hird, an old League rider, won from the limit; and A. L. Crook, the scratch man, put up fastest time. There were 17 starters. Result:—C. Hird, 1m 30s, riding time 13m 35s, 1; W. A. Driver, 40s, riding time 13m, 2; Arthur Hand, 1m 5s, riding time 13m 26s, 3; A. L. THE BOY SCOUTS.

SUCCESSFUL DESPATCH RIDE.

The League of Boy Scouts carried out a despatch run from Sydney to Lithgow, a distance of 90 miles, on Saturday. The despatch took the form of a message from the Lord Mayor of Sydney.

The message was handed to the first scout at the steps of the Sydney Town Hall at 4.3 a.m., and was delivered to the Mayor of Lithgow at 6.20 p.m. The times of its arrival at the different centres are as follows:—Leichhardt, 5.20; Strathfield, 8.54; Auburn, 8.59; Clyde, 9.3; Parramatta, 9.15; Prospect, 9.45; Eastern Creek, 10.2; St. Marys, 10.10; Penrith, 11.5; Emu Plains, 11.10; Springwood, 12.45; Woodford, 2; Hazelbrook, 2.25; Lawson, 2.50; Katoomba, 3.50; Mount Victoria, 4.50; Lithgow, 6.20. The message was carried by relays of scouts mounted on horses or cycles, or on foot.

Many people were present when the Mayor of Lithgow received the message on the steps of the Lithgow Town Hall.

Of the exciting events of the run, the most interesting was the swimming of the Nepean River by Scout Bugler Roveen, who, lightly clad, conveyed the message across, sealed in a bottle. The boys beat the estimated time by 40 minutes, and maintained an average speed of nine miles an hour throughout.

Mr. H. M. Grove, British Consul in the Moscow district, states in his annual report that the past year emphasised the progressive decrease in the numbers of fur-bearing animals principally sables. In some districts the sable has been exterminated.

FINANCIAL.

TONTINE POLICIES.

A petition was recently presented to the New Zealand Parliament praying for legislation affording protection and relief in connection with tontine policies in the Colonial Mutual Life Assurance Society, Limited. Mr. Russell, chairman of the committee which considered the petition, stated that the petitioners were insured in the Colonial Mutual Life Assurance Society, Limited, for £50 each, payable at death, but alleged that they were induced by canvassers of the company in 1894 to change the policies to tontine policies current for 15 years. The inducements held out to them were verbal assurances of large bonuses and paid up policies at the close of the tontine period, in addition to insurance during the 15 years and a promise of the refund of premiums if death occurred during the time. No document was placed before the committee to show that these glittering prospects were authorised by the company. The sole document before the committee which dealt with the matter was a leaflet which had upon it a case quoted from the experience of a New York society, which was intended to suggest a rate of profits of a most extravagant character as being possible under the tontine scheme of the society. The committee was of opinion that the most casual consideration should have satisfied the petitioners that there was not the slightest possibility of the canvassers' promises being realised. Soon after the tontine period began the business of the society suffered severely through a fall in the rate of interest and the value of real estate, especially in Australia, causing decreased earning power, the absorption of reserves, and large losses in realisation. Not only were the hopes of large business not realised, but the normal profits of the society's life business disappeared for a time. The tontine epidemic appears to have expended itself, and the committee is assured that it is not likely that there will be anything in the nature of a recrudescence of it.

BOOM IN INSURANCE FLOATS.

In Australia we have not so far done much in the way of creating new insurance companies, whether these be life, fire, marine, or destined to carry a miscellaneous insurance of other descriptions. In New York, on the other hand, this has been quite a feature of late, due, doubtless, to the effects of the recent restrictive legislation upon big offices. The "Review," of New York, in calling attention to the rapid growth of insurance company flotations in the United States, shows that, during the first half of 1910, 229 new fire, life, casualty, and miscellaneous companies have been promoted, calling for capital of about £25,400,000. The number of new enterprises is practically double that for the whole of 1909, itself an exceptionally prolific year, and our contemporary says:—"Among this great number of new companies there are some which are started with a view of actually transacting the business of insurance, and are legitimate ventures in every way; a few of these have already completed their organisation, and commenced operations, but the vast majority are promoted by parties having little or no knowledge of the underwriting business, who are only seeking profit from the sale of stock of the company, not caring what becomes of the institution once it is launched."

ROBERT REID AND CO., LTD.

The figures cabled by our London correspondent would indicate that the above company has had another prosperous year. As far as we can make out the figures compare as follow:—

THE MARKETS.

Business in the wheat market was quiet on Saturday, and the indications seem to point to a quiet time ahead. This is the season of the year when the London market is well supplied with wheat from the harvest just gathered in Europe and America, and our cable published on Saturday showed that it was inactive, although a South Australian cargo had been sold at 38/ off coast. Locally the freights are rising, and this is earlier than usual in the season. The price for steamers is now 25/ a ton, and shippers must pay it or go without vessels to carry their grain. This does not tend to make the market more buoyant in Sydney.

Flour is quiet and unchanged.

A matter worth noting is that according to our cables published this morning there has been an all-round rise in the frozen meat market in London. Australian mutton has advanced /0 5-16, and beef /0 3-16 per lb, while New Zealand and River Plate lamb, mutton, and beef, have risen from /0¼ to /0 5-16. Last week the tendency was toward firmness in the market.

THE GREAT COTTON QUESTION.

It has been known for some time that the American cotton crop this year is expected to be light; but, according to Mr. William M. Steuart, one of the statisticians of the United States Census Bureau, it is worth more than the crop of the previous year. He says:—"The estimated value of the 1909 crop is given as 812,089,833 dollars, as compared with 681,230,956 dollars for 1908; 700,956,011 dollars for 1907; 721,647,237 dollars for 1906; and 632,298,332 dollars for 1905. The amount of difference between the 1909 and 1908 values is therefore 130,858,877 dollars, an increase of 19.2 per cent. The figures as finally compiled for the crop of 1909, including linters and counting round as half bales, which, expressed in 500-pound bales, amounted to 10,315,382 bales, which is 3,271,924 bales, or 24.1 per cent. less than the total for 1908."

Going into statistics, Mr. Steuart writes:—"The average annual production of cotton in the United States for the last five years was 11,935,641 bales, or 1,620,259 bales more than the crop of 1909. The value of the cotton crops of the five-year period ending with 1909 was 3,548,222,369 dollars, while the value for the five-year period ending with 1899 was 1,529,502,325 dollars. The cotton-growers were in a wretched state financially, the report asserts, when the crop of 1898 was sold at an average price of 4.9 cents per pound. Their independence really began with the price of 12.2 cents per pound in 1903. During the last five years the price of lint cotton averaged about 11 cents per pound, or about 55 dollars per bale, and the value of the cotton seed increased from 13.76 dollars per ton in 1906 to 27.73 dollars per ton in 1909. The value of a 500-pound bale of cotton, including the value of the seed, was 84.31 dollars in 1909, compared with 56.37 dollars in 1904, and with 30.22 dollars in 1898.

"The production of cotton in 1909, as measured by the factory supply—that is, the quantity entering commercial channels—shows a loss of 3,055,900 bales, or 15.6 per cent., when compared with the supply for 1908, and shows a gain of 46,000 bales, or three-fourths of 1 per cent. when compared with the supply of 1907. The statistics of the world's production present quite a see-saw in alternate years, being 16,658,000 bales in 1909; 19,613,000 bales in 1908; 16,512,000 bales in 1907; 19,642,000 bales in 1906; 15,747,000 bales in 1905; and 18,803,000 bales in 1904. The average production of cotton for the world during the last six years was 17,863,000 bales, or about 1,205,000 bales more than the production in 1909. It is cautioned that the figures concern the world's mill consumption of cotton, and not the total production. In 1909 the United States contributed 59.6 per cent. of the commercial cotton; British India, 21.8 per cent.; Egypt, 5.5 per cent.; and Russia, 4.3 per cent. The world's production in 1909 amounted to about 5,279,000,000 pounds, valued at about 1,000,000,000 dollars."

CANNING FISH.

A couple of years ago or so some Scottish fishermen visited Australia with the avowed object of finding out whether our fisheries were worth exploiting. Apparently they have come to an adverse decision, notwithstanding that the Commonwealth Government has offered a bounty of ½d per lb to induce somebody to take in hand the preservation of fish. No one has yet come forward to claim the bonus. The "Age," however, learns that canning works, are to be established at Port Melbourne. Experiments which have been made by a suburban resident over an extended period have convinced him that he has a system of canning or preserving fish that will enable a profitable industry to be established. It is claimed that the process secures the retention of the distinctive flavour of the fish for an indefinite length of time. The more pronounced the flavour the more satisfactory are the results. Experiments have been made with flounder, whiting, flathead, various kinds of mullet, schnapper, and garfish, and the results are regarded as eminently satisfactory. Negotiations are now in progress with fishermen to obtain supplies, to be landed direct at Port Melbourne. The fish will remain in cool chambers for a few hours only, and will then be submitted to treatment, after which they will be put up in tins similar in shape and size to those in which fish is imported from Great Britain and elsewhere. The process is a simple one, and it is expected that the price will be at such a rate as will enable fish to be much more largely consumed than is possible at the present time. Assurances of sufficient financial backing have been obtained, and it is expected that the industry will be started in the course of six or eight weeks.

MASTER GLASSMAKERS' TROUBLES.

A BELGIAN COMPLAINT.

A private firm in this city has received from a firm of glassmakers in Belgium, with which it does business, a letter giving some particulars of how the industry is affected by labour troubles, which at the time of writing had not been settled. "Prices are firmer," said the letter, "for the workmen become very unreasonable. They have got higher wages. . . The production of glass has been much reduced during the last two or three months. The workmen are failing us. Those who work are insolent, and the makers are tired of the situation, because they did not succeed in making an arrangement together. Since the 1st inst. (August) the workmen have given us their decision for September 1. They are absolutely without any agreement as to what shall take place between all the glassmakers for the sale of glass, and over the question of wages. We do not know what will happen, but you may be sure we shall keep you advised as to the situation."

From this it may probably be inferred that there is something in the negotiations in the direction of fixing a scale of wages according to the price of the finished article, but that no decision has been arrived at.

Prescott, Limited, report as follows on the butter market:—"There has been a slight improvement in supplies this week, and there will be a larger quantity available for export. The local market remains unchanged at 109/. Second and third grades are selling slowly from 98/ to 104/. In Melbourne, owing to the competition amongst factories for cream, the price of Western district brands was advanced ½d per lb on Tuesday. This makes the price of Westerns 1/, other good brands /11½ to /11¾, medium quality /10½ to /11, dairy lots /8½ to /9½. The demand by London buyers is inactive, very little business being done. Arrivals for the week ended September 16 were 22,842 boxes butter and 174 tons cream. Choicest brands are still realising in Brisbane 110/. London buyers are operating to a moderate extent at from 106/ to 107/ for first grade. In some directions local business is being done at 106/. Last week's production is estimated at 6454 boxes.

"New Zealand: Our advices report strong competition amongst buyers to the benefit of the factories. A number of outputs have been sold at equivalent to 105/ f.o.b. for the season. Some factories prefer consigning on their own account.

USUAL CLOSING BUSINESS.

The usual quietness which characterises Saturday's trade was in evidence. Values showed no disposition to alter in any way. Some of the big buyers were anxious to operate on the incoming shipment of potatoes from Tasmania. Grain lines were quiet. Fodder had a dullness. Dairy products sold steadily.

AUCTION SALES.

THE RAILWAY MARKET.

WHY?

The eternal deadness of Saturday morning's business at the railway market always provokes a feeling of wonder why the formality of buying and selling, or, more often, simply passing, trucks of various commodities should be indulged in at all. Nobody wants to buy, and at the prices offered nobody is particularly anxious to sell. With the approaching advent of the half-holiday, the situation is likely to touch the impossible.

Inferior qualities of chaff improved 2/4 per ton, but otherwise the value remained unchanged. Choice lucerne chaff realised 4/9. Lucerne hay showed no variation from its previous value, good large bales selling at 2/9, and inferior at from 1/9 to 1/11. Medium swedes sold at 1/5. Potatoes were down 5/, prime redskins changing hands at £6, and fine whiteskins at 5/.

Supplies included 47 truckloads, of which 27 were passed, as follows:—Chaff, 21, passed 8; lucerne chaff, 7, passed 5; lucerne hay, 8, passed 5; maize, 7, passed 7; wheat, 1, passed 1; swede turnips, 1, passed 0; potatoes, 8, passed 6.

MR. WISE'S "WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BILL."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Wise will not inveigle me into a discussion of the abstract question of "petty spite." If it exists, it is obvious where it exists.

What he is reported to have said on Thursday night, and what I read to the meeting when referring to it on Friday, was:—

In 1901 he drew up a Workmen's Compensation measure which was acknowledged by English and American insurance companies to be the best of its kind in the world. Mr. Wade's petty spite kept that from coming into force.

Commenting on that statement, I pointed out that Mr. Wise himself was responsible for the fate of that measure—that from the date of its introduction by him in 1902 till he left office in June, 1904, nothing further was heard of it. I did not say, nor was I reported to have said "that he accused Mr. Wade of blocking the measure when he (Mr. Wise) introduced it into the Legislative Council in 1902."

That is an error which Mr. Wise has kindly manufactured for me. While admitting his skill in this direction, I prefer to be responsible for my own products.

But let me get back to Mr. Wise's own statements about the bill in question. On December 3, 1902, he moved its second reading in the Legislative Council:

He then said:—

Great pains have been taken in drafting the bill; we have had it in hand nearly 18 months. It has been submitted to the leading authorities in Great Britain, and sent to New Zealand and South Australia, where similar Acts are in force. It is a source of very great gratification to me and to the draftsman, Mr. Hamilton, who deserves very great credit, that it has been pronounced by some of the principal authorities to be the best-drafted and most complete measure on the subject yet introduced.

Referring to my comments on Friday night, he now says:—

I was enabled, after its introduction, to submit the measure to a representative body of British insurance companies in London. It was referred to a sub-committee, consisting of legal and other experts, and after many months was reported on. The opinion expressed by those most competent authorities was that the bill was the best bill upon the subject that had ever been brought forward.

So Mr. Wise told the Legislative Council in 1902 that the flattering comments on which he prides himself were received before the introduction of the bill. He tells the public through your columns to-day—in explanation of his subsequent neglect of it, presumably—that he received them "many months after."

But a little difficulty of this nature is nothing to Mr. Wise, who was aptly likened many years ago, by the statesman whose shade he now invokes, to a soda-water bottle—the bottle of those days, without any base, making it impossible to tell when trying to stand it up what side it would fall on.

Sept. 24. I am, etc. JOHN HUGHES.

MINING.

SILVER SHARES VERY BUOYANT.

The attention of the market was on Saturday morning almost solely confined to silver shares, and as the result of a strong buying movement, emanating from Adelaide, the leading Broken Hill shares were largely dealt in at advanced rates. Why this "bull" movement should have been started it is impossible to say. It was not due either to any improvement in the price of lead or silver, nor to any alteration for the better in the prospects of the mines.

The operations in silver scrip completely overshadowed the copper, gold, and tin sections, hence the business recorded in them was exceedingly limited. The only noticeable sales were in Black Range West, which commanded firm support.

MINING NOTES.

Last week the Western Australian State batteries crushed 867 tons for 2477oz. This includes two rich crushings from the Victory leases, 13½ tons yielding 1189oz and 4½ tons 643oz.

During the week ended September 17 the Hercules mine (Tas.) despatched 100 tons of zinc blende ore to Burnie; 20 tons were bagged in trucks at Williamsford, and 140 tons of loose ore were sent to the Williamsford mill.

The manager of the Budger mine reports, under date of September 23, that in the 266ft level stope, about half-way between the main shaft and north wall, a trial hole was put into the wall, and for the first 9in borings assayed 18.8 per cent. of copper, and for a further 1ft 3in 12.4 per cent. copper. The ore consists of quartz, native copper, and red oxide. Further work 6ft to 7ft above the boreholes disclosed native copper scattered through the wall in strings and sheets and bunches of quartz, one piece of thin sheet copper taken out being 13½in long by 3in wide. Until further work is done the extent of this development cannot be ascertained.

GREAT COBAR COMPANY.

OUTPUT FOR SEPTEMBER.

The output of the Great Cobar, Limited, for the four weeks ended September 16 is given below, in contrast with the previous six months:—

	Copper. Tons.	Gold. oz.	Silver. oz.
April 3	500	1,217	9,807
May 1	564	907	9,265
May 29	563	764	8,941
June 26	518	1,487	9,099
July 23	551	2,692	11,543
August 21	619	2,821	11,131
September 18	580	2,806	10,893

The estimated contents of the matte in hand is:—

Copper	112	tons
Gold	458	oz.
Silver	2154	oz.

If these be added to the respective metals contained in the blister copper produced at Cobar, it will be seen that the output for the past month is the largest recorded during the year.

MINING IN THE STATE.

ADELONG, Saturday.

A small proprietary company has been formed to prospect a sluicing mine on the Adjungbilly Creek. It is intended to instal a small hydraulic jet plant to open up the lead and prospect it. This creek has been a gold-producer to the individual miner for the past 50 years, and the present exploration work is to test the deep wet ground.

Some splendid stone was brought into town from No. 1 claim, joining the prospectors at Bangadang. The stone was very heavily mineralised, and showed a quantity of fine gold.

ORANGE, Saturday.

The clean-up of three sets from Messrs. Bell, Hudson, and party's leases at Ophir resulted in a return of an ounce per set, three ounces in all. A set is four feet long of the ground the width of the drive. Two shifts are being worked in the mine, driving across the stream, and making a dam to impound the water flowing from the lease, which is making at the rate of 17,000 gallons per day. When there is more room another shift will be put on.

PAMBULA, Saturday.

The Diorite Gold-mining Syndicate has erected a whim, and is busy overhauling the shaft. The shaft will be sunk a further 50ft, and a drive put in north and south. At the present level (180ft) the lode is looking well. North of the shaft the values are 100/ per ton, 48in wide, and 100ft long, while the south end in places assays 80/ per ton. So far the lode has improved greatly in values and width to the present level, and has every appearance of still improving. This mine can boast of having a splendid footwall, and can be traced right through the property.

ASSAYER and ANALYST, Reasonable Fees. Scale on application. C. BRISTOW, A.I.M.M., 82 Pitt-st.—Advt.

THE BROKEN HILL LODE.

THE SOUTHERN EXTENSION.

BROKEN HILL, Saturday.

The development in the B.H. South Extended mine is proving even better than was expected. This is at the 930ft level. The fourth ore body in the east crosscut was entered on for close on 20ft, when signs of the wall appeared, the zinciferous ore mixing more with the rich galena and quartzite. The body apparently turns southerly at this point. The 20ft of ore assays from 14 to 18 per cent. of lead, 3 to 4 ounces of silver, and 23 to 30 per cent. of zinc. Cross-cutting was stopped at 20ft, and an opening cut north and south started. The result is an excellent body of ore, extending strongly in both directions. The ore is of excellent grade, and calls forth high praise from all mining men who have seen it. Several leading managers have gone underground, and have congratulated Manager Sweet on the development.

TIN MINING.

WANT OF WATER FELT.

EMMAVILLE, Saturday.

The continued dry weather is beginning to cause some uneasiness in mining circles, and unless there is a good fall very shortly the industry in this district will be considerably retarded. All the dredge dams are getting low, and unless they are replenished the plants will eventually have to hang up. From all parts of the district reports show that water is becoming a scarce commodity.

The Bouverett Syndicate is working one shift on payable dirt. They cleaned up on Tuesday, after a three weeks' run, for a yield of three tons. This plant, which is worked by eight men, averages one ton per week, and is about the best paying venture on the field in the way of dredging. The syndicate has a large area to work, all of which carries average tin values.

The manager of the Deep Lead (V. C. Company) reports:—"The leading drive at the eastern end of the mine has been sloped up to a total distance of 130ft, which brings it up to the place where there was 3ft of wash dirt. Have now turned into the solid ground, and hope to be able to secure a little tin while development work is being carried out. At the western end the prospecting drive has been extended 30ft, with no change up to the present. The rock drive has been advanced 20ft, total distance 40ft from opening. For the week 7cwt of tin was obtained, this being from the east end.

The Stanthorpe Proprietary bucket dredge is working three shifts, the dirt treated carrying average values. The return for last week was 2 tons 8cwt. The water is beginning to get thick, and the dam will shortly require to be cleaned out.

At Bourke's Hill both plants are running on average dirt, with sufficient water for present requirements. Expect usual clean-up for the month.

Locally tin is quoted at £95 per ton, which is the highest price reached since the boom time about three years ago. A fair quantity is coming forward.

The Y Water Company is working three shifts on ground carrying good tin values. Last week the boxes were reduced, after a seven weeks' run on the overburden. The bottom is now being blown in, and when the boxes are run down it is estimated the yield will reach over 50 tons. The Severn River water scheme was given a trial run last week, and the machinery was found to work splendidly. There is about two months' supply of water yet in the dams. The portable plant to get rid of the tailings has been installed, and is working satisfactorily.

The Great Britain is working three shifts, and will be having first clean up from new paddock this week. The ground is getting deeper, and is carrying better values.

The Great Britain No. 2 will be cleaning up for the fortnight on Saturday, and expect close on 10 tons. The boxes have been raised, which will allow of about another five or six weeks' run before shifting.

There is great activity in the Gulf district, where many new shows are being opened up, and although none of them are proving very rich, still, at the new ruling price for tin, miners can make ever wages on the average. When Mr. Lloyd gets his battery going it will materially assist mining in that locality, where there are some excellent shows that only a battery on the spot can make pay.

The Stannum dredge will make its first clean up from the Red Hill this week, and a good return is expected.

The quantity of ore despatched from the Deepwater railway station last week was 27 tons of tin and 10 tons of wolfram.

The plant at the Rockvale Wolfram Company is working satisfactorily, and a fair parcel of ore is to be sent away this week.

Schumacher and Sturbridge's dredge has been hung up for the past five weeks through the water supply giving out.

The screen has arrived for the Grampian dredge, and the manager expects to have the plant working early next month. This company has secured the dredging rights of several miles of the Vegetable Creek, a large portion being new ground, which has been proved to carry good tin values. The remainder has been worked, but prospects show payable results.

FORFEITED SHARES.

ENGLISH WATER-COLOURS.

There is now on view at James R. Lawson and Little's Pitt-street galleries an especially well-judged collection of English water-colour drawings formed by that experienced connoisseur, Mrs. Fletcher-Johnston. W. Follen Bishop, a noted painter, is represented by several fine works. Nothing more charming, either in subject or treatment, could be imagined, for example, than "A Village in Gower, Old South Wales," showing the ancient cottages, with flowers in their little walled gardens, and a glimpse of the sea beyond the turn of the high road. That versatile artist, Lexden L. Pocock, sends in a figure-painting and landscapes of importance. "Burnham Beaches," with the light filtering through the leaves, is in his best manner, and "Floating with the Tide," a river-scene of the kind which the Lady of Shalott might have gazed at in her mirror, wonderfully suggests the sadness of the early evening hour beneath the clear light of a roseate sky. "Dreaming," from the same hand, depicts a fair-haired little girl seated on the floor to arrange a bowl of roses, during which process the fine blue eyes have been suddenly arrested by a passing thought. There are quite a number of landscapes by that favourite painter, R. A. K. Marshall. In addition to the extreme delicacy of his style, the charmful colouring of such a North Wales scene as "Near Vale Crusis," and the mellow tints shewn in "The Valley of the Test," with the foliage falling into the sere and yellow leaf of autumn, will captivate the fancy by their effect of golden serenity. G. G. Kilburne has sent in nothing better for some time past than "A Bowl of Punch," the drawing of the homely, antique interior, with the clever perspective of the outer room, being accessory to the gracefully-poised figure, so full of animation and life, of the buxom maid who carries in the steaming bowl, and throws her head back to avoid the fumes. Two elderly bucks in wigs and knee-breeches shrewdly anticipate the liquor. There are several of Roscoe's pleasing landscapes, aerial in effect, and full of delicate colour, and some animated examples of that well-known marine painter, F. J. Aldridge. Alfred W. Strutt, so often represented in the best galleries, sends in an attractive work not yet exhibited in England, entitled "The Shepherd and his Flock." The treatment is strong and broad, shewing the old rustic seated with his collie under a gigantic tree, within the cool shade of which his sheep are couched around. The Roman painter, Achille Buzza, had contributed a 17th century costume-subject, "The Reproach," too early for "The School for Scandal," but vividly suggestive of Sir Peter and the young Lady Teazle; and this artist is again happy in the Oriental scene "At the Well." F. W. Beety, W. H. Pearson, Shaw Crompton, Fred. E. J. Goff, James Cafe, and other artists are represented in this collection, which will be sold by auction at the rooms to-morrow afternoon.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day the secretary, Mr. Frank Walton, will receive entries for the half-dozen events on the card for the Spring Meeting of City Tattersall's Club, to be held at headquarters on the 15th prox. The added money aggregates £1050, of which £250 goes to City Tattersall's Handicap and £200 each to the Flying Handicap and Flying Welter. The entrance fee of one sov. is the necessary accompaniment of each nomination.

The weights for the Kensington Handicap, included in the programme for opening day of the A.J.C. Spring Meeting, should see the light this forenoon.

Mr. R. C. Hungerford, secretary, invites, up to 9 o'clock this evening, nominations for the five items on the card for the meeting of the New South Wales Trotting Club, to be held at Epping on the 4th prox. The prize money totals £200, of which £50 endows the Epping Handicap.

A return to more prosperous times by the old-established Hawkesbury Race Club was evidenced on Saturday by the renewal of the Hawkesbury Guineas, which has been in abeyance since Stromboli won the classic race in 1891. Though the field was reduced to half a dozen, the contest proved to be one of the most exciting ever witnessed on the course. Meeting Electric Wire on 10lb better terms than in the Rosehill Guineas a week before, Beverage was the popular selection, his admirers being called upon to lay odds on, while Electric Wire also had a strong following; but Lager—who did not get a situation in the classic race at Rosehill—and Hartfell were the only others marketable. The result, however, came as a surprise, for Lager won almost from end to end. Beverage discounted his chances by colliding with the inner rail when nearly half the journey had been cast behind, and when he was temporarily in advance of Lager. Electric Wire, who acted well under his penalty, moved up next the leader three furlongs from home, and Beverage made up most of his leeway ere the home turn was reached. The lastnamed pair at once settled down in pursuit of the leader, and, closing on him at the half-distance, it seemed as though Electric Wire would repeat his Rosehill performance; but Lager struggled gamely on, and just managed to catch the judge's eye, the trio being only separated by short heads as they flashed past the post. It was a magnificent finish, and evoked a hearty round of applause. The places were occupied by members of the Maltster tribe, the dam of the winner being Egale, by Goldsbrough from Equation, by Grand Flaneur, and who was bred at the Widden stud by Messrs. J. and W. Thompson. Lager holds engagements in the A.J.C. Derby, Epsom Handicap (7st 7lb), and Metropolitan (7st 3lb), and also in the Caulfield Guineas, the V.R.C. Derby, and the Caulfield Cup and Melbourne Cup with 7st 3lb each. Unfortunately for his owner, Electric Wire does not hold any engagements in the big classic events of the spring. Beverage, who finished gamely, holds A.J.C. Derby, V.A.T.C. Guineas, and V.R.C. Derby engagements, and is also engaged in the Caulfield and Melbourne Cups with 7st 9lb each.

Final forfeits for the A.J.C. Derby, Epsom Handicap, the Metropolitan, and Breeders' Plate fall due at 4 p.m. next Thursday, and all horses remaining in after that hour incur the full liability for the stakes.

The latest foalings reported from the Tocal stud are colt, by imported Sir Tristram from Mr. J. W. S. Barnes's Yeast, by Maltster, and colt, by the same sire from Chloro, who died shortly after foaling.

The meeting of the Maitland Jockey Club on Wednesday next promises good sport, and metropolitan visitors starting by the northern train, which leaves the Central railway station at 9.5 a.m., will reach the scene of action in ample time for the first race, which starts at 2.30 p.m.

Nominations for the Perth Cup of 2000 sovs., 2m, and the Railway Stakes of 800 sovs., are invited by Mr. G. H. Wickham, secretary of the Western Australian Turf Club, up to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, the 25th prox., and entries can be lodged with the secretary of the A.J.C., Sydney. Mr. Wickham also announces the conditions of the W.A.T.C. Sires' Produce Stakes, 1912. The nomination of sires closes at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, the 25th prox., and yearlings must be nominated before 4 p.m. on June 6, 1911.

The Queensland horse Bright Laddie gave racegoers a taste of his quality at the Hawkesbury meeting on Saturday by winning in hollow fashion the Flying Handicap from end to end, and for which he started a pronounced favourite in a field of eight. This was Bright Laddie's second appearance under silk since his recent arrival from the north, and, as he carried 3lb more than his Epsom burden, his chances for the mile race at headquarters should not be overlooked. When speculation opened on the Flying Handicap there was most demand for Silver Hampton, but as the money came in solidly for the Queenslander the son of Jolly Hampton was ousted from the responsible position. Silver Hampton, who had the services of J. Pike in the saddle, was badly interfered with by Chlorite at the end of the first furlong, where he was running second to Bright Laddie; but though he made up a deal of lost ground, and finished very fast from the home turn, he could not catch the Queenslander. Apple Pie had a pretty strong following, but she never gave her supporters much hope, and was sixth to pass the post. However, she had 15lb more than her Epsom weight in the saddle, and should run well in the mile race at Randwick.

New South Wales-bred horses had a couple of wins at Moonee Valley on Saturday, when Shift Boss, a son of Dalmeny (imp.) and Philopena, bred by Mr. E. R. White, of Merton, annexed the Spring Vale Corinthian Mile; and the Narre Warren Handicap fell to Kashgar, by Merv (imp.).

The success of Bright Laddie in the Flying Handicap at Hawkesbury on Saturday evidently called attention to the chances of his compatriot, Royal Ned, in the Hawkesbury Spring Handicap, for in a field of half a score the son of Ladurlad, who comes from the north with a good reputation, opened favourite, but Eric was also in great demand, and eventually the latter had a slight market call, which he maintained till the close of business; while the only others to receive anything like confident support were Danilo and Orea. The Queenslander held a prominent position all the way, and as he, in company with the favourite, entered the home stretch at the heels of Sheen and Orea, it seemed as though he had good prospects of securing the other leg of the double; but after Sheen and Orea had compounded ere reaching the distance, Royal Ned began to tire inside of that point, and quickly faded out of the fray. Almost simultaneously Crofton, who had been running in the back division, came with a brilliant run from the distance, and was overhauling the favourite at every stride, but the latter, who had been eased somewhat after disposing of the Queenslander, just managed to get home by a very narrow margin. The winner, who is a son of Sir William, and is owned by the New England sportsman Mr. W. Fletcher, is engaged in the A.J.C. Metropolitan with 7st 9lb, or 13lb less than he carried on Saturday; while Crofton, who ran him to a head, is also engaged in the mile-and-a-half race at Randwick, with 7st 5lb, or a pound more than he carried on Saturday.

The President's Handicap, run over a mile and a quarter at Morphettville on Saturday, under the auspices of the Adelaide Hunt Club, fell to the Combadello-bred Lord Alwyne—full brother to Bashful Boy, a prominent performer in Western Australia—by St. Alwyne from Demure, by Amberite from Modesty, by Maribyrnong. Lord Alwyne is engaged in the V.R.C. Derby, but does not hold any engagement for the big spring handicaps of the southern State. He is the property of the Adelaide sportsman Mr. J. James, for whom Auraria won the Melbourne Cup, 1895.

The New Zealand equine contingent was represented by a winner at the Hawkesbury meeting on Saturday, when Masonic secured the Park Stakes. The field for this event was one short of a dozen, and the mare, who is trained by J. W. Lowe, was sent out a very short-priced favourite, the only others backed with any confidence being the Fucile mare Memeret, on whom J. Pike had the mount. Mr. W. H. Mate's representative, Cucini, a smart-looking daughter of Ibex and Lelamine, had the best of an indifferent start, while the New Zealander was always within striking distance of the filly, who, when she swung into the home stretch with a useful advantage, seemed to have a mortgage on the prize; but when she reached the distance Masonic put in a powerful claim, which she easily enforced towards the end. Memeret was never dangerous.

The Randwick trainer T. M'Carthy had a turn of luck at Wallsend on Saturday, when his mare La Bonne secured the double—the Plattsburg Handicap and the Jockey Club Handicap. This mare is by Maltster from Dumb Girl, whose name does not figure in the A.S.B.

The racing at Hawkesbury on Saturday did not materially affect the wagering on the big handicaps of the spring. For the Epsom Handicap Malt King maintains his position at the head of the quotations, with Flavinius a couple of points longer odds; while Gold Lace, Golden Slipper, Silver Hampton, Apple Pie, Bright Laddie, and Bobby follow at moderate intervals. Son of the Marsh is still in the responsible position for the Metropolitan, while at longer prices Patronatus, Trafalgar, Britain, and Pendil are marketable.

Backers wound up a profitable day at Hawkesbury on Saturday by selecting Saynden and Diabolo as the best of the dozen candidates for the High-weight Handicap. The pair disputed favouritism, and they had the finish to themselves, the latter just getting home in front, after a very close and exciting engagement. Saynden cut out most of the work, but in the latter half of the trip Diabolo was right up with the leading division, and gradually wore his opponent down from the distance.

THE MORNING GALLOPS.

The magpie grass track was in use at Randwick on Saturday morning, when some interesting work took place. Maltine ran nine furlongs in 2m 1⅛s, finishing well. Irishman disposed of six furlongs easily in 1m 24s, and Jinnee and Nuwarra Eliya accounted for a circle, run in 2m 7s. Blue Point and Dorando ran a mile and a furlong in 2m 4s, while Broadsword traversed seven furlongs in 1m 33½s, Torula registering the same time over a similar course. Parsee ran a mile and a furlong in 2m 1⅗s, and Blue Gem a mile in 1m 52s easily. Crucinella and Gold Lace spurted freely over five furlongs, and Son of the Marsh ran nine furlongs in 2m 1⅗s, being assisted by Flaxen over the last mile, who ran it in 1m 46½s. Sunburnt led Peso at the end of seven furlongs, run in 1m 31s; Gidyea and Elegy beat Adjacent over a furlong less journey in 1m 20s, while Malthusian and Dextrine made similar time over a like trip. Patronatus comfortably covered a mile in 1m 49s, and Maintenon and Sir Simpleton ran five furlongs in 1m 9s. Kummulla went a mile in 1m 47⅗s, and Motoa spurted five furlongs in 1m 6s. Kurnell made moderate time over seven furlongs, but Monobel ran a mile and a furlong in 2m 2s. Lucky Moon was too good for Blythesome and Bunbury over five furlongs in 1m 3s, and a mile and a furlong was the task done by Gigandra in 2m 5⅘s. Blast disposed of six furlongs in 1m 18s, while True Spec and Cadonia covered a mile together in 1m 46⅘s. Blue Book ran once round in 2m 16s easily, and Didus spurted five furlongs in 1m 7⅘s. Moorilla was just in front of Orodes when nine furlongs had been run in 2m, and Gold Pan spurted freely over a few furlongs. Santos put in a useful round, and Aborigine did steady work. Safrano did a strong nine furlongs' gallop, and Nancy Stair ran five furlongs in 1m 6⅘s. Britain covered a circuit in 2m 8⅘s, Deyite assisting him over the last six furlongs, while Rose Allie put in a useful task. Rhoebus and Blue Hook ran eight furlongs in 1m 48s, and several others did useful work.

On the tan Golden Brown and Diorite put in some solid work, and Golden Slipper spurted. Trafalgar negotiated a circle in 2m 20s, and Comedy King did steady work. A useful round was run by Lord Nolan and Indiscreet, while Wollara and Confide ran a circle at a strong pace, and Master Soult went steadily.

TRACK NOTES.

Plunder died of some internal trouble on returning to M'Grath's stables on Wednesday after a big school over the hurdles with Lord Beauchamp and V.S. Plunder took most unkindly to the task, and shirked every hurdle, which, in the light of subsequent history, leads to the supposition that the cause of his unwillingness to face the hurdles was not due to temper, as many supposed at the time. Another candidate for jumping honours at Randwick was put out of court on Saturday morning. This was Tilson, a visitor from Victoria, in charge of Cassidy, of Caulfield. Ridden by the New Zealand jockey, Stewart, Tilson was sent out for a school over the three practice fences, but, though a perfect jumper of the hunter type, he came to grief and injured himself quite beyond repair for the coming meeting. Probably he failed to get a good grip of the ground as he was taking off at the first fence, as his near foreleg went through the top and second rail, and the horse came a tremendous cropper, but the most astonishing phase in the disastrous incident was that he came through without breaking his leg or putting his shoulder out. The jockey was suffering from severe shock for a few minutes, but being in perfect condition he quickly pulled around, and later on rode The Reckoning in an improving and interesting school over six hurdles, in company with Grateful, on whom E. K. Phillips had the mount. Another interesting school twice over the hurdle course, and six hurdles, went down to H.C., ridden by F. Fielder, and Woolloomooloo, who was piloted by F. F. Hutchings.

Until Comedy King arrived Parsee was the premier show horse among the four or five hundred working at Randwick, but in the opinion of not a few regulars interested in such things, Comedy King now carries the palm, though none will admit his superiority to Parsee as a galloper. On Saturday morning the Sydney horse went most attractively, and pulled up in fine trim. He started at a moderate pace up the running on the magpie grass track, and, gradually increasing the speed, he was almost at his top when he reached the mile post. He covered the next half-mile in 52s, then came the middle six furlongs in 1m 18s, and the last mile of his journey in 1m 47s, which about equalled the best for nine furlongs, a distance most favoured by trainers on this particular morning. Comedy King was not asked to gallop. He has been troubled slightly with rheumatism, and his trainer, James Lynch, was away on a flying visit to Melbourne; so this handsome Englishman was worked on the tan at a moderate pace, and before he had gone far he had thrown off the rheumatism, and was bowling along stylishly. Comedy King is likely to be an attractive unit in the great game that begins at Randwick on Saturday, and if Master Soult is in his best form, a large scope of territory will be represented in the Spring Stakes, but Master Soult has not done much lately, a fact that is not assuring. On Saturday morning he was restricted to trotting around the sand track.

The New Zealand mares Crucinella and Gold Lace gave a taste of their quality over five furlongs in 1m 3⅕s on the magpie track, a performance that was favourably commented upon, but later on a two-year-old, Lucky Moon, ran the distance in similar time, finishing two lengths in front of Gladsome's filly, Blythesome, and six in front of Bunbury. Another two-year-old that created some interest was Beresina's Maltster filly, Borrosov, who was tried with a successful galloway, New Rosa (by Newhaven). Borrosov brought a reputation from Kensington track, but the galloway had the pace of her almost from the jump, and was well clear of her at the end of three furlongs, where the two-year-old began to ease up, having broken a small blood vessel in the head. Respect, who, like Lucky Moon, was beaten in the trials on Thursday, was galloped down five furlongs in 1m 4s, which was an improvement upon her Thursday's effort. Perhaps the best sprint of the morning was put up by Sunburnt over seven furlongs, and Poi Dance over six, while Orodes, Cadonia, and True Spec did their tasks most satisfactorily. Patronatus did a long, striding, improving gallop without attempting to make time: in fact, this class of work is likely to fit him out in condition sufficient to win The Metropolitan, for it is most probable this horse does best on a light preparation. This contention is clearly borne out by his spring running, when he ran a most excellent race in the Derby to Prince Foote, who beat him by a length and a half. Joe Brown's colt had Danilo, Malt King, Lady San, Provocation, and others behind him. On this form the New Stakes, on Metropolitan day, looked the best of good business for him, but he failed before Sequarious, and on Craven Plate day odds were laid on him winning the Grantham Stakes, but this running proved he was fully 14lb behind his Derby day form, for Danilo finished in front of him, giving him 10lb.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

There was a nip of frost in the air this morning, but it was bright and pleasant, and there was a lot of interesting work done on the sand. First Shot left six furlongs behind in 1m 22s, Sequarious 1m 23⅖s, Kerlie and Mindful 1m 20s, and Aromatic 1m 21⅘s. Langloh moved nicely for a mile and a furlong in 2m 17s, Bonnie Wallace and Raffan assisting him equal portions of it. Golden Point half-paced. Loch Shiel was sent a mile and a quarter, which took him 2m 22⅓s, and The Parisian followed at his ease in 2m 23⅗s. Burston went well for a mile in 1m 48s. Siege Moi found his way over six furlongs in 1m 21⅗s, and Queen o' Scots took 1m 20s. Miss Gwen dashed off four furlongs in 51⅗s. Son of a Gun cut out six furlongs in 1m 19⅗s, Maletta helping him the initial five furlongs in 1m 6⅗s. Staybolt and Field Trial ran a mile in 1m 51⅖s, and Stern Anchor and Tundulya took 1m 55⅖s. Socialist negotiated seven furlongs in 1m 35⅖s. Iliad and Our Princess had pace only on the last four furlongs of a mile and a quarter in 2m 26s. M'Culloch slipped over four furlongs in 52⅖s, and St. Vano and Radiator three in 39⅗s. Blairgour was kept well in hand for nine furlongs in 2m 6⅗s, and the same remark applies to Balgowan, who occupied 2m 12⅖s.

FLEMINGTON.

The sand track was most in use, and it did not appear to be fast. Alawa had first use of the tan, and ran nine furlongs in 2m 2s. Bolan helped, and went in capital style. Vigilante ran a mile in 1m 54s. Seville and Orvieto spurted four furlongs from a nearly standing start in 53⅖s. Foremost and Piastre did a furlong less in 40s, while Sir Gilbert and Silver Shield got to the end of four furlongs in 54⅗s. Dhobi went about a mile and a quarter, and ran the last six furlongs in 1m 25s. Matouree ran 11 furlongs in 2m 39s. Takipuna spurted three furlongs in 39⅗s. Oswald was going comfortably for four furlongs in 55s. Captain White and Flavian galloped nine furlongs in 2m 6s. Thistlebrook and Bowhill ran six furlongs in 1m 22s. Maltronus spurted four furlongs in 53s. Imprint was going easily for a mile in 1m 55s. Lady Ottawa ran six furlongs in 1m 24⅗s.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Bobby, Pendil, and Bobadea were sent to Sydney yesterday. E. S. Grace has been engaged to ride Bobby in the Epsom Handicap.

The well-known lightweight C. Andrews will leave for Sydney to-morrow. He will ride Mundic in the Epsom Handicap, Britain in the Metropolitan, and other horses of P. Nolan, at the A.J.C. Meeting.

Little Lad was lame after running in the Berwick Handicap at Moonee Valley yesterday.

Mr. T. M. Dean had his collar-bone broken when Sheridan fell with him in the Hunt Club Cup at Moonee Valley on Saturday, and Mr. G. N. Armstrong sustained a broken rib through Barangkali falling with him in the same race.

Some rather serious allegations were made at Moonee Valley yesterday by an interested party as to the way a certain horse was ridden at the Findon Harriers' meeting at Sandown Park. Possibly the stewards will hold an inquiry.

Though Mindful is still in the Epsom Handicap, she is not likely to go over to Sydney for the A.J.C. meeting.

There were 20 starters for the Narre Warren Handicap, run over 5 furlongs at Moonee Valley on Saturday. Waiata, who went out favourite, ran well, but had no chance with the Sydney galloway Kashgaar, who led all the way.

The stewards held an inquiry into the falling of Haut Fils in the Narre Warren Handicap at Moonee Valley, and found the occurrence to be purely accidental.

HAWKESBURY RACE CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

LAGER WINS CLASSIC RACE.

SPRING HANDICAP WON BY ERIC.

Mr. C. S. Guest, the veteran secretary of the Hawkesbury Race Club, was heartily congratulated on Saturday on the success which attended the spring reunion, which attracted a record attendance, both reserves being crowded. During the forenoon the weather prospects were not too reassuring, and rain seemed imminent about midday, but as the special trains sped toward the scene of operations the clouds dispersed, and bright sunshine prevailed during the afternoon; indeed, the warmth, though not oppressive, well upheld the reputation of what is known in sporting circles as "Hawkesbury weather." Since the last meeting on the old convincing ground the committee has spent about £800 in improvements in both reserves. A substantial addition has been made to the official stand, and which on the ground floor provided a much-needed extension of the refreshment bar; while the top floor forms a spacious apartment for the purpose of a committee room, as well as for the accommodation of the stipendiary. A wide balcony runs the whole length of the building, and the accommodation for witnessing the racing by the officials and the press has been greatly improved. The St. Leger Stand has been enlarged to provide accommodation for nearly a thousand extra, and a number of minor improvements have been effected, while the encouragement given by the liberal patronage on Saturday will result in further extensions of seating accommodation in both reserves. The gathering was quite a representative one, visitors being present from New Zealand and various States of the Commonwealth. The well-known New Zealand sportsman, Mr. G. D. Greenwood (owner of Armlet and several other good horses), and the New Zealand handicapper, Mr. J. Henrys, were among the visitors from the Dominion, while among the Victorians was Mr. W. M. Cook ("Terlinga," of the "Australasian"). The track was good going, and though the fields were not so large as those at the suburban meetings, the sport was high-class throughout, the finishes in three of the races being very close and exciting. Speculation was very brisk, and the results were against the ringmen, in all the events save the classic race. Silver Hampton met with some interference in the Flying Handicap, caused by Chlorite, who crossed too quickly, and the stipendiary steward, who held an inquiry, cautioned R. Bracken, the rider of the latter, to be more careful in future. J. Pike, who rode Beveridge in the Guineas, was questioned with regard to the colt losing ground at a certain stage in the race, but the explanation tendered and accepted was that Beverage, being blind in one eye, got too close to the rails. A complaint by N. Wood, who had the mount on Danilo, against L. Walker, who rode D.S.O. in the Hawkesbury Handicap, alleging interference, was dismissed. The sport was free from accident, and the general arrangements were efficiently supervised by the secretary. Appended are the details of the racing:—

FLYING HANDICAP of 75 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 3s added; second horse 10 sovs. from the prize. 6f.
Mr. A. B. Nagel's br h Bright Laddie, by Ayr Laddie—(imp.) Bright Alice, 4yrs, 8st 12lb (A. M'Crimmon) ... 1
Mr. W. Fletcher's ch c Silver Hampton, 6yrs, 8st 3lb (J. Pike) ... 2
Mr. W. Y. Dowling's b h Fortius, 5yrs, 6st 10lb, including 3lb over (F. J. Foley) ... 3

Other starters: Apple Pie, 8st 6lb (S. Lamond); Vicomte, 7st 5lb (W. Ryan); Vauntie, 7st 4lb, including 1lb over (W. H. Smith); Chlorite, 6st 7lb (R. Bracken); Jan, 6st 9lb, including 2lb over (L. Walker).

Betting: 7 to 4 v Bright Laddie, 3 to 1 v Silver Hampton, 7 to 2 v Apple Pie, 10 to 1 v Fortius, 12 to 1 v Vauntie, 25 to 1 v Chlorite.

From a good start Bright Laddie made play, and passed the five furlongs post a neck in front of Silver Hampton, Fortius, and Vauntie. A little further on Silver Hampton seemed to meet with some interference, and dropped back. Bright Laddie came past the half-mile post with Chlorite, Vauntie, Fortius, and Apple Pie in pursuit, and without material change they swung round the bend and into the straight, where Fortius, Chlorite, and Jan were in pursuit, and Silver Hampton was making up some leeway. Bright Laddie was not afterwards troubled, and won with the greatest ease by four lengths from Silver Hampton, who had Fortius at his girths. Jan and Chlorite were close up next, with Apple Pie and Vicomte at their heels, and Vauntie last. Time, 1m 14⅗s.

HAWKESBURY GUINEAS, a sweepstakes of 5 gns, with 250 gns added; second horse 30 gns, third 20 gns from the prize. For three-year-olds. 1m.
Mr. T. Hannan's ch c Lager, by Maltster—Egale, 8st (W. Osborne) ... 1
Mr. J. F. Wynne's ch c Electric Wire, 9st 1lb (inc. 10lb pen.) (W. M'Lachlan) ... 2
Mr. C. Smith's br c Beverage, 8st 5lb (J. Pike) ... 3

Other starters: Tanami, 8st 3lb (W. Foulsham); Hartfell, 8st 5lb (F. Hickey); Woad, 8st 5lb (S. Lamond).

Betting: 11 to 8 on Beverage, 9 to 2 v Electric Wire, 8 to 1 each v Lager and Hartfell, 20 to 1 each v Woad and Tanami.

Lager broke the line, but at the end of the first furlong was joined by Beverage, the pair being a length and a half from Hartfell, after whom, at similar intervals, succeeded Electric Wire and Woad, with Tanami last. Beverage drew out a neck from Lager at the six furlongs post, Hartfell was a couple of lengths further back, and four in advance of Electric Wire, after whom came Woad and Tanami. Electric Wire improved his position at the five furlongs post, and was two lengths behind Lager at the half-mile post, where Beverage and Hartfell were half a length away, Woad being next, and Tanami still last. That order was preserved round the bend. Lager swept into the straight a couple of lengths from Beverage and Hartfell, with Electric Wire a couple of lengths away. Hartfell dropped back inside the distance, where Electric Wire and Beverage challenged Lager, and a great finish was fought out from that point, Lager getting home by a head from Electric Wire, who was a similar tride in front of Beverage. Hartfell was four lengths off fourth, followed at intervals of six lengths by Woad and Tanami. Time, 1m 39⅗s.

PARK WELTER of 75 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 3s added, second horse 10 sovs from the prize. 6f.

Burke); Double Tape, 7st 5lb (R. W. Brennan); Chaste, 7st 5lb (H. Farrell); Tazoni, 7st 5lb (W. Suttle); Grampian (all. 5lb) (W. Swanson); Rosalba, 7st 5lb (W. Manning).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Masonic, 4 to 1 v Memeret, 10 to 1 each v Prince Yattendon and Zilper, 12 to 1 each v Charmeuse and Brilliant Lad, 20 to 1 each v the others.

From a straggling start Cucini was first to show, and at the end of the first furlong was joined by Masonic, Laval was half a length away, followed by Hot Air and Meringue. A little further on Cucini shook off Masonic and passed the half-mile post with a couple of lengths advantage from the mare, who was succeeded by Laval, Memeret, Meringue, Hot Air, and Tazoni. They came round the bend without material alteration, and Cucini swept into the home stretch, followed by Hot Air, Masonic, Memeret, and Meringue. Masonic threw out a bold challenge to Cucini inside the distance, and, heading the filly at the half-distance, beat her home by a length and a half. Hot Air was a neck away third, followed by Chaste, Memeret, Meringue, Greenbank, and Grampian, while Prince Yattendon, Tazoni, and Rosalba were last to pass the post. Time, 1m 16s.

HAWKESBURY SPRING HANDICAP, of 200 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 4 sovs added. 1¼m and 100yds.
Mr. W. Fletcher's b g Eric, by Sir William—Heather, aged, 8st 8lb (J. Pike) ... 1
Mr. E. G. Craymer's b g Crofton, 6yrs, 7st 4lb (R. Brennan) ... 2
Mr. H. Fielder's br h Brackenburg, 6yrs, 7st 5lb (E. Carney) ... 3

Other starters: Danilo, 8st 8lb (N. Wood); Sheen, 8st (D. Callinan); Orea, 7st 5lb (W. H. Smith); Royal Ned, 7st 6½lb, including 1½lb over (J. Stone); D.S.O., 6st 8lb, including 1lb over (L. Walker); Dummy, 6st 11lb, including 4lb over (F. J. Foley); Prince Lack, 6st 7lb (H. Farrell).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Eric, 3 to 1 v Royal Ned, 4 to 1 v Danilo, 5 to 1 v Orea, 10 to 1 v Sheen, 12 to 1 v Brackenburg, 20 to 1 each v the others.

Royal Ned was first to appear from a good start, but when they had settled into their strides Sheen, Prince Lack, and Brackenburg were disputing the lead, with Royal Ned next at the head of a clustered lot. A little further on Sheen dropped back, and his place was taken by Royal Ned, and passing the nine furlongs post Orea, Royal Ned, and Prince Lack were together; but ere they reached the mile post Orea took charge from Prince Lack; then, after a gap of four lengths, came Royal Ned, followed by Sheen and D.S.O., with Dummy at the head of the others. Prince Lack faded out of it as they raced along the back, and passing the six furlongs post Sheen moved up next the leader, and the pair were succeeded by Dummy, Royal Ned, Eric, and Prince Lack. Without change they raced to the bend, where Sheen and Orea were disputing the lead just in advance of Eric, Dummy, Brackenburg, and Royal Ned. Orea faded out of it a little further on, leaving Sheen to come into the straight, followed by Eric and Royal Ned. At the distance Eric headed Sheen, while Crofton and Brackenburg were coming fast. Royal Ned was done at the half-distance, where Eric came through, and stalling off a bold challenge from Crofton, beat him by a head. Brackenburg was two lengths away third, and three in advance of Royal Ned, after whom came D.S.O., Danilo, and Sheen, with the others in a bunch. Time, 2m 14s.

HIGHWEIGHT HANDICAP of 75 sovs, with a sweepstake of 30s added; second horse 10 sovs from prize. 1m.
Mr. J. Barnes' b h Diabolo, by Gambol (imp.)—Wicket, 5yrs, 8st (W. H. Smith) ... 1

Betting: 3 to 1 each v Saynden and Diabolo, 4 to 1 v L.L.D., 10 to 1 each v Dumpling and Little Lill, 14 to 1 each v the others.

L.L.D. jumped off in front, but he was quickly headed by Lady Maltster, who showed the way past the seven furlongs' post, with L.L.D. and Saynden at her heels, and Dumpling at the head of the others. Saynden drew up level with Lady Maltster, the pair being half a length in front of L.L.D. and Lady Phyllis. Simonides was next, a couple of lengths away; while Dumpling met with some interference, and lost her place. A little further on Saynden shook off Lady Maltster, who was at his girths at the five furlongs' post, L.L.D. and Lady Phyllis following. Nearing the half-mile post Lady Phyllis made a forward move, and passing that point was upsides with Saynden and Lady Maltster, with Little Lill and Diabolo two lengths away, and Dumpling last. The field closed up at the bend, and Saynden turned into the straight with Lady Malster, L.L.D., and Diabolo in hot pursuit. Diabolo, finishing resolutely, challenged Saynden at the distance, cut him down at the half-distance, and beat him home by a neck. L.L.D. was four lengths off third, closely followed by Dumpling, Jena, Bran Jan, and Little Lill, with others bunched. Time, 1m 41⅗s.

MELBOURNE HUNT CLUB.

CARLTON WINS RUPERTSWOOD HANDICAP.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The weather was fine and warm yesterday, when the Melbourne Hunt Club held its meeting at Moonee Valley. There was a large crowd to witness the racing, and particularly in the grand stand enclosure. Backers had another good day, and every winner was well backed. In the Narre Warren Handicap, Haut Fils suddenly dropped out of it, and it was found that he had broken one of his shoulders, and he was destroyed. Rototi and The Map met with injuries in the Hunt Club Cup, which necessitated their destruction. The stewards inquired into the running of Repairer in the Kororoit Steeplechase. His rider, A. E. Fisher, explained that his health had been indifferent, and he could not do the horse justice. The explanation was accepted. Details:—

FOOTBALL.

CLOSE OF THE SEASON.

PREMIERS ROUTED.

Saturday saw the curtain fall on the football season. The actual competitions were concluded the previous week, but there remained a few odd matches to be contested, while the Rugby League desired to show its appreciation of Dally Messenger by giving him a benefit match. So another week was given to football.

The Messenger benefit match, Newtown v Eastern Suburbs, was chiefly remarkable in that the season's premiers were defeated as no premiers ever were before. It was more than a defeat. It was an absolute rout. The Eastern Suburbs team played delightful football, forwards fast and strong, halves clever and nippy, and backs absolutely great. The Blues never had a look in. They were outplayed from whistle to whistle. Had the Tricolours gathered their team together earlier in the season, there is little doubt the premiership honours would never have gone to Newtown. Admittedly, Newtown had not their best team. Russell, V. Farnsworth, Burdett, and Hawkes were among the absentees; but their presence could never have stemmed the tide of defeat. The challengers gave an exhibition of football equal to anything that any club has shown during the whole season. Messenger's kicking was a treat, but somehow he was hardly extended so far as try-getting was concerned. D. Frawley and Campbell were brilliant, and the whole team was fine. Neill, M'Cue, and possibly Farnsworth and Grundie were the best of the Blues. For their consistent play throughout the whole season Newtown deserved their success; but Eastern Suburbs were undoubtedly the finest team.

MESSENGER BENEFIT.

EASTERN SUBURBS BEAT NEWTOWN.

Played in pleasant weather, before a crowd of 5000 people, at the Agricultural Ground.

The teams were:—

Newtown.—Full-back, Neill; three-quarters, Nelson, Sparrow, Watson, and Munnery; halves, W. Farnsworth and Hayes; forwards, Barnett, Grundie, Noble, Murray, Morgan, and M'Cue.

Eastern Suburbs.—Full-back, Wiley; three-quarters, Messenger, D. Frawley, Campbell, and Bruce; halves, Dalton and Cody; forwards, Williams, Griffiths, White, M. Frawley, Green, and Pearce.

Mr. T. M'Mahon was referee.

Noble captained the Blues, and Messenger, who was greeted with applause, led the Tricolours.

Easts won the toss, and the Blues kicked off, with an easterly blowing across the field. Blues attacked, but a tricky run by Messenger relieved, and the premiers were soon defending vigorously, and a knock-on right in front of goal just saved them. In-and-out play, in which the Tricolour three-quarters figured brightly, followed, and then the premiers took their turn of attacking. The suburbanites staved them off, and returned to the attack, and Campbell, following his own kick fast, beat the Blues for the ball, and registered first try. Messenger added the extra points. A minute latter followed one of the finest pieces of play ever seen on the ground. Newtown had almost scored, when Messenger took hold, and rushed out, dodging half a dozen of the Blues. Then a great passing rush took the ball the whole length of the field. The ball flew from Messenger to Williams, to Griffiths to Campbell to Bruce, back to Griffiths to Cody, who, amid frantic cheering, scored between the posts. The cheers were renewed when Messenger added the points, and made the score 10 to nil. Shortly afterwards the Tricolours came again, and D. Frawley outpaced the field, and scored again. Once again the champion made good, and the premiers were 15 points to the bad. Play quietened for a spell, the ball hovering in mid-field, and Easts took it easy after their great rush. Greshler then came on in place of Sparrow, who retired with an injured leg. Then Newtown had an easy chance at goal, but Hayes' kick was weak. Blues kept up the pressure, and at last Greshler struggled over. Munnery's kick went wide, and the score at half-time was Eastern Suburbs 15, Newtown 3.

Immediately on resuming Easts came with a passing rush, and Dalton cross-kicked to Coady, who passed to Campbell to Griffiths, who dashed over the line. Messenger did a great kick, and made the score 20 to 3. Keeping up the pressure the Red, White, and Blues once more worked over, the parties responsible, Dalton, Bruce, and Griffiths. Another great kick by Messenger from the wing saw the ball hit the post and land over the bar, and the premiers were hopelessly in the rear with only three points to East's 25. The Tricolours could not go wrong now, and the three-quarter line moved with the machine-like precision of internationals. D. Frawley was the next to score from a passing rush, and the string of goals was broken; Messenger failing from a difficult angle. The score was now 28 to 3, and the crowd waxed facetious at the expense of the premiers. Gentle suggestions of a "cricket" score were thrown out, and this spurred the Blues to renewed effort. For a while they attacked, and a couple of ineffectual attempts were made at goal-kicking. But soon again Suburbanites were in the ascendant, and D. Frawley streaked for home with the Blue backs nowhere. Messenger again got there, and the board showed 33 to 3. At length, however, the Premiers got going, and a rush by Grundy, Murray, and M'Cue resulted in a try, and the game ended with the score 33 to 6 in favour of Eastern Suburbs. Dally Messenger was carried shoulder-high from the field, while the Newtown Band played "Jolly Good Fellow."

SYDNEY III. v JUNIORS.

The early match at the Agricultural Ground was between Sydney III., the third-grade premiers, and a representative team of juniors. Some interest was shown in the fixture on account of the presence with the juniors of young Messenger, for whom a brilliant football future has been predicted. He kicked a good goal, and performed creditably in the three-quarter line. His work, which led to Fraser's second try, was excellent. Fraser is also a most promising recruit.

In the first half Fraser secured a good try for the Juniors, while Berriman got two goals and Messenger one. For Sydney Smith kicked a goal, and the score was 9 to 2. In the second half Abbott scored a try for Sydney, and Fraser and Kaufman for the Juniors. The game ended in a victory for the Juniors by 15 points to 5.

PYRMONT v ULTIMO CHURCH.

This match was played at Epping (Forest Lodge), and resulted in a win for Pyrmont by 8 goals to nil. Macleay (3), Cruni (2), M'Grath, and Hayward were the goal-kickers for the winners. W. Buchan, of Ultimo Church, also scored for them through a miskick, sending the ball into his own goal. The winners went through the season without a single defeat.

Sealed Handicap.

Mavis (F. W. Moppett), 5m ... 1
Airlie (G. Blackman), 10m ... 2
Gipsy (J. Walford), 5m ... 3
Thalassa (Geo. Asher), 17m ... 4

Other starters: Ayesha (H. Scott), 2m; Clio (G. Hogan), 5m; Maggie (F. Danley), 5m; Ivy (R. Crawford), scratch; and Native Rose (F. Thornton), 9m.

The start was a flying one, and the order over the line was Ayesha, Curlew, Thalassa, Gipsy, Ivy, followed by the others. On the beat to the Watson's Bay pilelight Mavis, Gipsy, and Thalassa worked the eastern shore, and did best. The order around the pilelight was Mavis, Gipsy, Ayesha, Airlie, Thalassa, Clio, Curlew. Ivy carried away her bumpkin when prominent, and Maggie and Native Rose started late and retired. The positions were unaltered at the finish, the times being:—Mavis, 4h 42m 5s; Gipsy, 4h 44m 30s; Ayesha, 4h 46m 45s; Airlie, 4h 52m 20s; Thalassa, 4h 56m 52s; Clio, 4h 56m 57s; Curlew, 5h 0m 5s.

After deducting handicaps Mavis won by the narrow margin of 15s from Airlie, which beat Gipsy by 3m 30s, with Thalassa only 2s behind her fourth.

ST. GEORGE CLUB.

The opening of the 1910-11 season of the St. George Sailing and Motor Boat Club is to take place on Saturday next, when a rendezvous will be held at Sans Souci. Several additions have been made to the fleet in 14-footers and 16ft skiffs, and it is anticipated that from 20 to 24 boats, independent of the motor craft, will take place in the manoeuvres.

SWIMMING.

BRONTE SURF AND LIFE-SAVING CLUB.

The Bronte Club celebrated the opening of their club-room by holding a social at the Oddfellows' Hall, Waverley. The secretary (Mr. Brooks), on behalf of the members, presented Mr. E. H. Morrison (captain) with a handsome memento in appreciation of his excellent work on behalf of the club.

WOOD-CHOPPING.

AXEMEN AND SAWYERS' CARNIVAL.

There was a good attendance at the axemen and sawyers' carnival on Saturday afternoon at the Waterloo Colliseum. W. Hannan, on the 4in-mark, won the first heat in the chop in 2m 31s. C. Heckenberg, who had a handicap of 10s, won the second easily. Time, 2m 5s. J. W. Heckenberg (N.S.W. champion), from scratch, chopped through his log in 1m 4s, beating Lloyd, of Queensland, by a few seconds, amid much excitement. Two boys named Higgins and Harvey won the sawing competition, their handicap of 20s being too much for Lloyd and Jenkins, who received 5s, and got through in the remarkably short space of 78s; whilst Lloyd and Eaves, the scratch men, occupied 19s in severing the wood.

The final of the wood-chopping competition was won by J. W. Heckenberg, in 2m 9s, thus beating his brother Colin, who toppled his log over shortly after his champion brother; whilst Hannan, notwithstanding his 4in start, was a long way behind. Owing to the champion spraining his ankle, the contest with the Victorian did not take place.

ANGLING.

AUSTRALASIAN CASTING CHAMPIONSHIP.

WON BY MR. C. H. GORRICK.

DR. H. L. MAITLAND BREAKS RECORD.

The Australasian fly-casting championship meeting was concluded on Saturday on the Centennial Park, and two notable feats were recorded. Mr. C. H. Gorrick won the championship for the third year in succession, and Dr. H. L. Maitland broke his own record for distance with a magnificent cast of 113ft 3in.

It was the fifth day of the championship, and the particular event which engaged attention on Saturday was distance casting, which was carried out under difficult weather conditions. A wind which quartered on the punt and created an awkward eddy about 80ft out made the work extremely difficult, and every man was tired after his 10 minutes. Two rounds were engaged in, but only four men improved in their second essay upon the figures they achieved in their first. The proceedings were ably handled by the judges, Messrs. J. W. Bradshaw and C. H. Chidgey and Dr. R. H. Jones. Mr. Bradshaw used an ingenious device for locating the fly and fixing the distance.

In the first round the results were: C. H. Gorrick, 109ft 7in; Dr. H. L. Maitland, 103ft 9in; H. S. Anderson, 104ft 2in; H. J. Solomon, 96ft 8in; W. E. Wilson, Tompson, 97ft 7in; D. Solomon, 90ft 9in; Dr. A. J. Brady, 89ft 2in; J. Scoular, 88ft.

In the second round Dr. Maitland improved, but only scored 75ft, and the following improved upon their first figures:—Dr. H. L. Maitland, 113ft 3in; H. S. Anderson, 108ft 2in; H. J. Solomon, 100ft; and J. Scoular, 88ft.

The points came out as follow: Dr. H. L. Maitland, 5; C. H. Gorrick, 4; H. S. Anderson, 3; H. J. Solomon, 2; and F. L. J. Tompson, 1. The aggregate points for the championship were therefore:—C. H. Gorrick, 18; Dr. Maitland, 16; H. S. Anderson, 12; D. Solomon, 9; Dr. Brady, 5; Dr. S. H. Hughes, 5; F. L. J. Tompson, 4; H. J. Solomon, 4; W. E. Wilson, 1.

Mr. Gorrick secures the Usher Cup for winning the championship three years in succession, and is giving another for future championships. Dr. Maitland beat his record of 112ft for distance put up last year by 1ft 3in. All the leading competitors used H. L. Leonard rods, and Dr. Maitland's rod was 10ft 11in long.

BILLIARDS.

KING'S BILLIARD HALL.

The King's Billiard Hall, next to the Agincourt Hotel, is to be opened this evening by Will Abotomey, the clever young professional, who will play an exhibition game with Bessell, the South Australian champion. Four standard tables have been installed by Messrs. Heiron and Smith.

ROBERTS DEFEATS WILLIAMS.

PERTH, Sunday.

Roberts, who conceded Williams 1250 in 7500, won the match by 1040. He made a magnificent break of 415 on Saturday night, his next best being 197. Williams showed good form at Friday's sessions, when he made breaks of 349, 249, 151, and 103, his average being a fraction under 46.
